WOMAN NO. 1—

Here's a Woman:— (Not old)—that cannot do all the things she would like to do. Why? Her feet hurt. Long before the day is over, her legs ache and draw. Early in the afternoon her back begins to ache—then her head aches. When the day is over, she is a physical and nervous wreck, glad to be in bed.

Now maybe after a night's sleep (if she gets a night's sleep) she hopes the day will bring her some body and foot comfort.

THE SECOND WOMAN—About the same age—used to suffer day after day like the first woman. Someone told her that feet out of balance and not properly supported sometimes cause leg pains—backaches— and followed by headaches and general nervousness.

BUT SHE INVESTIGATED and found that these things can be corrected. After wearing surgical shoes, the foot pains disappeared—Corns and callouses vanished—no more leg pains—no more back aches—no more headaches—and the world seemed bright again—Just like being born all over again. If YOU are suffering—don't put up with it another day—Investigate today. Your feet may be causing all your trouble—Adv.

IN LOVING MEMORY
Of my beloved husband, Bernard Jones, who passed away Oct. 3rd, 1939.

Before my eyes he faded slowly. Growing day by day more frail. Bearing sweetly all his sufferings. Without murmur, moan or wall.

Loving and kind in all his ways. Upright and just, to the end of his days.

Since, and true in his heart and mind. Beautiful memories he left behind. His gentle face and patient smile. With sadness I recall.

He had a kindly word for each. And died beloved by all. His loving wife Lottie.

7,070 KENTUCKY FAMILIES ON WAY TO DEBT-FREE HOMES, DUE TO HOLC

More than 7,070 Kentucky families, refinanced by the Home Owners Loan Corporation when they faced the loss of their homes through foreclosure only a few years ago, today are clearly on their way to debt-free home ownership, or already have achieved that goal.

Of these borrowers, HOLC State Manager, John P. Davis, reported today, 1,144 have paid in $2,959,025 to cross off their debts in full. Some 5,928 others either are entirely current, less than three months in arrears, or are meeting all current bills and, in addition, making regular monthly payments to liquidate their arrearages.

"Still 733 others are making adjusted payments sufficient to keep their accounts active and we expect the great majority to rehabilitate themselves," said Mr. Davis. "Considering that the average borrower was two years delinquent in both principal and interest and between two and three years on taxes when he was refinanced, the record proves that what most of our borrowers needed was only a fair chance—embodied in long-term loans at a low interest rate—to overcome the hardships the depression forced upon them."

In all, Kentucky borrowers have paid back $7,450,253, or approximately 28.8% of their entire principal indebtedness.

The other side of the picture—the manner in which the Corporation is liquidating the properties it has been forced to acquire and which came to it through voluntary deed or abandonment—also was given by Mr. Davis.

The HOLC now owns 592 homes in Kentucky and, in addition, has sold 727, of which 353 were sold last year. These homes were sold for $2,392,017, about $613,200 below their capitalized values—representing a book loss of $843 a home in addition to selling costs, including commissions of $140,097.

"But into that capitalized value was written not only the unpaid balance of the mortgage loan, including unpaid advances and, in some cases, delinquent taxes, which may amount to hundreds of dollars, foreclosure costs, and the costs of repair and reconditioning," said Mr. Davis. "In other words, the cost of leniency—of giving the borrower a chance to pull through—is represented in the book loss the figures show. Sales costs appear in the operating expenses of the Corporation, paid out of its own revenues. They represent, for the most part, the cost of paying brokers who handle our properties at set minimum fees."

The homes the HOLC still owns, capitalized at $2,945,971, according to Mr. Davis, have a present estimated market value of $3,377,584.

"But merely to say that the Corporation is 'losing money' in the amount of loss it takes on its sales of homes is like saying a business is losing money because one department shows a loss," said Mr. Davis. "The HOLC could hardly be expected to sell foreclosed homes—many of them run down and needing extensive repairs, all burdened with unpaid taxes—at a profit. Every mortgage institution loses money on the sale of foreclosed homes and makes up for it on its good loans."

"Each month the Corporation sets aside reserves, and its losses together with operating expenses, are being met through the 'spread' between the interest it receives on its loans and the lower interest it must pay on its bonds."

The HOLC granted 9,233 loans in Kentucky prior to the close of its lending period in June, 1936, amounting to $25,328,811. To give a comparison on the performance of Kentucky borrowers with those in the rest of the country, Mr. Davis offered the following figures:

The HOLC made more than 1,000,000 loans, amounting to approximately $3,000,000,000, throughout the nation. Borrowers have paid back $700,000,000 or 21.8% of the principal indebtedness, while 65,000 borrowers have paid in $155,000,000 to cancel their debts in full. Some 639,401 borrowers are current, less than three months in arrears, or liquidating their arrearages, while 135,515 others are making adjusted payments. The Corporation has sold 80,824 homes to date—it now is disposing of them at a rate of more than 4,000 a month—and still owns 77,229, some 10,389 less than were on its books six months ago. Book losses on sales to date have averaged $975. Foreclosures dropped in November to 409, as compared with 8,000 foreclosures monthly in the late summer and fall of 1936.

SAYS SHADE TREES NEED NO PRUNING

N. R. Elliott, landscape specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, advises home owners not to prune shade trees. For the most part, he says shade trees around the home are what might be called self-pruning. "Altogether too common is the belief that shade trees must be mutilated every spring," says Prof. Elliott. "All one has to do is look around to see trees that have been so damaged that they never can recover. One sees stubs that were once beautiful branches. Around the cut tends are flood of small limbs, and often decay has set in, and in a few years the tree will be dead."

"Every spring men go about communities convincing home owners that their trees should be pruned. Such men measure the effectiveness of their work by the amount of brush they remove. As a matter of fact, the trees that are left unpruned are the ones that become the beautiful trees over a long period of years."

The soft or water maples are the trees most generally pruned on account of the belief that they must be headed back every year or two. While it is true that this tree is rather soft, nevertheless when left alone and not pruned it grows into a rather large beautiful tree. Look around and plenty of them can be seen that never have been pruned."

ROAST FISH GOOD; PRICE REASONABLE

Fork prices now are considered reasonable, as a result of the abundance of hogs. Roast fresh pork is especially popular on cold days, and most any cut of pork is easy to roast because the meat is usually tender.

A statement from the Kentucky College of Agriculture says pork loin roast is especially easy to handle and may be purchased in a size to suit almost any family. Fresh ham also makes an excellent roast, and even the shoulder is easy to care when the bone is removed and replaced by a savory stuffing. If paired sections of spareribs are filled with delicious when roasted.

Good roasts are tender throughout, with a brown crust on the outside and juicy meat inside. To get the roast done to this "perfect turn," thorough cooking at a moderate temperature is recommended. Be sure to cook pork until there is no trace of pink in the juice, in order to kill the trichina parasite, which is sometimes present.

Pork is roasted on the rack of a shallow open roasting pan without water. Use a constant moderate temperature of 400 degrees until the outside is light brown (20 to 30 minutes), and then quickly reduce the temperature to 300 to 325 degrees.

The length of time for roasting is about the same whether you start or not. From 25 to 30 minutes per pound for a medium-sized loin roast. About 3 1/2 hours is required for a stuffed shoulder, weighing about 4 pounds. Stuffed spareribs are usually done in 1 1/2 hours.

CONSTANCE P. T. A. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Constance P. T. A. will be held Wednesday, April 17, at 2 p. m. The newly elected officers will be installed at this meeting. After adjournment, sandwiches, coffee, cake and lemonade will be sold for the benefit of the Kentucky Crippled Children's Society. Every body welcome.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE
Rice and Vegetable Timbale: 1/2 cup each of cooked rice, peas and carrots, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 egg yolk. Make sauce of milk, butter flour, salt, egg yolk and add cooked rice, peas and carrots. Put in individual baking dishes; set in pan of hot water and bake in oven at 400 degrees, until mixture is firm.

RE-ARRANGEMENT OF KITCHEN SUGGESTED

Farm women can, with thought and ingenuity, reorganize and re-plan their kitchens to meet family needs better, make the workshop bright and pleasant with color and at the same time labor-saving. This is according to Miss Laura Deephouse, who has charge of home management studies in the home economics department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

To be technical about it, there are the U-shaped, the wall kitchen the L-shaped and several other types of kitchens today. Still, it is not necessary to be technical to improve the home kitchen, Miss Deephouse believes. She offers the following suggestions:

Have well in mind the work to be done, as preparing foods, cleaning afterwards, sometimes laundry work, etc.

Plan a separate surface for the larger tasks, such as storage of food, preparing food, and stacking and washing dishes. These should be arranged in a step-saving sequence that will meet the order of work being done.

Especially is it desirable that the working area be compact, with only enough room for the worker to move around comfortably and efficiently.

Place the equipment at convenient heights from the floor. For instance, no one should have to reach either up or down very much to reach the sink.

Small equipment should be grouped in the area where it will be most used.

ACRE YIELDS 2,348 POUNDS OF TOBACCO

Forest T. Minor of Boyle county, Ky., reports growing 2,348 pounds of Burley tobacco on one acre and selling the crop for $431.03. The land was in alfalfa, which had become about two-thirds bluegrass before being plowed for tobacco. No commercial fertilizer was used, but four tons of manure and 300 pounds of 20 percent phosphate were spread. The tobacco was set June 1, allowed to grow to full bloom before topping then the top two suckers were allowed to stand until cutting time. Harvesting started August and the tobacco was put in a barn equipped with a ridge ventilator of the type recommended by the State College of Agriculture. No artificial heat was needed in the curing.

FARM LEADER TO LOUISVILLE FOR CREDIT MEETING

A. Threlkeld, Corinth, Ky., President of the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association at Williamstown, Ky., will represent Kentucky farmers at a two day farm credit conference to be held at Louisville, Ky., April 8 and 9.

Sponsored by the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville, the meeting is being held to discuss methods of extending the services of local cooperative production credit associations to more farmers having a sound basis for the profitable use of credit.

In addition to the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association, Mr. Threlkeld will represent the Central Ky. Association of Lexington, Ky.; the Flemingsburg Association; the Cumberland Association of London, Ky.; the Big Sandy Association of Paintsville, Ky.; and the Danville Association. He was selected to represent the group at a district conference of association directors held last fall. Representatives of seven other districts in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee will attend the two-day meeting at Louisville.

"Production credit associations are entering their seventh year of successful operation," Mr. Threlkeld said. "By providing dependable credit geared to the needs of farmers at a reasonable cost, production credit associations are endeavoring to help members improve their financial condition."

"The associations are run to serve the credit needs of farmers rather than to make a profit. This permits each loan to be made on an individual basis fitted to the needs of the particular farm business being financed."

This publication, a 50-page booklet done in rotogravure with occasional full color illustrations, is widely recognized as ranking among the best such state magazines published. It goes to public libraries, to schools, automobile clubs, civic organizations, tourist camps and to many individuals in every state in the Union.

Kentuckians will find much of interest in the forthcoming Derby edition, which includes features about the Mountain Laurel Festival, Simpson County's Mule Day, activities of the State Game and Fish Division, the First Race Track in Kentucky, Tours for Derby Visitors, Kentucky's Highway 31E, the State Capitol and the annual Garden Club tour.

Gayety Theater
NewsTONIGHT AND FRIDAY
(Two Big Features)

Tonight and Friday the Gayety will show two big features "Honey-moon's Over" and "Inspector Hangle on Holiday."

Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver are featured in this hilarious domestic comedy by 20th Century-Fox. "The Honey-moon's Over." The film is chuckle-full of incidents, accidents, experiences, adventures and no end of hearty laughs. Stuart realizes the Honey-moon's Over when he can't make the income come in faster than the outgo goes out, while Marjorie soon discovers the difference between romance in an office and love in a cottage. Of course Marjorie's cut in shorts but that doesn't pay the bills, and it takes a bubble bath to meet their troubles down to vanishing point!

SATURDAY
"South of the Border" will be the feature attraction at the Gay-ety Saturday. This is a splendid picture, full of thrills, and laughter. As added attraction there will be a cartoon, "Popular Science reel" and Chapter 7 of "Zorras Fighting Legion."

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
The picture "Earl of Chicago" is shown on the monthly calendar of the Gayety will not be shown but the "Great Victor Herbert" will be shown instead.

If "great" is the right word to describe Herbert and who have listened to his songs will deny it—it can also be safely applied to picture that now glorifies him. In its cast, story, background and selection of music, "The Great Victor Herbert" is a film that would surely suit the exacting taste of the maestro himself.

Realizing rightly that a story of Herbert's own career would not pack sufficient drama and excitement to make a great picture, Producer-Director Andrew Stone solved him problem nearly by building his film around Herbert's influence on the Broadway of his day and his beautiful friendship with a young actor and actress who rise to fame in his immortal operettas.

Starred in the picture are Lee Bowman, Judith Barrett, Susanna Foster and Allen Jones.

TUESDAY
"Chasing Danger" clear across the Sahara, a pair of camera daredevils run smack into romance—and an Arabian revolt—in 20th Century-Fox's hilarious, hair-raising film of the week.

Preston Foster is the dashing, daring American newsreel cameraman who rushes in where brave men fear to tread, and Wally Vernon is his comedy assistant and sidekick.

Lovely Lynn Bari is the beautiful siren who lures them into all sorts of entanglements. Actually a spy and the sweetheart of a financier who is backing the revolt with stolen millions, she risks her neck and theirs too in the course of a thousand breath-taking adventures.

WED., THURS., AND FRIDAY,
April 11, 12th and 13th
"Gulliver's Travels" mightiest of all full-length cartoon pictures in eye-widening, glorious technicolor—the amazing adventure of the shipwrecked Gulliver in the land of the Lilliputians. 25,000 of the most lovable little folk you've ever seen... eight hit songs... pulse-racing spectacle in the new third-dimensional technique... it's the most wonderful two hours of entertainment the screen has ever known! Meet Prince David and Princess Glory... the most majestic monarchs, King Little and King Bombo... Gabby, the tiny but terrific town crier... the three spies, Sneak, Snoop, and Snitch... Twinkletoes, the carrier pigeon... Hear the hits that everybody's humming: "Faithful Forever," "Bluebirds in the Moonlight," "I Hear a Dream," "We're All Together Now," "All's Well," "Faithful," "Forever" and "It's a Hap, Hap, Hap, Happy Day!"

F. F. A. BANQUET SUCCESS

The Hebron F. F. A. club sponsored a father and son banquet Wednesday night, April 3rd. The members and their fathers spent a pleasant evening with the guests and speaker, Mr. Watson Armstrong from the University of Kentucky. The local guests were Mr. Morris, County Supt., Mr. Riley, County Attorney and Mr. Goodridge, Hebron school principal.

The banquet was begun by a song by the whole group. The invocation was given by Mr. Goodridge.

The F. F. A. members held the opening ceremony of their chapter after which Harold Williams, the club president turned the meeting over to Robert Grant, the toastmaster.

The welcome address was given by Mr. Goodridge.

The F. F. A. quartet sang three songs on the program.

The chapter activities were explained by Russell Conrad before the main course. Following the meal A. E. Whitaker spoke on the good of the F. F. A. in the eyes of a graduate. He mentioned the fact that the club brought him into closer contact with the school and the field of agriculture in which he is interested.

A poem was given by Lehman Hollis entitled "Future Farmers of America."

John Pierce presented the local guests of the evening which have been mentioned above. The main part of the evening was given by Watson Armstrong who spoke on "Father and Son Relationship."

The main duty of the father to the son is to train him that he may carry on in his father's place. A father should give his son a responsibility that he may be taught to work and do his work well. As Mr. Armstrong said, "It is as hard for a person to loaf that has learned to work as it is for a person to get the most enjoyment out of spending money he has earned himself than spending his father's money."

Mr. Armstrong mentioned the fact that the farm practice program which is taught in the Vocational Agricultural class is experimented with at home by those taking the course. This gives them experience and practice with the best proven methods of farming.

The next feature of the program was a song by the F. F. A. quartet.

The meeting was brought to a close with the final ceremonies of the F. F. A. Chapter.

The members and fathers present were as follows: Harold R. Williams, Mr. E. Williams, John Randall, E. J. Randall, Lawrence Barnes, Mr. Barnes; Louis Hossman, Mr. F. Hossman, Lehman Hollis, W. P. Hollis, Russell Conrad, Mr. Conrad, Chester Grant, Jr., Mr. C. Grant, Sr., D. G. Grant, Robert Grant, R. E. Grant, Junior Birkle, T. Birkle, Joe Hogan, J. Hogan, Wm. Holliday, Mr. Holliday, Jack Getker, Mr. Getker, Mr. Witham, James Huey, F. F. A. advisor, John Pierce, Mr. Pierce and associate member and fathers, Chester Edwards, Mr. O. T. SEE POSSIBILITIES

IN NEGLECTED LAND
Better use of neglected land might add $400,000 a year to farm incomes in Grant county, Kentucky, or could permit reducing tobacco production by 2,400 acres, according to calculations made by community and poultry planning committees.

In reviewing the report of the planners, Richard M. Sandefur, assistant county agent, notes that 23 percent of the land in the county is listed as "neglected land." This area of 36,800 acres, now producing practically no income, if brought to average production, says Mr. Sandefur, would pasture 4,900 cattle and 12,150 sheep. This stock, he continues, at average prices would return $413,000, which would about equal the return from 2,400 acres of tobacco.

To prove the value of reclaimed neglected land, the planning committees suggested demonstrations in several parts of the county. Brush and rock will be cleared off, a cultivated crop grown one year and then grass and clover mixtures sowed. In some instances, grass and clover will be seeded immediately and no cultivated crop used. Both methods include mowing after seeding to help control brush and weeds.

One of the outstanding problems in Grant county, according to the report of the planning committees, is the large acreage of neglected land that is not producing profitable returns to owners.

23 INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED

BY GRAND JURY AFTER EXAMINING SIXTY WITNESSES AND BEING IN SESSION FIVE DAYS.

After being in session five days, the Boone County grand jury impaneled for the April term of circuit court returned a total of 23 indictments, most of which were against operators of road houses for selling beer on Sunday.

Judge Yager dismissed the grand jury Tuesday after this body had inspected all county property. They reported that all county property was in excellent condition, and recommended that a few of the offices in the court house be redecorated and a few minor repairs made. They praised the splendid management of county affairs during the past year.

A recess from Tuesday until Saturday was ordered by Judge Yager, at which time all business for the present term of court will be completed.

Several civil cases were heard during the session and were disposed of early in the session.

The petit jury was in session only three days, being called for the days set for definite trials.

Archie Vines, sentenced to one year in the state reformatory on a charge of chicken stealing, and asked to be probated, was sent to LaGrange to serve his sentence after the case was investigated by A. P. Bishop, state probation and parole officer.

Mrs. Reeves Cuneo, of near Constance, was sentenced the past week to one year in the state reformatory on a charge of possessing stolen goods. Her sentence was recommended for probation and the case was referred to A. P. Bishop, state probation and parole officer.

FIRE DESTROYS HOLIDAY HOME

ONLY SMALL AMOUNT OF CLOTHING AND FURNITURE SAVED—LOSS ESTIMATED AT $2,000.

Fire completely destroyed the five-room frame home of Mark Holliday, Idlewild, early Wednesday morning following an explosion of a coal oil stove in the kitchen.

It was stated that the stove had been leaking for several days, and repair had been neglected. As Mrs. Holliday attempted to light the stove Wednesday morning the flame spread rapidly over the entire kitchen. The husband had gone to the barn and the phone being out of order made it impossible to get help immediately. The Hebron Fire Department was called by a neighbor, but their efforts to save the structure was small due to headway gained by the flames. The building was burned to the ground in about one and one-half hours.

The estimated loss was set at $2,000 which was insured with the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone County for $100,000, both building and furnishings.

FARM WOMEN PLAN INTERESTING MEETING AT LEXINGTON

New Haven Seniors Will Present Play Friday, April 26th

The New Haven Senior class is rehearsing an excellent three-act comedy entitled "Who Said Quit?" which is scheduled for production Friday, April 26th, 7:30 P. M. at the Lexington High School.

The plot of "Who Said Quit?" is a particularly strong and interesting one. Young Dr. Jack knocked down a rich bull, and that bull knocked his own career into kingdom come. Even the girl he loves is engineered into an engagement with the rich bully. Robbed of everything he wanted, the young doctor goes his hot-headed way, and at last he gets another chance. This time he's going to keep cool. But again he acts first and thinks afterwards. The results make a whirlwind ending.

This cast: The hot-headed doctor, Virgil Guiley; his delightfully plain-spoken aunt, Mary Smith; a whimsical old fellow who's in love with the aunt, Robert Stephenson; a giggling girl, who makes eyes at the doctor, Ruth Edwards; and slow-going Fritz, who makes eyes at the girl, Joe Besterman; the rich bully, Howard Stephenson; his pompous uncle, George Black; a blonde actress, Catherine Gilman; the girl Dr. Jack loves, Dorothy Haley; and her haughty mother, Jean Besterman. Coach, Miss Rebecca Sleet.

Produced by special arrangement with "The Dramatic Publishing Co." Be sure to see "Who Said Quit?" April 26th.

POTASH TO BE DEMONSTRATED

IN COUNTY ON TWENTY-ONE PLOTS, ACCORDING TO H. B. DRAKE, ASSISTANT COUNTY AGENT.

Twenty-one demonstrations using Muriate of Potash as a top-dressing on hay and pasture crops will be started this spring, according to H. B. Drake, Assistant County Agent.

Twenty-nine farmers in Boone County have been conducting demonstrations using limestone and phosphate since 1936. Seventeen of these demonstrators started new demonstrations last fall. Each of the demonstrations include a plot with no fertilizer treatment, one with limestone only, one with phosphate only, and a plot using both limestone and phosphate. These plots will be treated with Muriate of Potash to determine the possibilities offered by this important fertilizing.

Four additional plots will be established on alfalfa, element to determine the results which may be expected on this legume.

Experiments conducted by the University of Kentucky indicate that after several years of using phosphate and lime, lack of potash in the soil becomes the limiting factor in crop production. These demonstrations should determine if such a situation exists in Boone County soils.

UNLESS ENROLLMENT IS INCREASED FOR NEXT SCHOOL YEAR—THREE SCHOOLS AFFECTED BY NEW LAW

Two Boone County Class B schools, New Haven and Hamilton face the danger of closing, provided their enrollment is not increased before the 1940-41 school term, according to the State Manual of Organization for High Schools.

Walton, a Class A school also faces the danger of being lowered to a class B school unless enrollment is increased. Hebron, another class A school will remain in this bracket, having the sufficient number enrolled, it was disclosed.

Requirements for class A and class B schools are given in the Manual of Organization for High Schools, as follows:

"Class A High Schools—Four-year high schools (grades 9-12) and three-year senior high schools (grades 10-12) at least one full-time teacher and have a bona fide enrollment of at least one hundred pupils.

"Six-year high schools (grades 7-12) shall employ at least seven full-time teachers and have a bona fide enrollment of at least one hundred and fifty pupils, sixty of which shall be enrolled in grades 9, 10, 11 and 12.

"Class B High Schools—Four-year high schools (grades 9-12) shall employ at least three full-time teachers and have a bona fide enrollment of not fewer than eighty-five pupils, sixty of which shall be enrolled in grades 9, 10, 11 and 12.

Schools now accredited with fewer pupils than here required for Class A and Class B ratings will be given until the beginning of the school year 1940-41 to meet the requirements of this section.

"No school shall be accredited which maintains a school term of fewer than 176 days exclusive of all vacations and holidays.

Three federal judges upheld the constitutionality of the Kentucky law authorizing the seizure of liquor by state authorities at a hearing in Cincinnati last Friday.

The entry, however, will not be placed on the books at Covington until May 7, in order to give the plaintiff sufficient time in which to file an amended petition.

The suit grew out of the seizure of a truck load of liquor belonging to David J. Pleason, Calro, Ill., distiller, and the arrest of the driver, Albert Hageman, Crescent Springs at Florence, November 28th.

Action was filed by Mr. Pleason against Clyde W. Reeves, Kentucky revenue commissioner. The liquor valued at $13,790 and seized by federal agents and state police, was destined for Louisville.

Mr. Pleason charged that the law making the seizure possible is unconstitutional. Concurring in its constitutionality were Judges Elwood Hamilton, John H. Druffel and Mac Swinford.

MICAHA'S VISION OF PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Micah 4:1-5; 5:2-5a. GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.—Micah 4:3.

Peace on earth! Why, that is hardly more than a phrase which we recall at Christmastime as we think of the song of the angels. Yet now is the time to assure people that there will be peace on earth.

Peacekeepers will be as silent as mice. Let us men about the real peace which will come when the Prince of Peace sets up His kingdom. Let us urge upon them the glad acceptance of His personal kingship in their hearts that they may even now know peace within.

Micah warned Judah that their rejection of God and His love would bring them sorrow and judgment. In the midst of his message, however, he broke forth into a glowing prophecy of the glory that is to come during the reign of the Messiah, the Prince of Peace.

I. The Foundation of Peace—God's Word (4:1, 2). Vainly do men labor to bring about a lasting peace built upon the words of men, for the moment there seems to be gain in repudiating promises given in the greatest of solemnity, they become mere scraps of paper. There is no security in such words, nor in the guns and battleships used to support or to break them.

God's Word, the teaching of His law, walking in His paths—here is the foundation for real peace. Micah speaks of the time "in the last days" when the people of the earth shall go up to God's house to hear His Word and to learn to walk in His ways. To that blessed and holy day we look forward with anticipation and joy even as we now bring men the message of Christ's redemption and His peace.

II. The Prince of Peace—Jesus Christ (4:3-5). This beautiful portion of God's Word (and such parallel passages as Isa. 2:1-5; 11:1-12) gathers together the longing and hopes of peace-loving men of every age. Perfect justice, the end of all wars, prosperity for peaceful pursuits, boys no longer learning warfare, complete social security, universal worship of God—what a thrilling promise!

Will it ever come true? Yes. When? In the "latter days" (v. 1, R. V.). Who has made such a promise? God Himself. Who will bring it about? God's Son, the Prince of Peace, who will come to "judge between many people."

Why will men be so blind to the "sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place" (II Pet. 1:19)? Why will we reject Him who is "the day star" (II Pet. 1:19; Rev. 22:16) and who is even now ready to "arise in your hearts"?

III. His Coming—As Saviour (5: 2, 3). This remarkable Messianic prophecy gave more than 2,000 years before the birth of Christ the exact place of His birth, so closely identified as to make both the prophecy and its fulfillment a testimony to the inspiration of the Bible. Note that this was the passage with which the priests and scribes answered the question of Herod (Matt. 2:1, 4-6) regarding the place where the Messiah was to be born.

Thus the coming ruler of Israel, the Judge of all peoples, the Prince of Peace, is none other than the Lord Jesus who was born into this world as the Babe of Bethlehem—"a Saviour . . . Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:11). Israel rejected Him and He had to "give them up" (v. 3), but the time will come when they shall see Him as their King.

IV. His Reign—As King (5:4, 5a). "This man shall be our peace" (v. 5, R. V.). He it is who "shall be great unto the ends of the earth" (v. 4); and that can be said of no man in all history except of Him of whom we sing,

Jesus shall reign where'er the sun
Does his successive journeys run;
His kingdom stretch from shore to shore
Till moons shall wax and wane no more.
—Isaac Watts.

His shall not be the reign of a despot, for we read that "He shall feed his flock in the strength of Jehovah" (v. 4, R. V.). His enemies and the enemies of God the Father must be put down, but His people will find Him to be the tender "good shepherd" who "giveth his life for the sheep" (John 10:11). He is that new to every believer. Sinner, why not take Him now as your Saviour, your Good Shepherd, and join with His people in looking for His coming as King?

Opposition Helps. Efforts against the truth sometimes help its progress; the seal and the guard only make it more clear that the Savior rose from the dead.—Broadus.

There are probably a lot of political candidates who are secretly practicing carrying water on both shoulders.

We haven't heard of anybody in Europe crying "Uncle" yet!

Posture From The Ground Up

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison

The shape of the body is maintained by a frame work of bones fastened together at the joints by ligaments. Muscles attached to the bones by tendons help to hold the bones in place and move the movable ones. The strong flexible column of bones known as the spine or backbone is the great supporting center of the body.

From the ground up, body balance depends upon the even distribution of weight about an imaginary center axis. Whenever you move, many different sets of muscles, bones, and joints function as levers in adjusting the weight masses of the body so that you can keep your balance. While standing or sitting, movement may be so slight that it is barely noticeable. In playing strenuous games, such as tennis or football, thousands of adjustments must be made at high speed.

The feet play a very—very—important part in body balance as they support the entire weight of the body both in standing and in moving and hold it upright against the downward pull of gravity.

Feet—distorted in shoes and weak shanked shoes, that do not hold the bones in posture—make it impossible to maintain body balance. Unbalance can cause many ills and distress in remote parts of the body. Backaches, headaches, and even nervousness or poor digestion may be caused by the shoes you are now wearing.—Adv.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT BEER AND BREWING

100 INDUSTRIES BENEFIT FROM BEER AND ALE

Did you know that the return of beer and ale brought increased business to more than 100 industries? It did. Services and materials were needed. New jobs were made for workers.

NATURE MAKES BEER!

A simple natural process produces beer and ale from water, malted grain and hops. The brewer applies his skill to help give these beverages their fine taste.

BEER'S TAXES—$1,000,000 A DAY—COULD PAY FOR GRAND COULEE DAM IN 186 DAYS

Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia river will be the most massive structure ever built by man. Beer's taxes—Federal, State and local—could quickly pay for it.

WHY BEER IS THE BEVERAGE OF MODERATION

Beer's alcoholic content is very low... lower than any other alcoholic beverage. That is why it is called "the beverage of moderation." You are not likely to get in trouble if you stick to beer.

BOUGHT BY BEER AND ALE: 25 BILLION POUNDS OF FARM PRODUCTS. Steadily, year after year, the brewing industry gives American farmers a big order for farm products. That's a help farmers appreciate.

"CLEAN-UP OR CLOSE-UP" A NEW PLAN TO PROTECT BEER RETAILING

One of the most interesting things about beer and ale is the brewing industry's program to keep retailing wholesome. This program is now in effect in a number of states. It is being extended. We want you to know about it. Write for booklet, United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th St., New York, N. Y.

Beer has been brewed since the beginnings of recorded history in many parts of the world. It was known in ancient Egypt, in China, and the Euphrates valley.

Oscar Neu, 43, of Huginsport, Ohio, suffered serious injuries Tuesday, when the sleeve of his jacket was caught in a shaft on the boat which he was working. He suffered a compound fracture of the right arm and both feet were badly mangled. Dr. Yelton, attending physician, stated that it would be necessary that they be amputated.

COUNTY EXCEEDS PHOSPHATE GOAL

IN COUNTY AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM OF WORK PLANNED THIS YEAR, SAYS COUNTY AGENT.

The County goal of 500 tons of phosphate for use on soil-building crops has been exceeded by 505 tons, according to H. E. Forner, County Agent. The goal was set by the county soils improvement and A. A. A. committees in the County Agricultural Improvement Program of Work planned early this year.

Farmers to date have ordered 407.5 tons of 47 per cent superphosphate and 151 tons of 20 per cent superphosphate for use on soil conserving crops through the Agricultural Conservation Program. Phosphate has proven one of the most valuable soil fertilizers for securing and maintaining better stands of grass and legume crops. It should be used in connection with agricultural limestone and a light covering of manure where a complete, low cost soil treatment program is desired.

Phosphate of 20 per cent test is available for use on soil-conserving crops in lieu of cash payments through the A. C. P. The 47 per cent test available supply has been already ordered and will be delivered to farmers between now and August 31st. Farmers desiring 20 per cent phosphate should file their orders through the County A. C. Erosion Controlled

Grass In Boone County

The prominence given grass in erosion control work in Boone County is explained by numerous experiments showing that a good grass cover reduces loss of water 20 percent or more, as compared to cultivated land, according to Ward T. Darnell, Camp Superintendent.

Pasture vegetation holds the soil decreases the velocity and the movement of run-off water on slopes, and increases the organic matter content of the soil. Mr. Darnell said, in enumerating principles of establishing and maintaining good pasture.

"Organic matter makes a more fertile topsoil and adds to the absorptive capacity," he said. "Aside from these qualities of good pasture, it is the cheapest known feed available for livestock." "Grass is the first requirement of a good pasture. The chief permanent plants in Boone, Kenton, and Grant counties are Kentucky bluegrass and certain clovers and legumes, all of which require considerably more lime than is available in the average pasture land. Phosphorus is probably the second most important fertilizing element in pastures."

Another plan nutrient that pastures require is nitrogen. Mr. Darnell explained. This element can be provided by seeding legumes in the pasture and by providing a large amount of organic material to the soil. Since clovers and legumes have the power of building up the nitrogen supply in the soil, these plants will in a season or two—make nitrogen available.

WOOL POOL PLANS LARGE SIGN-UP

LARGE PERCENT OF WOOL TO BE SIGNED UP BY NEXT COURT DAY—12,500 FLEECES SOLD LAST YEAR.

Boone County wool growers are attempting to get a large percent of all wool signed up in the county pool by next court day, Monday, May 6th, according to H. E. White, president of the County pool. Last year the pool marketed 12,500 fleeces weighing 68,133 pounds for 357 percent. This represents over 90 percent of all wool produced in the county.

The county pool is a non-profit organization of farmers producing wool who elect from their number a sales committee and a sign-up committee. The sales committee receives a list of the farmers wishing to pool their wool and the total number of fleeces. All leading buyers are then notified that the pool will be offered for sale under sealed bids to the highest bidder. The crop is sold and delivered to the buyer at three convenient points, Walton, Burlington and Petersburg. Each producer's wool is weighed and paid for in full at the time of delivery. The pool thus renders a profitable service, both to the buyer and the seller.

The pool usually sells for a one or two-cent advance over the regular market price. The Boone County pool is probably the oldest and most successfully operated in the state.

All wool producers who have not already signed up are urged to sign up with their local committee immediately. ROUTES FOR NEW U. S. 25 STUDIED

TWO SURVEYS MADE FOR PROPOSED NEW FOUR-LANE ROAD FROM COVINGTON TO WILLIAMSTOWN.

Preliminary surveys are nearly completed for two proposed routes for a four-lane highway between Covington and Williamstown, Geo. S. Lyon, district highway engineer revealed Tuesday.

Mr. Lyon and surveyors of the State Highway Department office in Covington, have been working the past six months, establishing the best route for the proposed four-lane roadway.

One of the two routes surveyed follows almost exactly, with only minor changes to eliminate bad curves or grades, the present Dixie Highway (U. S. 25). The other is near, but not on the Dixie route, Mr. Lyon said.

When final drafts of the preliminary surveys are completed and approved by the State Highway Department they will be presented Fiscal Courts in Kenton, Boone and Grant counties.

At that time, future action will depend upon the ability of the various counties concerned to obtain rights-of-way needed for the new route. It was explained.

After that it will be necessary for the state to allot the money, or a big portion of it, for the work.

Four-H Girls Visited By State Specialist

Four-H club girls made plans to paper, paint and make slip covers and general improvements to their room last week. Each 4-H girl enrolled in the room improvement project was visited by Miss Maye Tutchinson, 4-H project specialist and Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

After the room had been so improved, the 4-H members, by the specialist and 4-H members, recommendations were made for the girls' project. The girls planned for improvement of the background, furniture and accessories in their room. Scrapbooks will be kept by the girls instead of the regular record book.

The following girls are enrolled in the project: Elaine Gardner, Walton R. 2, Florence Club; Mary Belle Smith, Burlington R. 2, Burlington Club; Helen Anderson, Burlington, R. 1, Hebron Club; Jeanette Edwards, Union R. 1, of Hamilton Club; Lonsdale Ryle, Union R. 1, Hamilton Club; Dorothy Lee Shinkle, Union R. 1, Hamilton Club; Billy Wilson, Union R. 1, Hamilton Club.

CORN GRADER IS PURCHASED

BY BOONE COUNTY HYBRID CORN GROWERS' ASSOCIATION LEADS IN HYBRID SEED CORN PRODUCTION.

Boone County hybrid seed corn breeders have cooperatively purchased the latest type seed corn grader the uniformly divides seed into six distinct grades or sizes. This grader is electrically operated as all the other machinery used by the association. The local association is attempting to produce only the outstanding hybrid varieties and to put a better and more uniform seed package on the market.

Boone County is the leading Northern Kentucky county in hybrid seed corn production. Growers produced approximately 500 bushels of double-crossed seed for sale this year. Better than 40 percent of this seed has already been sold. Out-of-county farmers are buying a large percentage of this corn, and local farmers are urged to place their orders now before the supply is exhausted.

Best adapted hybrid varieties have been consistently given farmers from fifteen to thirty percent higher yield and higher quality of corn. Members of the Boone County Hybrid Seed Corn Growers' Association are: Wiltson Stephens, B. C. Stephens, John E. Crigler, Lloyd Siekman and William H. Moore.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE In our world today, those with wealth and high position are the more highly honored—not that these are wrong in themselves, for God gives man the ability to win these, and blesses the winners and the users, if used right. But in the Bible the greatest and highest honor is in self-sacrificing service. The most highly honored was He, who said "Whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant; whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister." Let us then honor, love and draw on God's shepherds, these sixteen ministers of His Churches in Boone County in their effort and prayers through unity of spirit and contact in our churches, and John 17, read and re-read by her children, would make it seem not impossible for her to sound the "Last Chord" of Oneness of the Church, which means salvation to America, and maybe peace to the world.

What's in the kernel of this shell of an almond? And we see the mighty oak tree that comes from the small acorn dropped in the ground.

Here's a prayer:

"O Thou, who hast ordered this wondrous world and knoweth all things in earth and heaven, so fill our hearts with trust in Thee that by day and by night, at all times, in all seasons, we may commit, without fear those who are dear to us to Thy never-failing love, both in this life and the life to come."

er goods and novelty shop settings of "The Shop Around the Corner" the picture co-starring him with Margaret Sullivan, and which will be shown at the Gayety tonight and Friday. When Ernst Lubitch producer-director of the film complimented Stewart on his sales technique, the star recalled his early experience clerking in his father's Indiana, Pennsylvania, hardware store. Working behind the counter was a regular summer vacation job for Stewart when he was a Princeton undergraduate.

SATURDAY

An unusual and absorbing idea in bystery films comes to the Gayety with 20th Century-Fox's drama, "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk." From the outset of the film, when a murder is committed, the audience and the police know at once who committed the crime; the mystery is the identity of the killer and his motive. Confessing to the slaying, the murdered, who calls himself Joe Monday, refuses to speak another word even in his own defense. The result is a highly exciting story well played by Lloyd Nolan, Richard Clarke, Onslow Stevens, and Eric Blore, David Burton directed.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Just when Marjorie Main believed she had escaped illiterate characterizations, she is back, returning to the type of role that established her as one of the foremost actresses. When she was offered the role of Gertie, slovenly scrubwoman in Spencer Tracy's clinic in "I Take This Woman," she accepted heartily because of the importance of the role. Serving as Hedy Lamarr's third American screen appearance and her first for M-G-M, "I Take This Woman" will be shown Sunday and Monday.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY
Los Angeles' unemployment problem was solved as far as Latin-Americans were concerned when Producer Harry Sherman began filming his latest outdoor drama, "The Liano Kid!" To play extra roles in this story of intrigue and romance along the U. S.-Mexico frontier, he enlisted the services of several hundred Central and South American who were residing temporarily around the movie camp.

Even the star of the Paramount picture is a Latin American—Tito Guizar, the handsome young Mexican actor, who will be remembered for his performances in "The Big Broadcast of 1938," and other pictures. He is supported by Gale Sondergaard, Alan Mowbray, and Jane Clayton.

"Parole Fixer" third Paramount thrill film to stem from the source that inspired "Undercover Doctor" and "Persons in Hiding," is a mile-minute action carrying a convincing stamp of authenticity. The story is based on real incidents about real people, as related in a chapter of J. Edgar Hoover's factual book about federal crime detection, "Persons in Hiding." It deals with a live issue—the threat to law enforcement that can arise when state parole system become lax.

"Parole Fixer" is filmed for thrills, paced so that there's action on the screen every minute—by Director Robert Florey, who made "Disbarred" and "King of Alcatraz." Suspense is piled onto suspense; there's no let-up on the punches until the final denouement.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Once again Darryl F. Zanuck gives us a new picture, a comedy based on a hilarious idea: an husband who wants to find a husband for his wife so he can stop paying heavy alimony but who balks when she turns down the colorless prospect he digs up for her in favor of a dashing, romantic Romeo. The situations are a natural for rollicking comedy and one can expect them to be played to the hilt by the excellent cast.

Additional lilt ought to be found in this 20th Century-Fox film for the reason that Roy Del Ruth directed. One of Hollywood's masters of the light touch, he is well-known for his handling of the first Sonja Henie productions.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Taking cognizance of wide-world interest in foreign news, topical war material was added to RKO Radio's "Vigil in the Night," which co-stars Carol Lombard, Brian Aherne and Anne Shirley. Producer-director George Stevens had the script rewritten to include quotations from some of Prime Minister Chamberlain's addresses, as well as air raid warnings, evacuation scenes and the general effect this new war is having upon hospitals.

Whereas, the supreme need of our state today is that the forces which make for character and Christianity shall control the forces which make for intelligence and patriotism, and one of the greatest forces which make for character and Christianity is the Sunday School, and

Whereas, in an effort to produce a "Greater and Better Kentucky," the Kentucky Sunday School Association has designated May 5 as a "Go-to-Sunday-School Day," and Done at Frankfort, Kentucky, this twenty-sixth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty and in the year of the Commonwealth one hundred and forty-eight.

BUSY SEASON ENCOUNTERED

BY LIMESTONE OPERATORS—
TON OF LIMESTONE USED UNDER ACP PAYS FARMER
$15.50.

Local agricultural limestone pulverizer operators and dealers have encountered a comparatively busy season, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This is contrary to the usual season trend when the big rush came in the fall months. There are three reasons for the increased use of limestone this spring. First, the beneficial results farmers have received from the large increased use of limestone in recent years. Second, limestone can be applied on corn or other soil-depleting crops with substantial increased crop yields, and third, the 1940 A. C. program year closes August 31st and all soil-building allowances not earned by that date will be lost. A ton of agricultural limestone used under the A. C. Program pays $15.50.

Local limestone pulverizer operators who have been serving Boone County farmers include Orville K. Kelly, Burlington, Ky., Route 2, Phone Burlington 682-X; Stanley Graves, Hebron, Ky., phone Hebron 341; Charles Kraft, Ludlow, Ky., Route 2, Box 54, phone Dixie 7503-J; and Dance Brothers, Crittenden, Ky.

The crushing price ranges from 75 cents to 85 cents per ton. There are also a number of local truckmen who deliver limestone in truck lots anywhere in the county at prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.00 per ton and deliver and spread the stone from $2.25 to $2.50 per ton.

Limestone is one of our best fertilizers for increased crop yields and for long time hay and pasture improvement crops. Every farmer should plan to use some limestone in 1940, especially in connection with phosphate and a light covering of manure.

Farmers may have their soil tested for limestone and phosphate free of charge by leaving soil samples at the County Agent's office in Burlington.

Tobacco Growers Should Treat Beds

Tobacco growers should give their plant beds two treatments of 2-4-4-B (Bordeaux mixture) (Bordeaux, lime and water) during the next two weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The treatment serves a two-fold purpose. First, to control leaf borne diseases, especially those that cause rot and rot off in a wet season just before cutting time, and second, as an aid in controlling flea beetle and other leaf-eating insects in the plant bed. Those farmers treating their beds last year reported stronger and healthier plants at setting time.

The Bordeaux treatment is simple: For a 200 foot bed dissolve 3 pounds of powdered Bluestone in a wooden barrel or earthenware jar; dissolve 4 pounds of hydrated lime in water; pour together in a fifty gallon barrel. Add water to make 50 gallons and stir. With an old sprinker can or bucket with holes in the bottom, sprinkle over the bed with canvas on the bed. The canvas should not be removed during the treatments. This amount will treat a bed 9 feet wide and 500 feet long. The Bluestone will cost around 10 cents per pound and the hydrated lime 1 cent per pound.

The first treatment should be applied when two leaves are appearing. The second application should be made two weeks later. A four page leaflet giving description of this treatment is available free of charge at the County Agent's office.

Three-Act Comedy To Be Staged May 3rd By Florence School

"To Beat The Band," a farce in three acts by the Florence high school, will furnish a full evening's entertainment on Friday, May 3rd.

The town of Meadville is agog with excitement as it learns from the morning paper that a famous radio star is about to pay it an unexpected visit. Meanwhile, three stranded young musicians apply to the Boardman home for rooms and lodging, and at the moment one of the trio is addressed as Phil, by his companions, it is immediately concluded that he is the famous Phil Hopkins and the boys are literally swept off their feet by the overwhelming welcome that is accorded them.

The complications arising when the real Phil Hopkins is brought to the Boardman home unwittingly, creates amusing situations too numerous to mention.

Several young girls of the town, O. Howe Jolly, the volunteer Fire Chief, and Petunia, a colored maid, add much to the comedy of the play.

The cast follows: Mary Boardman, Alice Sayer; Aunt Lucy, Elmo Neal; O. Howe Jolly, Irvin Dringenberg; Bill Boardman, Charles Wood; Olivia Smithers, Susan Manlach; Elvira Lane, Marjorie Bradford; Gladys Lane, Mary Bresser; Petunia, Norma Ayler; Phil Blakely, Robert Tanner; Easy Enders, Bobby Cobb; Gabby Cinch, Marvin Lutes; Mrs. Peter P. All Shingles
Cost Money
BUT..This Shingle Pays a Return on Your Investment

Your money comes back in fuel saved, in greater home comfort, winter and summer, in added roof beauty. This is the only shingle built with outside slate surface for weather protection; cork layer underneath for insulation. Tests show that it is easily possible for a roof of Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles to return its slight additional cost over plain asphalt shingles through the fuel saving in a single winter. Before you re-roof or build, come in or write... get all the facts about this shingle that gives you TWO values at ONE cost.

Here's Proof
Place five pennies on hot stove. Lay in small square of Carey Cork-Back Shingle and square of plain shingle. Place finger on each square as shown. Note that plain shingle gets too hot to touch much more quickly than Cork-Back Shingle—proof that the Cork-Back retards penetration of heat.

BETTER WOODLAND

FOR 70 COUNTIES
Kentucky farmers in 70 counties carried out forestry practices in cooperation with the 1939 Agricultural Conservation program, according to a summary just released by the state office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

A total of 310 farmers in 59 counties planted approximately 650,000 forest trees, and 583 farmers in 37 counties improved stands of timber on 2,775 acres of farm woodland. Increases were shown in both practices over forestry improvements in 1938 when 218 farmers planted 600,000 forest trees and 423 farmers improved stands on 1,922 acres.

Breathitt county farmers planted more forest trees in cooperation with the 1939 program than were planted in any other Kentucky county. Counties in which 10 acres or more were planted last year are: Breathitt, 92; Grayson, 70; Graves, 58; Hopkins, 32; Marshall, 30; Butler, 24; Green, 22; Breckinridge, 18; Elliott, 14; Barren, 12; and Hickman, 10.

These forestry practices accounted for less than one-half of one percent of the conservation payments to Kentucky farmers in 1939, however, since more than half of the payments were earned by seeding legumes and grasses and by spreading lime and phosphate. Altogether, 75 percent of the 1939 payments were earned by approved soil-building and soil-conserving practices carried out by the farmers.

Don't
Mislead

How often have you been told that you have ACID or your SYSTEM is in poor condition or that your HAIR is this or that after you have a POOR PERMANENT WAVE.

DON'T BE MISLEAD as that is a poor excuse for any operator to give in order to blame everyone and everything BUT HIMSELF. I have given INSTRUCTIONS in PERMANENT WAVING for the following firms: E. Fredericks, Inc., Nestle Le Mur Co. and Helene Curtis Industries and these firms hire only the best of INSTRUCTORS as we had to instruct other BEAUTY OPERATORS how to give the proper PERMANENT WAVE to the different types of hair.

If your hair is difficult to wave see me personally and let me advise you the proper Wave for your HAIR, if your hair is in PERFECT condition, DON'T TAKE CHANCES As you have only one head of hair let my operator or myself give you the proper PERMANENT WAVE. My SALON is in the center of the shopping district and my direct BUYING POWER enables me to give you MORE FOR YOUR MONEY. Our PERMANENTS are priced from $1.95 complete with SHAMPOO, HAIR CUT and FINGER WAVE and GUARANTEED, we keep a record of your WAVE and give all nationally advertised Waves.

I have only one SALON and the address is 14 East SIXTH STREET, next door to the GREYHOUND BUS STATION, H.E. 9222, open evenings.

AN ANNIVERSARY

There is a nation-wide celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the first college of dentistry in the U. S. There are many years that have been served to bring dentistry from an apprenticeship as in carpentry or blacksmithing, to a profession of great technical skill and high ethical standards. The first college was founded in Baltimore and there young men began the study that is today one of the main factors in public health. We are fortunate to have dental surgeons' close to us and especially fortunate in securing the best type of work possible. As much as we dislike a toothache and as much as we loathe the sight of a dental chair, we respect the relief afforded by our dentists and appreciate the help and attention that their training brings us.

ELECTRICITY MAY MAKE HENS UPPISH

Farmers in 30 Kentucky counties will know by the end of the year whether chicks brooded by electricity develop into upplish hens too proud to lay. In about a fourth of the counties of the state, farmers, the extension division of the College of Agriculture, rural electric cooperatives, utility companies, hatcheries, wiring contractors and inspectors are cooperating in demonstrations in brooding chicks with electricity.

The houses in which the electric brooders are being used are the same type as those in which brick, oil or coal brooders have been used. In using electric brooders, it is recommended that the brooder house have a double floor, or at least the floor be doubled under the hove of the brooder. The walls of the house should be tight.

Only electric brooders heavily insulated to conserve heat are recommended by engineers and poultry specialists of the College of Agriculture. Uninsulated brooders use an excessive amount of electricity unless supplementary heat is provided.

Where insulated brooders are used and houses are well constructed, the electricity consumed should not exceed one kilowatt per chick for eight weeks.

Advantages claimed for electric brooding are accurate temperature control, convenience, better feathered and huskier chicks, and economy of operation.

One thing you don't hear so much of, these days, and that is of mothers who are raising sons to be presidents.

The fellow who makes a comeback is just as worthy as the fellow who is called a go-getter.

The fourth monthly meeting of the New Haven Boosters 4-H Club was held Monday, April 29th. A discussion was heard concerning demonstration teams for Rally Day, and the club tour and fair to be held in the fall.

Weak Feet Affect Body

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
Covington

When feet are permitted to pro- nate inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical de- posits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Altho when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished, muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shaves give support to the vital arches in the feet releas- ing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circula- tion. Gradually as circulation im- proves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Re- search has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are in- directly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

SPRAYING CONTROLS
PLANT BED DISEASE

Spraying tobacco plants in beds with a bluestone-lime mixture to control leaf diseases is recom- mended by the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Spraying is begun just as soon as the plants are up, and is repeated in about 10 days. The mixture may be applied with a sprinkling can without removing the cloth. Easily mixed at home, the spray material should not cost more than $1 for 200 square feet of plant bed.

Diseases that can be controlled with a bluestone-lime spray in- clude angular leafspot or rust, a common disease of burley; wild- fire, common in both dark and burley tobacco, and mosaic, also known as walden and dry-weather french. A leaflet published by the college gives directions for spraying. It may be had at coun- ty agents' offices or from the col- lege.

SAVE YOUR NERVES

Defective eyesight is a major cause of the jitters and "sour" disposition. Eyes that are weak or defective usurp nerve energy intended to keep other organs in bal- ance—and indirectly cause a person to fatigue easily, be- come cross, on edge—and generally jittery. Care for your eyes—and they'll care for you—for life.

"WHO SAYS YOU CAN'T AFFORD A PONTIAC!"

WE FELT CERTAIN that many people had an impression of Pontiac's prices. We sent them to ask them to look at the new Pontiac. Here is what they said: "I had no idea they were so low!" "Big car like that must use a lot more gas and oil, must be a real gas hog!" "You're wrong there, a Pontiac uses less. We averaged 30 to 35 miles a gallon on our way down to Miami!" "Now in the world can they price a big luxurious car like this right down with the lowly?"

READ WHY SO MANY PONTIAC OWNERS GO OUT IN THEIR WAY TO BUY CARS FOR US!

THE FIRST STEP toward getting the most for your money in a new car this Spring is to visit a Pontiac showroom and take a look at the Pontiac price tag!

Then follow it up with a ride in a Pontiac. If you only drive it around the block, you'll understand why so many people have difficulty in realizing it's a low-priced car. It's a big, wide-seated, long-wheelbase beauty. And its ride is "Triple-Cushioned." Its steering, gear shifting and

SLIP COVERS

Now is the time to make covers for your furniture. Have them fit tightly like upholstery. Be sure to buy material that is already shrunken. Make sure that your material has a guarantee against shrinkage printed on the selvage. In this way you can see the material so it is exactly the measurement of the furniture. Also be sure that your trimming for edges such as bias bindings, welts, fringes, pleatings, carry a guarantee of being washable. Make the cover fit like a glove and a tight glove at that!

NO FUNDS PROVIDED FOR ADMINISTERING BERRY SELLING LAW

Because no funds were appropriated for its enforcement, the new Kentucky law provided for marking and labelling strawberries may not be effective this season, according to Director Thomas P. Cooper of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. The enforcement of the law put under the direction of the Experiment Station but no funds were made available by the Legislature for that purpose.

The law was passed in an effort to protect high-quality Kentucky strawberries from competition of inferior grades. It provides for the labelling of crates with names and addresses of producers or packers, and also the grade of the berries. Exception is made for berries sold directly to consumers.

or for preserving by cold pack or quick freeze.

"Every effort will be made to find some source of funds which will permit carrying out the purposes of the law," Dean Cooper said. "In the event funds cannot be obtained, it may appear more advisable to await action of the Legislature in the future rather than to attempt to do the work under the present circumstances."

WHEN SEWING

Mark buttonholes with a pencil and cut with safety razor blade. Cut on a bread board. Sew buttons over a row of machine stitches to reinforce them securely. When facing dress hems use gauze bandaging for the turn back. Few women who do not know to stop a stocking run with liquid nail polish or by moistening soap and rubbing the run until you can reach a needle and thread.

Moral Re-Armament In An Office

By Madeline Spafford

I am a stenographer and I work from 9 to 5—and sometimes 10 or 11. But there was a time when all day long I looked at the clock, and at 5 sharp I was out the door to keep that date. There are millions like me in America in every office—bored, waiting to get married, pulling down our national life to their own petty level.

Here's the way it used to be. Late for breakfast. I'd go out clanking the door and leaving mother in the middle of a sentence. Maybe I'd get to the office at 9; maybe at 10 past. Still half living thru the night before, I'd miss words in the dictation and take extra time correcting mistakes. Then the boss would give me a lecture on inefficiency and I'd go out to lunch alone, feeling muffed and hurt and not giving a damn about anybody.

Maybe the rest of the day would be spent in bickering with the girl next to me about keeping the window up or down. I didn't like her because I thought she was trying to cut me out with the boss and get my job. So we'd either sit silently side by side like tombstones, or fight over little things. I never did anything for her I didn't have to. Reading the papers going home on the subway I'd wonder why the nations couldn't get along together!

New Purpose in Life

I couldn't see the point to most of the things I was given to do, nor did I think much about them or why I was doing them. It was all a grind, something to get thru so I could be free for the things I wanted to do.

I was often afraid I'd lose my job. What if I couldn't find another? I wanted to get ahead, to make something of myself, to be some somebody. But there was always the fear that someone else would get in ahead of me, or that I'd get sick and my place would be filled, or something equally dreadful would happen. I never told these fears to anyone.

Then one day I met MRA thru some people with whom I was living. Two things impressed me: they cared enough for people to make them different, and they had a definite purpose in life, something they lived for. They said that God had a plan for everyone and that every man could find God's plan.

So I decided to let God run my life and began to measure it up to the four standards of absolute honesty, unselfishness, purity and love. It was as though I had been looking thru a telescope the wrong way with the magnifying and focusing towards me and all the things I wanted out of life. When I turned it around and faced the magnifying end towards other people and America, things came into the right perspective.

I began to see that the world would never be different unless I and hundreds like myself were willing to change. It was thrilling to find that God had a plan for me, for my friends, for the office and thru us for America.

Stopped War in Office
Mary, mother stenographer, used to have her own private war over a set of figures that she and another girl each had to get ready for a report every month. In order to make them complete they each had to get memoranda from the other. They always had to get on the figures as long as they could.

But after deciding to try MRA Mary told her friends she was sorry and from then on would try to have the figures ready, for her. They had quite a laugh over the whole thing. The result was not only better feeling between them but quicker and better reports; in fact, instead of having them ready the 15th, they were often ready the 3rd of the month, and they helped each other with their work.

I understand the newspapers now. We'll never stop war in the homes and offices. My selfishness would get in the way of the nation's what ties up business and causes strikes.

When one person gets this MRA other people catch it, too. One girl I know who had determined to bring this new spirit into her work was taking dictation one morning. In the middle of a letter she suddenly realized that the boss was mistaking the facts. She stopped writing and told him quietly, "I can't write that latter. It isn't honest." The boss smiled.

She started for her hat and coat expecting to get fired. Just as she was going out the door, he called her back. "Come here," he said. "You are the only really honest person about here. We need more like you in this office."

Building New Office
One person can change the atmosphere of an office. The new discipline in my friend Mary's life is beginning to bring a new discipline to all the others, even to the boss. He used to keep her working during her lunch hour and late in the evening to make up for his lateness.

When she told him about MRA and honestly how she felt about working late, he saw the point immediately and began to come in earlier. She even read up some of the material he neglected and brought it to his attention with suggestions. He trusts her now and tells her what he is thinking and planning so she can take a creative part in the whole business.

My work is no longer a grind, but a thrilling adventure each day as it unfolds as part of God's plan for America. Other girls in other offices throughout the country are finding the same adventure. Together we are out to build a new economic order under God's direction, where the overhead of fear and distrust is replaced by confidence and security in God.

This is what a group of workers in Government offices said in a message to the National Meeting for Moral Re-Armament in Washington.

"We are the oil or the sand in the great machinery of Government which reaches into the lives of all our people, and if this machinery is clogged we are responsible. While we perform the details of the work we create the atmosphere of the office, the morale of the Government."

"Moral Re-Armament creates a new type of woman whose love of country is above love of self. She lives for the Government not on it. It means learning to care for the girl we used to try to get ahead of, helping her with her work, regardless who gets the credit."

"It means being absolutely honest. No more taking Government supplies for personal use; no more personal telephone calls over Government wires; no pre-occupation with last night's fun or tomorrow's vacation plans."

"Wasting time is wasting taxes. Government workers, morally re-armed, can be the insulation against the apathy which is sapping the strength of America."

Elizabeth James, Sec'y.

Gillespie. The program consisted of 4-H songs led by Mary Fowler and Mildred Lizer. The meeting was adjourned by all repeating the club pledge.

SWEET TOOTH MAKES CALVES GAIN FASTER

Calves have a sweet tooth which helps them put on weight. So the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station found in a test of two lots of choice yearlings. Both lots were fed an equal amount of corn. One also was fed alfalfa hay; the other alfalfa-molasses silage containing 60 pounds of blackstrap molasses to the ton.

The steers fed the alfalfa-molasses silage ate the roughage part of their ration faster and gained more per head daily whereas the steers fed alfalfa hay gained 1.83 pounds. The hay was cut from the same field the same day and cured without rain.

EASY WAY to Raise GOOD CALVES Put PURINA CALF STARTENA before your calves, and let them feed themselves. They start eating when 4 days old and need no milk at all after the first month. It's easy. It's cheap. And folks say it makes calves with real dairy quality. Try some. We'll bet you'll never go back to raising calves on milk out of a bucket again.

TO OFFER INSPECTION SERVICE FOR BERRIES

The Agricultural Experiment Station and the United States Agricultural Marketing Service this spring again will offer shipping-point inspection of strawberries. Shipping-point inspection is a cooperative service of the Experiment Station and the United States Department of Agriculture, and is not a part of the marketing and labelling law passed by the Legislature, for which no funds were provided for enforcement.

If some folks were as free with their religion as they are with their advice, this would be a really goodly country.

The belfry at the Brethren Church rings out its testimony of her life, for Miss Phoebe contributed all of the money to build it, and her last gift to the church, a beautiful pulpit Bible was made at Easter, 1940.

A TRIBUTE TO THE PERSONIFICATION OF DEVOTION AND SACRIFICE—OUR MOTHERS

On the second Sunday in May the men, women, boys and girls of this nation turn their thoughts to the homes of their childhood, and to the beloved ones who made that childhood possible—their MOTHERS.

The gray-haired mother who struggled against poverty and fear and want from sunrise until candlelight to keep the children in school, and mother who in the shack in the wilderness, far from church or neighbor was preacher, teacher and civilization to the sons and daughters who on this day bear gifts of flowers or send loving letters or telegrams of grateful appreciation.

There are no words that adequately express this majesty, heroism, power and beauty that is a mother's love. Where man shrinks, that love never falters, and where man faints that love will grow stronger toward the need which has aroused it. Men about to die cling to it. It is a guiding flame whose radiance shines over the wastes of worldly affairs unquenchably and from whose wavering spark men who have failed catch the courage to go on.

Great men have acknowledged it. Abraham Lincoln said, "All that I am I owe to my angel Mother." Poets sing of it and we humbler souls in our humbler spheres are greatly in its debt as those whom fame has touched.

"When I was but a little child I fell,
And Mother kissed the place and made it well;
Then spoke to me in tones of strength and cheer,
'Be brave, my little one, and stop your fear.'
And so from her I caught my strength and smiled;
This happened when I was a little child.

"When I was grown a man, one day I fell,
And Mother kissed the place and made it well,
Then spoke to me in tones of cheer and strength,
'Be brave, my little one, there is no length
Down which a man may fall—he may not rise,'
And so I found my courage in her eyes."

There is a saying that "God could not be everywhere and therefore he made mothers." In these days of strife and bloodshed, may He bless them and strengthen them to carry on with high hearts—the greatest force and influence known to mankind.

SPORTSMEN TO MEET MAY 12-14

AT SOMERSET FOR ANNUAL SESSION OF LEAGUE OF KEN-TUCKY SPORTSMEN—BOONE DELEGATES TO ATTEND.

The stage is all set for the annual meeting of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, which will be held at Somerset, Ky., May 12, 13th and 14th, according to Dennis Gooch, president of the organization.

Boone County will be represented officially at this convention by Rod E. Hughes, of Verona, a member of the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association. Several other sportsmen from this county have planned to attend.

Sunday afternoon, prior to the opening of the convention on Monday a motorcade will leave Convention headquarters for a tour to Cumberland Falls State Park. This is a very enjoyable trip. Cumberland Falls is a beautiful scenic spot with water falling to the depth of 55 feet, and is only 32 miles from Somerset.

At 8:30 p. m. Sunday evening moving pictures will be shown in convention hall by James J. Gilpin, publicity director, Division of Game and Fish. At 9:30 p. m. the Executive Committee of the League will hold a brief business session.

Monday, May 13, a splendid program has been planned, and the business meeting will be in session. At 10:00 p. m., a dance, sponsored by the sportsmen of Somerset will be enjoyed.

Election of officers and general business matters will be brought before the club, and at 2:00 p. m. a shooting exhibition will be given by A. L. "Bill" Adkins, representing Remington Arms Co., and Petri Cartridge Division.

"There is no other event as valuable to the individual sportsman or a sportsman's organization as that of a well planned convention, when we can all get together. It is through these meetings we are able to co-ordinate our ideas and efforts for the one great cause all sportsmen are interested in—better hunting and fishing," said Dennis Gooch, president of league in a recent letter.

All sportsmen throughout the state are extended a cordial invitation to attend this convention.

Death Claims Ralph Quinn, Noted Editor

Ralph H. Quinn, 47, general manager of The Cincinnati Enquirer and a native of Henderson, Ky., a man who rose from newsboy in the town of his birth to a key position in the daily newspaper publishing world, died in Christ Hospital shortly before noon last Thursday.

Mr. Quinn had been ill, but apparently not seriously, at intervals since March when he suffered an attack of influenza, but attended the American Newspaper Publishers association convention recently in New York. On his return Mr. Quinn went to the hospital for a rest and further treatment.

Mr. Quinn was the former business manager of The Cincinnati Post for 16 years. In 1935 he was offered the general management of the Enquirer and resigned his position with The Post to accept.

Mr. Quinn always regarded the blue grass state with an eye to eventual retirement here. In 1935 he purchased a country home and farm just east of Carrollton on Highway 42 and it is there that his parents now reside.

CRISLER FARM HOLDS RECORD

FOR LARGEST ACREAGE OF HY-BRID CORN GROWN IN 1939—
ONE HUNDRED THIRTY ACRES PRODUCED.

The farm of the late C. G. Crisler in the North Bend Bottoms holds the record for the largest acreage of corn grown in 1939. One hundred and thirty acres were produced, all planted to certified hybrid seed. Fifty acres each were planted to Indiana No. 820 and Indiana 845. This seed was bought from the Boone County Hybrid Seed Corn Growers' Association, Burlington, Ky. The other thirty acres was planted with an Ohio hybrid, apparently not as well adapted and the yield was not as favorable as on the local hybrids. The local hybrids 820, 820 and Indiana 845 produced equally well and an average of 48 bushels per acre on the 100 acres were harvested with their new mechanical corn picker. It was estimated that 15 bushels per acre was knocked down in shucking, which would make a total yield of 63 bushels per acre.

The stalks of corn, due to the fall drought were so dry and brittle that this method of shucking was not as effective as it otherwise would have been, but still the time saved in getting the corn shucked before bad weather set in was a big advantage. The loss of a few bushels of corn per acre.

The yield of corn totalled over 10,000 bushels, which is more corn than this farm has ever produced, even though large acreages have been planted. Two additional large storage bins were built to house this vast amount of corn.

These two Indiana hybrids, 820 and 845 are again being offered for sale by the Boone County Hybrid Seed Corn Growers' Ass'n. and several other outstanding hybrids are offered, namely Ky. 102-B and 102-C which are two new bigger and longer maturing yellow hybrids recommended by the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association. A limited amount of Yellow U. S. 44 is being offered. 69-B one of Kentucky's most promising white hybrid grown by the association has proven to be a champion yielder.

Acreage planted to hybrid corn is growing each year and yields such as this, together with those of other local growers, which in many cases are larger in respect to yield, prove that proper adapted hybrids pay.

The schedule for this week follows: Big Bone travels to Bellevue; Petersburg at Burlington; and Hebron at Sand Run.

Come out and help the boys. For nothing is better than an old-fashioned county ball game on Saturday afternoon.

Traffic on the Dixie Highway near Walton was disrupted Monday when vandals sprinkled a large number of tacks on the highway.

To make sure that the autos would not escape, the pranksters forced the tacks through beer bottle caps and placed them, point up, on the highway.

POOL WOOL TO BE SOLD JUNE 10TH

SEALED BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED BY ASSOCIATION AT DIXIE
STATE BANK, WALTON, PRES-IDENT WHITE, REPORTS.

Boone County wool growers set Monday, June 10, Building Loan Association room, Dixie State Bank at Walton, between hours of 1:00 and 2:00 p. m. for selling the 1940 wool pool clip, according to H. E. White, president of county association.

Sealed bids on all pooled wool will be offered for sale at this time. The pool reserves the right to reject all bids if not satisfactory. The local pool last year sold 68,133 pounds of wool for more than 90 percent of all county wool growers.

The pool has proven the most satisfactory method for selling wool. All growers are urged to sell their wool through the pool by listing the number of fleeces with the local sign-up committee.

L. A. Vennes, marketing specialist of the College of Agriculture, met with growers at their meeting held at the Burlington courthouse on last Monday. He advised that it was difficult to forecast at the present time the probable price of wool on June 10th but that the market had advanced around three cents per pound recently and the present market should be around forty cents. Wool is in a strong position and a steady to good price is expected.

Mr. Vennes advised that the Kentucky lamb price prospects were good. Despite increased competition from the California crop, a uniform good market is expected.

Mr. John Conley, Secretary of the Boone County Sheep Protective Association reported the association was building up a good reserve and was in a strong position to serve sheep raisers.

Tulip Time

At Forest Lawn Memorial Park, the new cemetery in Erlanger, a tulip display, direct from Holland is in bloom. Over 5,000 bulbs with their first blossom, arranged in beds in the well known landscape architect, A. L. Heger of Dixie View Nurseries, are well worth the attention of this community.

Forest Lawn is open to the public at all times. It is the desire of this cemetery to bring to the people at different periods throughout the year, other horticultural displays such as the one above mentioned. You and your friends are invited.

One hundred and one homemakers, representing thirteen local clubs attended the annual all-day meeting held this year in Lexington.

Mrs. Sam Sleet, chairman of the Blue Grass District, presided at the meeting. "Woman in the World Today" was the theme for the program. The business meeting was held in the morning. "For Over Fifty Years"

IN CONSIDERATION

A smart spark, a lusty cry, and a doctor put the hands of the new mother a child whose upbringing and responsibility is accepted as her personal blessing. From henceforth the love of a mother is poured out in bountiful doses upon a small one who is seemingly unaware of the love heaped at its kicking feet. Through the stages of crawling and romper age, from knee pants to long trousers, grows the child careless in its acceptance of an affection offered from the heart of the mother. Few children are duly appreciative of the benevolences that take place during juvenile years and too often when this small one knows to manhood's state there is not enough concern for the kindness bestowed from hands that gathered the crying newly-born to a breast where stirred the prayer of thanksgiving. Too bad that the wisdom of years does not cause the man to realize the great amount of devotion that he has absorbed and taken for granted throughout his life. Sad it is that the realization often comes after the dark shadow crosses the path and removes that life whose tender hands proffered the love, sacrifices, care and loyalty. There comes to all of us at some desperate time, however mean we may be, an understanding of the worth of the mother and fortunate are those who can look back through the years and reflect on the past without many regrets of duties left undone.

Each year comes the celebration of Mother's Day, and daily we should build up a tribute to those living and dead. As we commemorate the occasion we recall instances when we faithfully promised ourselves that we would not do anything to knowingly hurt and distress this sweet life that bore us ours. When comes a shriek of hate, a demand for retaliation, a battery and when march off sons the world round, when each cries of loss and fear from universal hearts, we should look to the happiness of our mothers and remember our old promises to do all possible to prevent an ache to a loved soul through an act that might cause her distress. The most fitting way to celebrate this Mother's Day is by paying her the greatest tribute possible. No greater monument could be erected to her memory, no stained glass window reflect a more glorious light, than a unified effort on the part of all of us to preserve peace and life for every mother's son. This indeed would be her most cherished gift!

GOING BACK

Met a friend on the street who informs me that so-and-so is selling out his place in town and moving back to the farm. He tells me this and seems surprised, but not your editor who feels that there is a hankering for rural and rustic in the make-up of most of us and that sooner or later a fellow gets pretty fed up with business districts and wants to get into the more undeveloped areas. Look at the people who are migrating to rural areas for your answer. Do not forget that when we trace it back the country is all of us country-born. The reason for the formation of the city was for commercial purposes and also for protection in those days when this was a factor in survival. But today we like the more normal and healthful life as well as the lower rents and taxes.

QUITE, PLEASE

Those cartoons of a yowling cat perched on a back-fence while a shoe goes flying through the air, or the neighborly dispute over a barking dog, are not as prevalent these days. They have given way to the annoyance of the neighbor to the loud, blaring radio. There was the youngster who practiced on the saxophone, the girl who was learning to sing. This caused unfavorable comment, perhaps. We are told that most neighborhood quarrels that find their way into the courts, come from trouble over loud radios. It is about time for all windows to be opened in Boone county and if local radio enthusiasts would remember how sound travels, they will show consideration for folks by keeping the tone moderate.

UNUSUAL TODAY

There are many parents discussing the upset in a western high school where a girl refused to strip before other girls in the school gymnasium showers. The girl sought an injunction against the school authorities to prevent them from making her undress. The case will be called in July and by that time some of the feeling will subside. There are lots of girls who undress before associates in gym work and are still not bold and brazen girls. We are more aware of the various meanings of the word "modesty". Too many girls are not modest enough for their own good we know and if a girl does not want to undress publicly in her high school gym she should be allowed to have privacy perhaps. But in our opinion, the judge is going to have his hands full in July!

Lesson for May 12

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education and by HARAKKUK FIGHTS THROUGH DOUBT TO FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Habakkuk 1:12-2:4.
GOLDEN TEXT—The just shall live by his faith.—Habakkuk 2:4.

"The just shall live by his faith!"—the great rallying cry of the Reformation in the sixteenth century.

Christianity, is found in the glorious conclusion which the prophet Habakkuk reaches in his triumphant confidence in God. Trying circumstance, doubt and fear must all yield to faith in God.

The lesson for today is peculiarly appropriate to the situation in which the world finds itself just now. Men's hearts are failing them for fear. It seems to them that all is chaotic disorder; they wonder whether God has any plan for the world and its people, and whether He really cares. "Why doesn't God do something?" is the question on many lips. The answer is in our lesson.

I. Believe, Though Surrounded by Questions (1:12-17).

Habakkuk does not question that his people had sinned and were worthy of God's disciplinary chastening, but he is astonished to learn that God plans to use wicked Chaldeans to bring about questions put in upon him as he describes their iniquity (v. 13), and speaks of them as catching Judah in their net (vv. 14, 15) and gloating over their victims (vv. 16, 17).

He does not yet know the answer to his questions, but he has already stated the foundation of his faith in verse 12: "Whatsoever happens, no matter how sore the trial and non-understandable the outworking of God's plan, the prophet is sure of God as the eternal and holy One. The words to be borne in mind in such a time is that God is not making plans for the moment or because of some unexpected change in circumstances. He is 'framing everlasting' (v. 12). His plans are eternal. But He is also the 'Holy One' (v. 12). It may seem for the present that sin and wickedness have triumphed, but the prophet knows that the eternal plans of God are conceived and executed in holiness and power.

II. Be Alert in the Midst of Uncertainty (2:1).

Who who does not have faith in God is prone to say in such times that all hope is lost, and give up in despair. Not so Habakkuk. He knew that to wait patiently for God. He determines to be neither discouraged nor impatient, but to stand watch in the tower (v. 1). "His tower" is a very right and proper condition of soul. Perplexed and confused by the seeming enigma of God's ways, he owns he may require reproach, and takes his stand upon the watch tower, above the mists of the earth and beyond the thoughts and doings of men, where he can quietly wait on God and look out to see what He will say to him" (Ironside).

How desperately we need such alert and earnest watchers in our day. Christians, arise! Do not permit yourself to be either lulled into a false security or into despondent discouragement.

III. Receive the Answer of Triumphant Faith (2:2-4).

"The Lord answered me." He always does, if we are ready to listen and to abide His time. Habakkuk received a vision of God's truth in which he was to write so plainly that everyone who read it would understand it and, in turn, run to others with the message. Those of us who teach and preach would do well to follow that admonition. All too often our message is not understood or falls to those who hear it to go quickly and tell others.

Looking forward to Christ, the just man of Habakkuk's day was to live by faith; even as we of this day, looking back to the cross of Christ, are justified by faith and then are to go on to live by faith. This is the word which, as we have already suggested, stirred Luther and his fellows to bring about the Reformation. "Long before Luther's day, however, the same words had come by the Holy Spirit's inspiration to be the heart of the great message of Paul the apostle as he taught justification (Rom. 1:16, 17), as he defended grace against legalism (Gal. 3:11), and as he portrayed "the pilgrim's path through this world from the cross to the glory" (Heb. 10:34).

Works of the Lord
Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! And let them sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving, and declare his works with rejoicing.—Psalm 107:21-22.

Pride
The lofty looks of men shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down.—Isaiah 2:11.

PASTURE AFFECTS PROFITS ON SHEEP
Records kept by 99 sheep raisers last year, in cooperation with the Kentucky College of Agriculture, showed gross returns per ewe of $8.94 in Owen and Grant counties.

$10 in the central bluegrass region of the state, $8.46 in Laramie county and $9.53 in Meade county.

The income per ewe varied chiefly because of the difference in pasture, feed and quality of ewes and rams. The flock owners excelling in net returns raised a large number of lambs by selecting good ewes for breeding and by saving a higher percentage of the lambs. They sold heavier lambs by having them born in January and February, by keeping the ewes that were good milkers and by feeding ewes and lambs when necessary.

Homemakers Continue Study Of Attractive Kitchen At Meeting

Home Improvement leaders continued to study the Attractive Kitchen held last week in Burlington. Twenty-one project leaders representing twelve local clubs attended the all-day meeting conducted by Miss Ida C. Hagman, Home Improvement Specialist, University of Kentucky.

Three practical color schemes for kitchen were planned by each leader present at the meeting. Miss Hagman gave a demonstration of dyeing inexpensive kitchen curtains to blend with any planned color scheme. Leaders are planning to ask their local club members to work out one color scheme at the May meeting.

Miss Hagman and Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent, made three home visits following the training class to assist Homemakers in planning their kitchen.

MOUNTAIN LAUREL FESTIVAL DATE SET MAY 23, 24 AND 25

Nineteen young women, representing Kentucky's colleges and universities, will be guests of Pineville and Southeastern Kentucky May 23, 24 and 25, and participate in the festivities of the tenth annual Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival. From the list of nineteen of the state's most beautiful girls will be chosen the 1940 laurel queen.

A feature of this year's festival will be the appearance of folk dancers from three Kentucky mountain settlements on Thursday night at the High School auditorium. Swiss dancers from the Swiss colony in Laurel County and folk dancers from Pine Mountain Settlement School will appear, according to Hal Mould, chairman of the program for May 23. Formation marching clubs will appear from Henderson Settlement School and all three groups will be costumed appropriately for their offerings.

Friday morning, May 24, a band meet will be held in Pineville with about twenty bands of Southeastern Kentucky participating. Following this contest the annual festival parade will be held, featuring the Stephen Collins Foster, who festival this year using the Old Kentucky Home theme for a background. In the early afternoon the thousands of visitors here are expected to go to Laurel Cove in Pine Mountain State Park where the new queen will be selected and where she will be crowned by Governor Keen Johnson. The coronation ceremony arranged by Mrs. Moss Patterson, will also follow the Old Kentucky Home theme.

Friday night the grand ball will be held and on Saturday the visitors will go to various scenic spots in the Cumberland Mountains for outings and motor trips. On Saturday night a carnival ball will be held to bring the festivities to a close. The 1939 queen, Miss Dorothy Ramsey, of Russell, Ky., and the 1931 queen, Mrs. J. H. Darnaby, of Lexington, will be honor guests of this year's festival, according to General Chairman Harry Carr.

HANDS WITH CARE

A housewife should care for her hands. Keep a cut lemon close by the sink for removing stains, strong tea and rhubarb will also remove hand stains. Fruit can be removed by cornmeal moistened in vinegar. For an inflamed rub with a piece of fresh tomato. For odors on the hands dry mustard mixed with cold water will help. Wet your hands before handling fish and grease them before peeling onions. Rub soap under your nails when there is dirty work for hands to do.

Despite the unemployment situation there is still enough business in this country for us to mind it!

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The Constance Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Prabel for an all-day meeting April 8th. There were thirteen members, 3 visitors and our Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Gillaspie present.

The business meeting was held in the morning. Our president, Mrs. Sprague gave a report on Advisory Council meeting which she attended last week in Burlington. Mrs. Geo. Kottmyer gave a talk on "Live at Home."

At the noon hour a delicious luncheon was served and enjoyed by all. After dinner we have group singing led by Mrs. Geo. Kottmyer. Miss Gillaspie gave a talk on "Live at Home" and one on "Spring Gardens." Our leaders gave an interesting lesson on "The Attractive Kitchen." Our program chairman had a game which concluded our program.

The club will meet at the home of Mrs. Thomas Kenyon on May 8 for an all-day session. Roll call to be answered with a "Verse for Mother."

Bear in mind that this is that rainy day to be followed by a heap of sunshine if you can just keep your shirt on and your umbrella handy.

PLANS FOR KENTUCKY COVER CROP PROGRAM

MADE IN CONFERENCE

A cover crop campaign to be carried out in Kentucky through cooperation of the College of Agriculture and county Agricultural Conservation Associations has been outlined by state agronomists and Agricultural Adjustment officials.

The program includes summer and fall seedings of several small grains and winter legumes and will be discussed in detail in community meetings which will be held to acquaint farmers with the cover crop plans. In a recent Washington conference, recommendation was made that credit be given in next year's Agricultural Conservation program for cover crop seedings of oats, rye, barley, crimson clover, vetch, and other adapted seeds.

Effort will be made to stress use in cover crop projects of those grasses and legumes which experience most effective in protecting the land against erosion and leaching. Stimulation of the production and use of "home-grown" seeds is planned, and use of crimson clover, vetch, balbo rye, and winter resistant varieties of barley such as Kentucky No. 1 and No. 2 and Missouri early beardless, all of which are grown in Kentucky, will be encouraged.

Importance of this program to Kentucky is indicated by estimates of agronomists that 80 percent of the Kentucky land planted to clean-tilled crops such as corn and tobacco passes through the winter without a cover crop for protection.

At the conference in Washington, where details of the cover crop program were discussed, Kentucky was represented by W. C. Johnstone, agronomist of the College of Agriculture, and O. M. Farrington, state executive officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

A SUGGESTION:

A reader suggests this list of linens as most essential to each housewife in her home: 8 face towels, 8 hand towels, 8 bath towels and 6 wash cloths for each person. Serving for guests have at least 6 "Sunday" towels and each bath room needs 1 shower curtain and 2 bath mats.

Many a baseball manager's private opinion of his team possibilities at this stage of the game, wouldn't pass the censor.

It is rather difficult to pay a political call on governments these days, for they move around so much.

4-H DEMONSTRATION DINNER

The Florence 4-H club, Foods Unit II and III, had their demonstration dinner Friday, April 26, at 7:00 p. m. It was quite a success. We had a delightful menu. Twenty-five members and guests enjoyed the dinner. Our leader, Mrs. Schram, helped us prepare it. We all want to thank Mrs. Schram for the fine cooperation and help she has given us.

FOR COVERS

A good way of making a covering for clothes is to take a worn pillow case, cut a slit in middle of sewn end or case. Slip this case over a clothes hanger that holds your garment and you will keep the latter clean from house dust. You can hang more than one article under each case if you care to do so.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR
CAMP DANIEL BOONE

Plans have been completed for the twenty-ninth season of Camp Daniel Boone, the State Y. M. C. A.'s summer encampment at Valley View on the Kentucky River, William N. Ewald, State "Y" secretary, has announced.

Located about 18 miles from Lexington on the Tates Creek Pike, the camp is now undergoing improvements in anticipation of what Mr. Ewald says should prove "one of the most successful years in Daniel Boone's history." This work includes the rebuilding of the entire sanitary system and the driving of a new well to insure an adequate supply of pure water, in addition to a number of minor improvements and repairs.

The camping plans announced for the summer include two two-week boys' periods, beginning on July 5; a special ten-day period sponsored by the Lexington Kiwanis Club, beginning about Aug. 1; and one ten-day girls' period, opening on August 14. The two regular boys and girls periods are open to all Kentucky youth, Secretary Ewald said.

Camp Daniel Boone, long a favorite summer haunt of many Kentucky boys and girls, is visited each year in addition by a number of other age groups. Last year, for instance, four groups of College students held pre-season "retreats" during May and June, and three church young people's organizations and Utopia Club group were guests for one week each. Then during the last week of August, after the regular camping periods had ended, the employees of the Kentucky Y. M. C. A. held their annual late summer conferences, the camp being open for guests during that time.

The history of Camp Daniel Boone dates back to 1906, when, Mr. P. C. Dix, then State County Work Secretary, assisted by several Central Kentucky "Y" officials, conducted a ten-day camp at Munday's Landing on the Kentucky River. Camping continued yearly after this, with the campers sleeping in tents and using equipment loaned by State, City and County Y. M. C. A's.

In 1911 contributions enabled the "Y" to purchase the land which marks the present site, together with a house-boat, which was tied up on the shore and used as a camp headquarters. For the next few years, the house-boat was towed back and forth each summer between the camp site and Frankfort Y. M. C. A. building. There being no other buildings at the time, the campers still slept for the most part in tents.

In the spring of 1913 the original "Lexington Lodge" which was later destroyed by fire, was built. The house boat was removed from the river and became the "Wayside Inn," to be used by older folks who might prefer living "indoors" to tent life.

When "Lexington Lodge" burned in 1938 it was immediately replaced by the present dining hall, with funds derived from insurance and special subscriptions. At that time, also, the Lexington Kiwanis Club became actively interested in the camp, and financed the construction of "Kiwanis Lodge." Rural Electrification grants were obtained through the efforts of the Kiwanis, giving the camp electrical lighting and power.

It is interesting to note that despite fire, flood and other adversities, Camp Daniel Boone has never missed a season since 1906 when that first group of boys were towed up the Kentucky River and pitched their tents on what are now the camp quadrangle and tennis courts.

Camp Daniel Boone is supervised by a director and counselors who are men of high Christian character, and its program of recreation, instruction and counsel is designed to lead a boy into growth of Christian character.

HISTORY—Mrs. G. E. M. suffered headaches and neckaches. Her neck ached so intensely at the base of the skull she could hardly see. Days at a time she could not get out of bed because of the severity of the pains. She read one of our ads., telling of the good work we were doing, and decided to see what we could do for her. After a very short time wearing surgical shoes, pain in the head and neck lessened till finally it disappeared entirely and she is well and happy. It is now possible for her to do her own work even when it is necessary for her to climb stepladders. Surgical shoes seemingly worked miracles for her.

COMMENT—Strain on ligaments and tendons naturally has a weakening effect upon muscles. Continued neglect of these conditions may be the cause of your aches and pains in the neck and back, and you have been unable to get relief, come in and let us see what we can do for you.

If your ankles are weak and you are constantly rolling them, surgical shoes are definitely the answer to your problem.—Adv.

INCREASED USE OF LIMESTONE

IS NEEDED AS SOIL IMPROVEMENT FERTILIZER—IS GREAT HELP TO GRASSES AND LEGUMES.

The increased use of agricultural or ground limestone as a soil improvement fertilizer is one of the greatest soil needs in the county today, according to H. R. Fortner, County Agent.

Limestone, phosphate and a light covering of manure have done more than any other soil fertilizer treatments in securing better stands of grasses and legumes that turn out more vigorous and luxuriant growth. The second and more important effect is the higher value for livestock feeding of both hay and pasture crops produced on the treated land.

It is the common and often repeated experience by our older livestock men that pasture land on certain of our limestone hills produces a higher cash on our livestock in the land in other sections of the county. The only major inherent difference between these soils is the limestone and phosphate content.

Boone County the past three years has used only 15,733 tons of limestone or an average of slightly over 5,000 tons per year, despite the fact that the Agricultural Conservation Program pays $1.50 per ton on limestone used anywhere on the farm whether it be corn or pasture land (limestone is giving an increased increase in corn yields). Bourbon, Fayette and other central Kentucky counties which are considered rich limestone sections, have found it profitable to use much larger amounts of this material. Bourbon County for instance during the past three years has used 222,000 tons or a yearly average of over 25,000 tons and Fayette 42,555 tons or an average of over 14,000 tons. Most of this has been profitably used to top dress already established bluegrass pastures.

The help of the A. C. P. through $1.50 per ton benefit payments, the increased crop yields being received, the large number of soil tests being made by the County Office showing need for both lime and phosphate and the increased value of the crop produced, should all encourage farmers to use more tons of limestone than ever before.

Farmers desiring stone crushed on their farm at 75 cents to 80 cents per ton should contact one of the local pulverizer operators: Orville Kelly, Phone Burlington 683-X; Charles Kraft, Phone Dixie 7503-X; Anton Brothers, Phone Independence 1701, address Demosley, Ky.; and Dance Brothers, of Crittenden, Ky.

Those who may wish to purchase stone already crushed delivered to their farm should contact one of the local dealers including Stanley Graves, Hebron, Ky., Phone Hebron 341; J. W. Moore, Hebron, Ky., Tel. Hebron 133; W. J. Craig, Burlington 133; Phone Burlington 683-X; Charles Kraft, Lexington, Ky., Route 2, Phone Dixie 7503-X; Dance Brothers, Crittenden, Ky.; and McBees Bros., Ellison, Ky.

The County Office, through the cooperation of Boone County banks will be glad to arrange for financing those farmers who do not have ready cash to purchase their limestone needs.

Farmers urged to improve wool.

HIGHER PRICES WILL BE RECEIVED FOR WOOL IN FIRST CLASS CONDITION—SIGN-UP MUST BE MADE BY JUNE 3RD.

Boone County wool growers are rated as producing some of the finest quality wool in the State, according to H. R. Fortner, County Agent. Buyers for years have complimented not only the quality but the way the clip is handled.

There has been a marked change during the past three or four years in the shearing of the sheep and handling clip on the farm. Formerly practically every farmer did his own shearing or at least assisted in shearing. Today a large part of the shearing is done by men owning power equipment and the farmers are shirking their responsibility in seeing that their fleeces are properly tagged, that no straw or trash is wrapped into the fleece, only paper strings are used, light burry wool is picked over before tying up and that the fleeces are tied outside in the center and the sheep are dry when sheared. All of these points help growers to have less trouble on the day of selling and in the end to receive a higher price.

All growers expecting to sell thru the County Pool are also urged to sign up before June 3rd, the closing date for the sign-up.

Mr. Joel Gray is much improved after a recent illness.

EDUCATE THE SHARECROPPER

In Boone County we have discussed the subject of the miserable existence of the sharecropper and tenant families and through the editorial columns of the country's newspapers the conditions of living in many sections have attracted notice and received action from local and government heads. But agriculturalists, social workers and writers agree that it needs something further than just bettering living conditions. It needs education to make the children of these impoverished families want to improve their existence. There are classes in adult education as well, and the illiteracy rate has been lowered in many states where the problem of the sharecropper has been an issue. Social workers have gone into the homes to teach families of hygiene and care of home and property. There have been libraries established with not only books of fiction but dealing with farming and industry.

There are many states that have planned a campaign of educating the child and the south is especially active in this field. The minds of many of the poorest of these families is receptive to the teaching of reading, writing and arithmetic and by means of libraries and schools they are securing a higher standard of living in adult as well as with the children. Of course there are not as many children preferring to live on the soil as their sharecropper parents, for their young eyes have gazed on too much misery and poverty to sell them on the same situation.

SPRUCE UP

There are many cities planning the beautification of roads in their districts by planting trees and shrubs. There are highway departments conferring and landscape architects of the U. S. Road Administration are giving helpful suggestions for arrangements. Foreign countries have it over us for beautiful highways and it certainly isn't that we don't have state nursery and forestry lands to yield plants! There should be interest taken in having flowering, nut and shade trees along roadsides to gladden the eye and give the tourist a wooded spot in which to rest. Michigan is dusting old car picnic benches which are placed in highways to encourage the motorist to enjoy the view. Michigan also knows that is good advertising.

Lesson for May 19

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts assigned for the assurance of peace and prosperity in the very pursuit of the false prophets of the twentieth century. Six hundred years before Christ, Jeremiah the prophet had to contend with such false teachers.

His manner of dealing with them is of great interest to us, for essentially the same prophecies of peace and prosperity have been sufficient to lead the people of Judah. A man who is not sent by God has no word from heaven, no help for needy humanity. He is worse than any enemy, he is a secular teacher or philosopher, for he claims to speak with divine authority and yet has only the disappointing impotence of a liar and a fraud.

The reason Judah listened to them was because they so eloquently hushed the condemning voice of their own consciences, assuring them that all was well, when, as a matter of fact, everything was wrong. Men listen to the same kind of teaching today for the very same reason.

These false prophets may delude men, but they have not fooled God. He is not a finite being, limited to this earth (v. 23). He is not a man from the far off viewpoint of heaven and judges by His own high and holy standards.

Nor can they hide from Him (v. 24). God hears the words of the academic shelter of a college classroom, secretly poisoning the young person's heart against the faith of his father and mother. A day of judgment also awaits those who in their public utterances use the phraseology of orthodoxy, while in private they undermine and destroy Christian faith.

If a man is foolish enough to suppose that the dreamings of his own mind and heart will help anyone, let him be honest enough to call them just that; namely, dreams (vv. 25-28). But God will assuredly hold those men guiltless who try to pass off their own philosophies as bearing the approval of God; who would have people honor their assemblies as Christian churches, when they are at best only social or intellectual gatherings designed to magnify man rather than Christ.

Note in verse 29 that the Word of God is like the fire that consumes and purifies, and also like the hammer, that breaks up the rocky heart of man.

Without Divine Favor and Blessing (vv. 30-32).

God is against every false prophet. Small wonder that there is the savour of death in their speaking and their works. There is no divine power in their words and no holy dynamic to enable people to respond to their admonitions. Prominent modernists are decaying in our day the fact that their cultured essays and polished philosophies are not reaching the hearts of men and are failing to transform lives. At the same time, humble preachers and teachers of God's Word, sometimes in hidden and remote places, are rejoicing as they see the transforming grace of God come upon lives as a result of their simple proclamation of the gospel of grace. Keep on, brethren; God is with you.

Like the Shadow

I am gone like the shadow when it declineth; I am tossed up and down as the locust. My knees are weak through fasting; my flesh faileth of fatness; I became also a reproach unto them; when they looked upon me they shook their heads.—Psalm 102:23-25.

It Doth Not Yet Appear

You are not what you ought to be, and you are not what you can be. You may rise yet, and fight a good fight yet, and be a good man once more, after the likeness of God who made you, and Christ who died for you!—Charles Kingsley.

It is a bit difficult, at this time of year, to judge whether it is an attack of flu or spring fever.

There are a few people in this county so close that they would give away a three cheers.

He is worse than any enemy, he is a secular teacher or philosopher, for he claims to speak with divine authority and yet has only the disappointing impotence of a liar and a fraud.

The reason Judah listened to them was because they so eloquently hushed the condemning voice of their own consciences, assuring them that all was well, when, as a matter of fact, everything was wrong. Men listen to the same kind of teaching today for the very same reason.

These false prophets may delude men, but they have not fooled God. He is not a finite being, limited to this earth (v. 23). He is not a man from the far off viewpoint of heaven and judges by His own high and holy standards.

Nor can they hide from Him (v. 24). God hears the words of the academic shelter of a college classroom, secretly poisoning the young person's heart against the faith of his father and mother. A day of judgment also awaits those who in their public utterances use the phraseology of orthodoxy, while in private they undermine and destroy Christian faith.

If a man is foolish enough to suppose that the dreamings of his own mind and heart will help anyone, let him be honest enough to call them just that; namely, dreams (vv. 25-28). But God will assuredly hold those men guiltless who try to pass off their own philosophies as bearing the approval of God; who would have people honor their assemblies as Christian churches, when they are at best only social or intellectual gatherings designed to magnify man rather than Christ.

Note in verse 29 that the Word of God is like the fire that consumes and purifies, and also like the hammer, that breaks up the rocky heart of man.

Without Divine Favor and Blessing (vv. 30-32).

God is against every false prophet. Small wonder that there is the savour of death in their speaking and their works. There is no divine power in their words and no holy dynamic to enable people to respond to their admonitions. Prominent modernists are decaying in our day the fact that their cultured essays and polished philosophies are not reaching the hearts of men and are failing to transform lives. At the same time, humble preachers and teachers of God's Word, sometimes in hidden and remote places, are rejoicing as they see the transforming grace of God come upon lives as a result of their simple proclamation of the gospel of grace. Keep on, brethren; God is with you.

Like the Shadow

I am gone like the shadow when it declineth; I am tossed up and down as the locust. My knees are weak through fasting; my flesh faileth of fatness; I became also a reproach unto them; when they looked upon me they shook their heads.—Psalm 102:23-25.

It Doth Not Yet Appear

You are not what you ought to be, and you are not what you can be. You may rise yet, and fight a good fight yet, and be a good man once more, after the likeness of God who made you, and Christ who died for you!—Charles Kingsley.

Lesson for May 19

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts assigned for the assurance of peace and prosperity in the very pursuit of the false prophets of the twentieth century. Six hundred years before Christ, Jeremiah the prophet had to contend with such false teachers.

His manner of dealing with them is of great interest to us, for essentially the same prophecies of peace and prosperity have been sufficient to lead the people of Judah. A man who is not sent by God has no word from heaven, no help for needy humanity. He is worse than any enemy, he is a secular teacher or philosopher, for he claims to speak with divine authority and yet has only the disappointing impotence of a liar and a fraud.

KENTUCKY CHAMPION "UTOPIA" GIRL TAKES OVER 107-ACRE FARM

Miss Lucille Westbrook, Kentucky's champion Utopia Club girl, has tackled her first year of actual farming. Last fall she bought 107 acres which she is planning to make into one of the best farms in Warren county. Her only worry, she says, is meeting the monthly payments.

After several years in 4-H club work, Miss Westbrook joined a Utopia club, which is for older farm boys and girls, so she could continue her farm education. Active in many kinds of farm and home endeavors, she was elected president of the Warren county and western district Utopia clubs. Now the College of Agriculture at Lexington has made her the state champion Utopia club girl.

The champion Utopia club girl is Grant Maddox of Boone county. He also has had many years of experience in 4-H and Utopia clubs. He owns and operates a poultry and fruit farm which makes him more than a living. Most of the surplus returns are put back into the improvement of the land, buildings and equipment. After recounting his experience in farming, Grant adds: "But most important is the development of our two boys, two 'typical Utopians'."

Liberty doesn't die. It may lie dormant for awhile but someone will come along and set the spark ablaze.

CHEVROLET CO. MANUALS TO SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES MAY 11

Detroit, May 11.—More than 5,000 copies of the 100,000 new 1940 service manuals issued recently by the Chevrolet Motor Division have been mailed to schools and colleges throughout the country. It was announced here today by Ed Hedner, national director of service.

Considered an authoritative guide-book for mechanics and engineers, the manual is in use in hundreds of schools and colleges, as well as serving the more than 27,000 Chevrolet mechanics in dealerships from coast to coast.

"Many technical schools, as well as universities with engineering departments, annually request our service manual," Hedner said, "for use in connection with their training work. More than a twentieth of the books we print are used as textbooks and reference works."

"Likewise, at least 40,000 independent garage men receive this manual after their certification by local Chevrolet dealers as competent and approved Chevrolet service headquarters. In addition, the manual is translated into scores of foreign languages for distribution by our export division. Thus, this American automotive best-seller becomes an international authority."

The new manual, which covers every phase of Chevrolet service and repair work, is a 282-page reference book, explaining by picture and description every process involved in scientific servicing of the new car.

Departments which receive special consideration include lubrication, body, frame, shock absorbers, front suspension, axle and springs, rear axle, universal joints, rear springs, brakes, engine, fuel system, cooling system, clutch transmission, vacuum gearshift, fuel tanks, exhaust system, steering gear, wheels and tires, chassis, sheet metal and electrical system.

"Even though this service manual affords the mechanic sufficient information to do a thoroughly workmanlike repair job," Mr. Hedner added, "the information in it is augmented from week to week by special bulletins on specific repair procedures. In addition, regular service schools are conducted at many points throughout the year, giving the mechanic further last-minute instruction."

"Annually, more than 27,000 service men attend these schools, wherein contests are held to encourage these men to attain greater proficiency in their work. All of this means, of course, superior service for the owner."

The person who is contented to get along without that which he cannot afford, is an example for all of us.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Baked Frankfurters—6 skinless frankfurters, 1 clove garlic, 1 tablespoon glycerine, one-fourth pound cheese, 12 slices bacon. Cut frankfurters lengthwise but not all the way through. Open and rub meat with cut clove of garlic. Cut cheese in slices and fill each frankfurter with a slice of cheese and press together again. Rub outside of frankfurters with glycerine and then wrap a strip of bacon tightly around each end and secure with toothpicks. Place in shallow pan and roast quickly in very hot oven. When bacon is crisp they are done. Rubbing the frankfurters and the glycerine keeps the outside soft during the cooking and prevents the meat drying out.

After seeing the south's offering for 1940 bathing suits, there is still something to that about beauty being only skin deep.

Why is it you can remember who fought in the War of the Roses, and forget your best friend's name when performing an introduction?

Final Trapping Laws To Be Issued By State During October

"The trapping regulations recently sent out by me under the new law are not yet complete. In October, the final ones will be given out. In their new traps to the two traps already permitted—the Verbal Chain-Loop Let Hold for land animals, and the Bridled Rubber-jawed trap in drowning sets for muskrat and mink, will be included any other humane leg-holds with meantime have passed the required tests and are being manufactured. One other promising chain-loop, a prize trap or the American Humane Association, is now under consideration. Inventors and trappers may submit their traps in addition to my office. All must be leg-holds.

"In the regulations sent out, there was omitted by mistake the rule that every trap set must be visited within 24 hours, instead of 36 hours as under the former law," Major Brown stated.

to lay a good foundation and not put it off. There are thousands of acres of sheep land going to waste. If you have a corn farm, raise hogs and cattle.

We claim no livestock farm is complete without some sheep. Western farmers make money feeding lambs; why can't we?

We have a good efficient salesman in our sheep department with a life time's experience as a lamb salesman. We have a good outlet for all consignments to us with a good shipping demand, and our local demand is increasing.

If you will compare prices and service, you will find the Cincinnati market in the lead as to net dollars. We do not sort out a few of the tops for a top price and sell the balance or bulk of the shipment for seconds or thirds for much lower prices. We sell every shipment on its merits.

Our market last season was very active and high prices prevailed for all grades. Sorting was extremely light, the bulk of the lambs selling straight.

We think the coming lamb season will be a repetition of last year with plenty of competition. We firmly believe prices will be satisfactory to all lamb raisers.

The Cincinnati lamb market is well supported by several large packers and numerous local butchers; thereby giving the market strong support daily. We look for a normal crop of lambs compared with last year, but marketings will be later owing to shortage of green feed and a severe winter. Trim your bucks, make your lambs good weights and fat.

We would not advise the marketing of light-weight lambs during the early season, as the heavier lambs the more dollars are realized for the producer. Packers will favor the heavier weight lambs for shipments East, also heavier fleeces.

Our market will be in a good position to handle extra heavy lambs at satisfactory prices. Our market, in all departments, is equipped with registration scales under government supervision.

We have done more than our part to help the truck sheep and lamb shippers to the Cincinnati market by refusing to dock truck sheep and lambs, causing the other markets to take off the dock also. With these facts, we think we are worthy of consideration.

Those of us who have read the novel, "Of Human Bondage," will remember the marked personality defect due to a chronic foot condition. Here we have the case of a man who, because of a childhood foot affliction, grew up with his entire personality warped and distorted.

Usually a parent is anxious for his child to have a well integrated, well rounded personality; be congenial, intelligent, healthy, athletic and socially desirable. The distorted personality is one in which but few or even only one element of the personality is perfected or desired by the individual. You have all heard of children who develop their athletic skill and totally disregard their academic training, and of others who are bookworms, and never leave the house to participate in the activities of their social group. This exclusion of activities in favor of only one activity is very often an indication of a shortcoming of the personality.

Let us consider, for example, the case of a child with flat feet. Because of his flat feet, he has difficulty in running and moving about among his friends. He finds shortly that he very often loses in games where speed and agility are required. In the simple game of tag he is usually in the center and the butt of ridicule of his playmates. When teams are chosen he is usually the last one picked and soon begins to feel that he is not capable or wanted by his friends. He begins to avoid them, and tries to escape the ridicule by doing things which he can do by himself. He turns to reading, or some other solitary activity, and finds in this way some protection from his playmates. Thus his personality becomes distorted and he fears to meet people on the same social level. He feels inferior and tries to run away.

However, let me not leave the impression that all mental disorders are due to the feet, but let me rather emphasize that mental disturbances that are caused by poor foot health should be quickly eradicated.—Adv.

CONSIDER EGGS

Say nutrition experts at the Kentucky College of Agriculture: Eggs are a valuable and cheap food which should be included in the diet in some form every day. With a good flock of chickens the farm family can have eggs the entire year. Eggs are universally liked easily digested and may be served to persons of all ages, to the sick and the well and to those who are convalescing.

FIE POINTS

Brush the top of pies with sweet milk before baking and you will give a golden brown such as most bakery pies. . . . To much water makes pie crust tough and also makes it hard to roll. Add water about a teaspoonful at a time and use as little flour as possible on rolling pin and board. . . . When baking a custard pie the oven should be hot for the first ten minutes so the liquid will not soak into the crust.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

By doctor's orders, Peter Lorre smoked a special brand of cigarettes in his role as Monsieur Pils in "Strange Cargo," to be shown at the Gayety, tonight and Friday. Lorre smokes incessantly in his opening scenes, as part of his characterization. But his doctor had warned him to cut down on his use of tobacco. So a Hollywood tobaccoist rolled cigarettes for him which are the same length as the standard brand but only half the diameter. Thus, says Lorre, he smoked half as much.

SATURDAY

That comical road team, Belle and Scotty, together with the popular western star Roy Rogers, make their first appearance in motion pictures in a feature titled "Shine On Harvest Moon."

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Penny Singleton shivered realistically and her teeth chattered as, wrapped in a robe, she stepped from a shower one day during production of "Blonde on a Budget" at the Gayety Theatre. "Print it," Director Frank R. Strayer said with a grin of appreciation. But the drenched blonde bursted shook an angry fist at the property man who had been handling the shower mixer. "I wasn't acting," Miss Singleton said as they wrapped her in warm blankets. "I was crossed up. After promising a warm shower, they turned on the ice cold water." Strayer waited until Miss Singleton had warmed up—and her temper had cooled. Then he admitted he had ordered the shock of an icy shower, for realism.

The electric razor has replaced the clam shells as a method of having the heads of Indians. In the eighteenth century the Mohawks and other Redskins took each hair between the edges of two clam shells and yanked it out by the roots. But when seven Indians were chosen for location work in "Northwest Passage," which will be shown at the Gayety, their heads were shaved by an electric razor. The only hair left on their heads was a scalplock running from forehead to the back of the neck. Thus made up, the Indians played Mohawk guides to the Rangers, led by Spencer Tracy at Major Rogers, Robert Young and Walter Brennan are Rangers in the Technicolor adventure picture.

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, MAY 23, 1940

NUMBER 51

RED CROSS DRIVE OFFICERS NAMED

BY REV. J. RUSSELL CROSS, CHAIRMAN OF BOONE COUNTY CHAPTER OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman Boone County Chapter of the American National Red Cross, announces the following appointments of chairman:

Mrs. Joseph Huey, Union, Kentucky, has accepted the Chairmanship of the Production of Garments for War Relief Committee. The need for warm clothing by the civilian victims of war is urgent. The value of the articles produced by volunteers will enable the American Red Cross to give substantial assistance to our sister Red Cross Societies. The finished product distributed abroad not only brings warmth and comfort to people in distress but also expresses the interest of sympathetic people of a peaceful nation in the welfare of citizens in less fortunate countries. Mr. Huey will call a meeting in the near future of interested Boone County women to assist in the production of women's and girls' dresses and layettes.

Mrs. Walter Ferguson, Union; Mrs. Lula Huey, Walton; Mrs. Kirtley Cropper, Burlington; Miss Lucy Lee Grant, Hebron; and Mrs. Jane Utz, Florence, have been asked to serve as the Advisory Committee on Nursing Activities. The Red Cross chapter announces that it is hoped a nurse will be secured and will begin her service to Boone County by June 1st.

Red Cross War Relief Fund From Europe every hour comes new and agonizing details of destruction and human misery. War to all its horror and brutality is being waged on old men, women, and children as well as on the uniformed forces of peace-loving nations.

Hundreds of thousands are fleeing headlong before ruthless mechanized invasion. They go with little hope. They leave behind their homes and their means of livelihood. Their flight is menaced by destruction from the air and from death-dealing weapons on every side.

To their aid the American Red Cross is rushing medical and hospital supplies, surgical dressings, ambulances and warm clothing.

BELLEVIEW LEADS BOONE LEAGUE

BY DEFEATING BURLINGTON 14-1 SATURDAY-BIG BONE AND HEBRON TIED FOR SECOND PLACE.

Belleview remains undefeated in the Boone County Saturday afternoon league by virtue of a 14-1 victory over Burlington last week at the local park. The Grant management brought "Long Bill" Rogers out of retirement and he let the opposition down with six hits, several being on the scratchy side.

Several costly errors paved the way for victory though Belleview did collect some solid blows off Alkin and C. Benson, Burlington moundsmen.

Battery for Belleview was Rogers and Dennison and for Burlington, Alkin, Benson and Clore.

Big Bone Wins Big Bone won its second league game by defeating Sand Run 12-6. Aylor and Ryle were on the hill for Big Bone with Aylor and Sprague serving them up for the Sand Run nine. Cliff Stephens, Big Bone outfielder, was the big offensive noise of the game. He hit the "jack pot" for a single, double, triple and a home run.

Hebron Nips Petersburg Hebron nipped the Petersburg boys at the Hebron park Saturday by a score of 9 to 1. Goodridge and Judy was the battery for Hebron, while Bradburn, Deck and Christy composed the battery for Petersburg.

Standing Won Lost Belleview 2 0 Big Bone 2 1 Hebron 2 1 Burlington 1 2 Petersburg 1 2 Sand Run 0 3

Games This Week Sand Run at Burlington; Hebron at Big Bone; Belleview at Petersburg.

It has called upon the people of America to express their sympathy for these innocent victims by the raising of at least ten millions of dollars for their relief.

The Boone County Chapter's share of this relief fund is $400.00. There can be no doubt that our people will gladly over-subscribe this amount. They have full confidence that their Red Cross will administer these funds in a manner in keeping with its finest traditions of 60 years of service to humanity. Please send your contribution at once to Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman Boone County Chapter, American Red Cross, Walton, Ky., or to Mr. C. L. Cropper, Treasurer, Burlington, Ky.

President's Appeal President Roosevelt's appeal follows:

The American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a war-relief fund of at least $10,000,000.

I urge all American who have a feeling of deep sympathy for the people of these unfortunate countries who today have been added to the long list of those who are suffering the horrors of invasion and aerial bombardment, to respond quickly and generously to this appeal.

The American Red Cross, our official national voluntary relief agency, is efficiently organized to answer such emergency calls. It is, therefore, the logical agency through which our citizens can express their compassion for the innocent victims of the wars that rage overseas. I am confident we will not fail them.

After the service, Rev. James, the pastor, remarked, "This has been the most impressive ordination of deacons, I have ever attended. All the messages were given and the spirit of the service was excellent. We appreciate the fine messages and the excellent brethren set apart as deacons. We appreciate all our deacons, men whose characters are above reproach and men who cooperate freely in supporting the pastor and the church. With such men leading we cannot, by God's grace, fail."

DENNIE GOOCH IS REELECTED

PRESIDENT OF LEAGUE OF KENTUCKY SPORTSMEN AT MEETING HELD IN SOMERSET MAY 12, 13 AND 14TH.

Delegates attending the sixth Annual Convention of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, held in Somerset on May 12, 13 and 14, re-elected Dannie Gooch as president of the League and Dahlia Gooch as Secretary and picked Lexington as the convention city for May 1941.

Many interesting speakers addressed the assembly of sportsmen and all stressed the importance of a coordinated program of conservation by both sportsmen and the Division of Game and Fish and praised the progress made along the lines of conservation of wildlife in Kentucky during the past four years by Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, and his assistants.

Major Brown, in his talk to the representative sportsmen, praised the work that the League had been doing and pointed out that the league has carried out since its inception.

Jim Den Talbot, commissioner of finance and personal representation of Governor Keen Johnson, informed a banquet audience of 250 that the league is fulfilling its portion of the co-operative sportsman-state program in the commonwealth, and he urged the conservationists to continue their splendid assistance to the Division of Game and Fish in its program of improving fishing and hunting in the state.

Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, also speaking at the banquet, pledged whole-hearted cooperation of his papers with sportsmen of the state in their program.

Those attending the banquet also heard Clark Ripley, noted outdoor author, and Tom Underwood, editor of the Lexington Herald, speak on conservation of natural resources.

TOBACCO PLANTS UNUSUALLY LATE

ACCORDING TO H. R. FORKNER, COUNTY AGENT—FARMERS ARE TREATING BEDS WITH BORDEAUX MIXTURE.

Tobacco plants are later than usual. Approximately ten farms were visited with Russell Hunt, tobacco field agent on last Thursday, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The continual cold spring weather had held back the growth of the plants, causing in many instances the center leaves to turn yellow. This condition has alarmed many growers.

Mr. Hunt advised that this yellowing of plants was due only to cold weather and the plants would grow out of this as soon as a few warm days came. He advised against putting nitrate fertilizer on the beds until warm weather showed the plants were not growing out. Too much nitrate will make the plants tender at setting time.

Many farmers are treating their beds with Bordeaux mixture when the first two to four leaves appear and again in ten days or two weeks. This treatment helps control flea beetles, blue mold, gives the plants a healthier look and the most important control some of the worst leaf diseases in the field.

A few of the farmers treating their beds the past week are Albert Parker, Hub Fisher, John Noel, S. B. Sleet, A. G. McMullen, H. E. White, Lloyd McGlasson and many others. Bordeaux mixture is composed of Bluestone and lime. The lime should be dissolved and thoroughly mixed with the lime water. The solution should be used immediately on mixing as the effective value is lost in a few hours. Many farmers are attempting to hold the solution from one treatment to the other. This should not be done.

JUNE 1 DEADLINE FOR DOG LICENSE

DELINQUENTS WILL BE CITED TO APPEAR BEFORE COUNTY JUDGE AFTER THIS DATE—PENALTY WILL BE ADDED.

Dog owners in Boone County have until June 1, 1940 to secure dog license without paying a penalty. Sheriff F. M. Walton stated Tuesday. After that date delinquents will be cited to appear before the County Judge and show cause, if any, why they should not be dealt with according to law.

Sheriff Walton stated that after June 1st a penalty of sixty cents would be added on each delinquent dog owner.

According to a letter from the Kentucky Department of Agriculture Boone County is approximately 350 short of licenses sold during the year 1939-40.

The letter in part follows: "The enforcement of the Dog Law is placed in this Department and we are required to see that the law is fully enforced in every county, hence we are quite concerned about the decline in tag sales in Boone County."

"The Franklin Circuit Court has jurisdiction in the matter and we are very anxious for the sheriffs and this Department alike to be fully protected in the event the Court should consider indictments as it did four years ago. Therefore we urge you to give special attention to proper enforcement of the law in order that none of us may be embarrassed about the matter."

The letter was signed by William H. Fay, Commissioner. Sheriff Walton urges all dog owners to secure their license before June 1st, thus avoiding the penalty.

Boy Scout District Committee To Hold Outdoor Meeting

The Gunpowder District Boy Scout Committee will hold an outdoor meeting at the Gunpowder Creek Camp site on the Dr. George Speer farm just off the East Bend Road at 8:00 p. m. (glow time) Thursday, May 23rd. It was announced by Robert Clore, District Chairman.

FISHING SEASON OPENS JUNE 1ST

RUMORS CIRCULATED THAT OPENING OF SEASON WOULD BE MAY 30 (MEMORIAL DAY) ARE FALSE.

Rumors that have been circulating during the past several days among anglers of Kentucky that the "closed" season on fishing in this state would be lifted on May 30 (Memorial Day) in order to give those persons the advantage of the holiday, were "spiked" today by Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish.

"This closed season on fishing was created by the Kentucky Legislature upon recommendation made by the sportsmen of this state and only an act of the Legislative body can change such a law. No individual or department has the power or authority to change such a legislative act," Major Brown stated.

Brown also urged all fishermen, who have not already purchased their fishing licenses, to do so immediately. He pointed out that by waiting until the last day of the month would cause unnecessary confusion at the clerk's office. In urging immediate purchase of the licenses, Brown explained that it is easy to see that the amount of conservation work done by the Division of Game and Fish depends entirely upon the fishermen and the hunters of the state.

"By securing your licenses now—both hunting and fishing—you are aiding the Division of Game and Fish in its program of Conservation and propagation of wildlife in Kentucky and you sportsmen and sportswomen will have the satisfaction of knowing you are doing your part towards helping that program along," Major Brown pointed out.

DEAD AND GONE

This suggestion may only concern you during the holiday season when you are mailing packages and letters in quantities, but the postoffice throughout the land can testify that their dead letter office is used through your carelessness during the year. There are hundreds of thousands of letters that are mailed without any addresses on them and a hundred times that many that are misdirected or poorly written. There are drafts and money orders and checks that find their way into the dead letter offices and are never claimed. If you can't remember to put your return address on every piece of mail you write, have some envelopes printed

OVERDOING IT

On one hand we are told that women go in for exercise too violently, that they don't take it in easy doses but jump into physical activity with a vengeance. On the other hand we see that women are active so much during a day's labor in their homes that the exercising they might do outside could not be more strenuous. They have been warming up for sports doing vigorous housework. A mother of a family will convince you that one day of activity on her home grounds doing regular tasks is as much exercise as a game of golf, tennis or bowling. This need of caution in exercise probably would apply more aptly to the woman coming to the office or who have no household duties to perform.

THEY DESERVE IT

Last September Worcester, Massachusetts began a safety campaign against traffic accidents. Today they are reaping the harvest of this program for the National Safety Council has awarded them first place in its population class. The campaign was waged against those cases which reach police and are "fixed." It doesn't make any difference how many laws the city makes to protect you if someone can "fix it." The city of Worcester has difficulty in making their citizens realize that laws apply to everyone regardless of the guilty party might be. After much effort and when they saw the accident rate dropping, all began to cooperate. Today they are a very proud city.

APPRECIATE SUMMER, STUDENTS ARE TOLD

Use summer-time 100 percent, as many people do. So suggests the "Health of the Family" class at the home economics department of the University of Kentucky, explaining: "Those who literally live in the open air, stay in the sunshine, drink gallons of fresh milk and cream, get exercise through work or golf or swimming, really use summer-time. Those who encase themselves in heavy clothing, mope indoors on the brightest days, read by a lamp or electric light when they might be walking outdoors, scarcely use summer at all—it might as well be midwinter, for all the good it does them."

The class drew up the following practical suggestions:

Be gradual in approaching summer-time; swim or golf or swimming, really use summer-time.

USE CARE

Yellow-bellied sapsuckers often damage the evergreen trees in the spring. Try painting the wounds with any tar product to stop the flow of sap. The birds do not like the taste of the tar and will leave it alone. During dry seasons these evergreens punctured by the birds seem less able to stand drought.

NEW JUICES

For a variety and a welcome change for the hostess in entertaining try these juice combinations: Tomato and clam, tomato and pineapple, grapefruit and orange, grapefruit and grape juice, lemon and cherry, apple and pineapple, prune and orange, raspberry and lemon, grapefruit and cherry with chopped mint.

PARAGRAPHS

There are some women who will seek a bargain, even when it comes to a husband.

JEREMIAH ANNOUNCES THE NEW COVENANT

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 31:31-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people."—Jeremiah 31:33.

God's law written in the hearts of all men—surely that is the ultimate goal of all our efforts, and therein we will find the solution of all of our problems. Jeremiah the prophet, in the midst of a despairing people with only captivity and sorrow before them, has been given the startling revelation against God, gives a prophetic foreglimpse of the day when all Israel and Judah should know God. Sin was to be forgiven, fellowship restored, and men over all the earth were to know God. Obviously, that prophecy is still future for Israel, but in the meantime God has permitted us to enter into the enjoyment of our covenant of grace.

I. The Old Covenant (vv. 31, 32). The promise of a new covenant at once raises the question, "What was the old covenant?" We do not have space to make any complete study of it, but we note that while God did make a great covenant with Abraham, founding the nation of Israel (Gen. 17:1-14), the covenant with Moses (Exodus 20-23). We observe that it was

1. National (v. 32). The old covenant was made with Israel only, and could bring blessing to the other nations of the earth only indirectly, as they might share the peace and prosperity which would have come to Israel had they been obedient to God. God was here dealing with a chosen nation for whom He had a special plan and purpose.

2. Limited (v. 32). The blessing of the old covenant was limited to the sense that it was national, but also in that it was conditional. God's promise hinged on His word in Exodus 19:5: "Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people." In other words, the fulfillment of this covenant was dependent on the faithfulness of the people. We know that they failed.

3. Broken by Israel (v. 32). God was like "an husband" (v. 32) unto Israel. He was patient, tender, forgiving, and ready to restore them to Himself. He used His great power on their behalf as He "took them by the hand," and yet we read "my covenant they brake" (v. 32). Human failure in spite of God's promise and goodness, that is the history of man under law. Now, however, we turn to the new covenant of grace.

II. The New Covenant (vv. 33-37). Jeremiah looked forward to the day when there was to be a covenant that is

1. Personal (v. 33). The reference here is not to a law written in a book, but to a law, neglected or forgotten, or broken because there is no power in man to keep it. This new law is to be written in the hearts of men. It is personal—not something which we share as a member of a great nation.

2. Universal (v. 34). From the least to the greatest, every man shall know God. That promise awaits its future complete fulfillment to Israel (and remember that God has not forgotten His people). Even now, however, we have the spiritual fulfillment of the promise in the Church. It is true now that, regardless of nationality, education, wealth, or position, the grace of God is made manifest in the hearts of men and women everywhere.

3. Assured by God (vv. 35-37). The old covenant of law failed, for it hinged upon the faithfulness of undependable man—"If ye will" (Exod. 19:5). But the new covenant of grace rests upon the "I will" of God (v. 34; see also Heb. 8:10-12). This is indeed "a better covenant, which was established upon better promises" (Heb. 8:6). It is an "everlasting covenant" (Heb. 13:20).

Be Satisfied
I say to thee, be thou satisfied. It is recorded of the harps that with a general consent they went to drown themselves, out of a feeling of their misery; but when they saw a company of frogs more fearful than they were, they began to take courage and come ashore again. Compare thine estate with others.—Robert Burton.

Being Good Secretly
When others do you a favor speak of it. When you do your neighbor a kindness, let him find it out; then you will find a lot of satisfaction in the fact that you have been decent.—Van Amburgh.

Summing It Up
The man who has begun to live more seriously within, begins to live more simply without.—Phillips Brooks.

INSPIRATIONAL
Man is not the creature of circumstances. Circumstances are the creatures of men.—Disraeli.

There has been some damage to our Black Top Roads caused by tractors and farm machinery being moved over our roads under their own power without the necessary precaution. We are asking that the people of our County co-operate as this damage is prohibited by law and we feel sure that this has been done thoughtlessly. If every one will co-operate we will soon have good roads over most of Boone County.

Posture From The Ground Up

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
5th and Madison Covington

The shape of the body is maintained by a frame work of bones fastened together at the joints by ligaments. Muscles attached to the bones by tendons help to hold the bones in place and move the movable ones. The strong flexible column of bones known as the spine of backbone is the great supporting center of the body.

From the ground up, body balance depends upon the even distribution of weight about an imaginary center axis. Whenever you move, many different sets of muscles, bones, and joints function as levers in adjusting the weight masses of the body so that you can keep your balance. While standing or sitting, movement may be so slight that it is barely noticeable. In playing strenuous games, such as tennis or football, thousands of adjustments must be made at high speed.

The feet play a very—very—important part in body balance as they support the entire weight of the body both in standing and in moving and hold it upright against the downward pull of gravity.

Feet—distorted in shoes and weak shanked shoes, that do not hold the bones in posture—make it impossible to maintain body balance. Unbalance can cause many ills and distress in remote parts of the body. Backaches, headaches, and even nervousness or poor digestion may be caused by the shoes you are now wearing.—Adv.

THIS HELPS

As soon as you take a sponge cake from the oven, invert the pan on a cake rack until the cake is cool. This lets air circulate under the cake, helping to prevent gathering of moisture in the pan. When cake is cool, loosen the sides with a spatula and slip the cake out.

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."

TONIGHT

"Northwest Passage" starring Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young, will be shown tonight. This picture is one of the best of the year, and has thrilled thousands of movie-goers. Don't miss it.

FRIDAY

"The Light That Failed" starring Ronald Colman, Walter Huston, Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus and other well known stars will be our feature attraction Friday. While he blazed his story on battlefield and canvas, two women loved him, each in her own fashion! One, challenging, scornful, tempestuous temptress... the other charming, talented, inspiring rival for fame! Artist... adventurer... dreamer... lover. The screen's grandest romantic actor in Rudyard Kipling's greatest story!

SATURDAY

Lawlessness among a group of men sworn to oppose criminals is the unique theme of George O'Brien's latest action drama, "Terror of the Lawless". The thrilling story revolves around the sinister activities of a group of vigilantes originally organized in a pioneer western town to stamp out disorder. When a ruthless killer gets control of the secret band, and kills and plunders under the cloak of justice, a reign of terror prevails.

O'Brien in the role of a young lawyer, rallies to the defense of the victims and by swinging the honest element behind him, smashes the gang after the gang. He is said to be one of the most exciting gun battles ever brought to the screen in a western drama.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Beery's "good bad man" again! In his greatest role... bar none... as an ornery, "no good" guy... he proves he's a ton of fighting man. When he storms into danger for a girl and a man who taught him the meaning of gallantry! Starred with Beery are John Howard, Dolores Del Rio and many others. This is Beery's best picture—see it.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

A few theatrical season back, straw hat meant a summer headpiece in general use, but nowadays it means a summer barn-theatre production, and that's what "The Farmer's Daughters". Broadway "discovered" the backwoods as a backdrop when it found out there was time for fun as well as industry when the boys set up shop in the cow pastures. Martha Raye and Charlie Ruggles head the cast of this Paramount laugh-getter which finds the cast in clover and in misadventures up to its collective head.

The story gets under way when Ruggles, a Broadway producer, finds an "angel" for his new show who insists that his ex-sweetheart be starred and that the production be kept out of the city for at least three months. The fiery ex-flame is only one of Charlie's headaches; a frolicsome playright, a "jinx" daughter of the farmer whose barn he has rented, a last-minute defection by the leading lady and production complications are some of the others.

TWINS ARE NUMEROUS

IN BAPTIST ORPHANAGE

Glendale, Ky.—In the United States as a whole, only one baby in 80 is born a twin, but at the Kentucky Baptist Children's Home, here, the ratio of twins is a little more than one to 18. Why twins are so plentiful among Baptist orphans is a mystery to Superintendent J. G. Barbe and his staff.

A partial explanation might be that single orphans are more likely to be taken into the homes of relatives, who might find it difficult to support twins. But this would hardly account for a prevalence of twins more than four times that found in the population as a whole.

The Kentucky Baptist Children's Home will be 25 years old June 23. Kentucky Baptists, who number 370,000, are planning a Silver Jubilee Celebration, purpose of which is to raise $75,000 for enlargement of the home.

To the existing main building will be added a wing which will accommodate 100 more children. There are 225 in the home now. This increase in population will of course necessitate enlargement of the dining room and kitchen.

Private subscriptions have made it possible already to begin construction of a residence for the Superintendent and his family. Their removal from the main structure will provide more space for the children, and will permit installation of infirmary for all children, segregating them from the ones who are in good health. Those seriously ill are treated at the Baptist Hospital in Louisville.

Farmers Show
Interest in Improved
Boone County Pastures

Many farmers who are careful not to overwork their stock, fail to give the same consideration to their pastures, according to Ward T. Darnell, CCC Camp Superintendent, Soil Conservation Service. Farmers in this section are taking more interest in improved pastures than in previous years. It is extremely important that new pastures in process of being developed be protected from overgrazing. It is easy to damage pasture plants before they become well established.

The growth of pasture plants is seasonal and is subject to drought periods. Permanent pastures, therefore, seldom furnish satisfactory grazing throughout the summer months. It is important to provide supplementary grazing to relieve permanent pasture during critical periods.

Cowpeas or soybeans in a mixture with grass are best planted during the next few weeks to help carry livestock during summer droughts. Many farmers have areas of annual lespedeza that can be used for this purpose.

Perennial plants are, however, more desirable for this purpose since these pastures are usually needed every season. Alfalfa grass mixtures are especially desirable where the land is adapted to this legume. A thick stand of lespedeza is also a good erosion control measure and can be used with grasses for pasture.

Conservation plans which Soil Conservation Service technicians are assisting farmers to develop, provide for the planting of such crops on steep and eroded land on areas convenient to permanent pasture, wherever feasible, to provide temporary grazing and hay production as well as erosion control on these areas.

FREEDOM BRIEF FOR OHIO MAN

WHO ESCAPED FROM JAIL SATURDAY NIGHT—JAILER CAPTURED PRISONER JUST OUTSIDE OF TOWN.

Fred Shaffer, held in Burlington jail, charged with stealing a bicycle, escaped Saturday night by forcing bricks loose from one of the front windows. He lowered himself to the ground by bed clothing tied to the bars.

Shaffer's freedom was short-lived, however, for as he left the alley near the jail he was spotted by Elmer Kirkpatrick, jailer who was returning from the courthouse. Noting the suspicious manner in which the man was creeping along, Kirkpatrick followed him for some distance, but was unaware that Shaffer had escaped from jail.

Returning to the jail Kirkpatrick found the bed clothing dangling from the window. He summoned Courtney Kelly and drove out the Petersburg-Burlington road where they found Shaffer walking toward Idlewild. He was returned to the Burlington jail by Kirkpatrick.

According to officials Shaffer was the first man to escape from the new Burlington jail since it was erected.

Shaffer was arrested early in the month near Dry Ridge by State Highway Patrolman James Carr, after he was charged with breaking into the garage of a Florence resident, where he slept, then stole a bicycle. Shaffer gave his address as Hillsboro, Ohio.

Constance Nine Takes Third Straight Game

The Constance Hilltoppers defeated Midway at Constance Sunday afternoon by the score of 14 to 3. The score would have been much closer had not the visiting team made six costly errors and gave poor field support. The Hilltoppers made two errors, but cost nothing. This was the third in a row for Constance to win. The team has not suffered a defeat this year.

The battery for Midway was Craddock and Kittle pitching and Rouse catching. For Constance Dolwick was on the mound with Snelling and Riddell receiving.

Bromley meets Constance at Constance Decoration Day and Burlington will visit the Hilltoppers Sunday.

Three base hits S. Vahlsing; two base hits, S. Vahlsing, Turner for Constance and Greulie for Midway.

30 Nets, 60 Trot Lines Confiscated by Officers

HYBRID CORN CHECK PLOTS

BEING CONDUCTED BY LOCAL SEED CORN PRODUCERS—25 VARIETIES TO APPEAR IN TEN HILL, TWO-ROW SERIES.

The members of the Boone County Hybrid Seed Corn Growers' Association planted 25 varieties of hybrid corn on seven-tenths of an acre on the farm of the late C. G. Crider. These various hybrids are some of the old line varieties that have been produced by seed growers here as well as some of the new hybrids that are being introduced for the first time.

Each one of the 25 varieties will appear in ten hill, two-row series five different places in the plot, thus giving a very uniform return when all of the various hybrids are planted under the same conditions on uniform soil.

Test plots of this type should be of much interest to local producers to follow throughout the year as to the various hybrids that do well in our county. A similar plot to this in 1939 showed our adapted hybrids to give as high as 37.4 per cent increase in yield over locally grown open pollinated corn.

The local seed corn association plans to have a similar demonstration to the one described above in different localities in the county this year. Demonstrations of this type are also being conducted in each county in the State.

Field tours are to be conducted at different times throughout the season under the supervision of the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association and the Extension Service, so that various characteristics might be noted in eliminating our undesirable hybrids.

Tobacco Specialist Addresses Utopia Members Thursday

Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist, College of Agriculture, addressed Utopia Club members at their regular meeting at Burlington on last Thursday evening on tobacco production and disease control problems confronting tobacco growers today.

Disease control plays a big factor in tobacco production. Most farmers are not familiar with diseases that cause considerable losses and that are present in their tobacco fields. He recommended the use of certified seed, approved root rot resistant variety seed, plant bed treatment with Bordeaux mixture for control of leaf diseases and proper balance of fertilizer or plant food.

Hunt showed colored slides showing problems found in the field and results of control measures. Good discussions on the program were also presented by Mrs. B. C. Stephens and Mary Hood Gillaspie.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rudicill and son spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Oldham and daughter, of Mt. Sterling.

REA COMPLETES FIRST SECTION

OF APPROXIMATELY 40 MILES IN SOUTH END OF COUNTY—ENTIRE PROJECT TO BE COMPLETED BY AUGUST 1ST.

The first section, containing nearly 40 miles of REA lines has been complete this week, and current will be available to these persons in the next several days. It was stated by W. M. Smith, chairman for R. E. A. in Boone County.

The next block to be completed will be the section running from Big Bone Lick to New Haven, Hicks Pike and around the Big Bone Church through East Bend to Rabbit Hash, Waterloo and Burlington. All persons living in this section who have not already wired their homes are urged to do so at once as they will have current available in a few weeks. It is estimated that two-thirds of the homes have already been wired, however, it is stated that all the lines will be completed by August 1st.

Mr. Rowland, superintendent of the R. E. A. advises that any new sections desiring electricity should get easements from the County Agent's office and work these lines up at once, as he will ask for another allotment in July.

Fine progress has been made only through the fine spirit that the people of Boone County have shown in this work.

Electric Shop To Be Opened In Burlington

-Ryle and Smith, electricians announced this week that they will open an electric shop in the building formerly occupied by the Recorder, Burlington.

The building is being completely remodeled this week and will be ready for occupancy within the next week or ten days.

A complete line of refrigerators, stoves, electric irons and all kinds of electrical appliances will be carried in stock by these young men.

For the past few months Messrs Ryle and Smith have been engaged in wiring house in the area covered by the R. E. A. line. They will continue their work of wiring in connection with their business in Burlington.

LLOYD SOCIETY WILL MEET

The regular all-day meeting of the Lloyd Memorial Society will be held at the Lloyd Home, Florence, Saturday, June 1st. All members are urged to be present.

FIREMEN TO GIVE FISH FRY, DANCE

Arrangements have been completed by the Hebron Fire Department for a fish fry and dance at the Harvest Home grounds on Saturday, June 15th. The grounds will be open from 5 p. m. to 12 midnight.

A program of good music and refreshments of fish and soft drinks are promised those who attend. Music will be furnished by Red Hadden's orchestra, one of the leading orchestras in this section.

The public is invited to attend this dance and fish fry. We can show our appreciation of the department in this way.

During the past year the Hebron Fire Department has been very active in controlling fires, not only in their own precinct but in all surrounding territory. On several occasions, had it not been for this department grass fires in the Hebron and adjoining territory no doubt would have proved very disastrous.

The department has one of the best equipped fire fighting machine for a town of its size in the United States, according to reports. Their service has been very valuable during the past year, and citizens of this section of the county appreciate their efforts.

Proceeds from the dance will be used to purchase new fire fighting equipment. Let's help those who have helped us.

THE AMERICAN PRESS
"For Over Fifty Years"

A YEARLY TRIBUTE

Gone the day when a commencement speaker would stand before an audience of young people and inspire them with the thought that the world was their oyster and all they had to do was open the shell and digest the morsel therein. Education was supposed to show how to open the shell with the least amount of difficulty. That was yesterday.

Today the youth leaving the campus of knowledge for the arena of a larger, more exacting life, knows that what awaits him is no more than he expects to find; achievement through work and opportunity sought through endeavor. The graduate of today is not too proud to accept the blue jeans as a stepping stone to security. The era of the white-collared job is giving way to a realization that manual labor is on a higher level than ever before.

The number of jobs open will not go around and the youth knows this. He is going to try and prove himself to be more valuable than the other fellow. Don't forget that the graduate has been employed these years while attending school, for getting an education and retaining it, is a difficult job in itself. The big factor is in what way has the student handled the job of getting the education? If with intelligence, energy and diligence, surely the fellow will put up a stiff fight and society will take advantage of his talents. There is much to be done and too many hands to do it, but the congratulations of The Recorder still go to the new workers who are adding their substantial weight to the wheel.

WHO NEXT?

The war spreads as rapidly as a forest fire. The smoke and crackle is apparent to us in this county as we try to keep our heads and our seats in order to maintain a steady boat. The many countries already engulfed by flames are putting up their best fight, and each nation not already embroiled in the disaster, holds its breath and wonders how long it can escape. A fire is quenched by water and this needs flow over many parched lands to a thirsty people. The universal prayer is that the water of peace soon will bring relief.

The daily developments of transgression keep the presses humming. News fresh this minute is stale tomorrow. Facts are printed in good faith but all news is censored before it leaves the other shores. The reading public must not be too glibly but try to realize the situation and think for themselves. They must not permit their sentiment to carelessly sweep them into this halocaust. Friendly countries that were once in agreement are now suspicious of other countries. The sympathy for each other is dimmed in their hurry to fortify and protect themselves against the world.

We hear about comments upon how long the U. S. can stay out of the fray. We ask if the flames can lick their way to our own shore. We hope to have chemicals and water at hand to extinguish the fire if it becomes uncomfortably warm. Perhaps we might be of more service to Europe if we keep ourselves in readiness to help pick up the pieces that have already fallen. Europe will need much assistance when the smoke clears away and the charred remains are apparent as a symbol of fight, right and might. Yes, Europe will need us in her rehabilitation program.

HANG A SIGN

A subscriber, recently returned from a lengthy auto trip, remarked about the number of towns he had entered that failed to display a name on any corner on the main street. He was confused unless he had consulted his road map or stopped the car long enough to ask a citizen, "What is the name of this town?" You feel silly to have to do this and yet the town itself is at fault. Perhaps the residents feel that it matters little to folks who are driving through, but almost every motorist wants to know where he has been. A nameless town looks worse than a nameless street and we don't want either in our community.

A SPADE'S A SPADE

Many a Boone county housewife has noticed the difference in the wrappers on bottles and cans that they use daily in their homes. The medicine cabinet will display containers that now "tell all" and labels print for all eyes to see, just what contents are enclosed and not leave it to the general imagination. The law is a protection for those who buy and the printed word carries more weight than ever before as it appears as a label on a food and drug container. It pays to tell people just what they are buying. Business has a growing conscience.

We have come far from that day when stretching the truth and the amount of wool in a garment by a high-powered salesman was the only guarantee of value. The average buyer appreciates frankness and exact information. The printed word of content, the spoken word of value will not lose sales.

A NEW FOOD

The advent of greenery throughout the countryside is a sight to please all eyes. The sound of a lawn mower is a pleasure that only those who have gone through a trying winter, can appreciate. Those states where grass stays green the year around, cannot know of the glorious vision of a green lawn after months of snow and slush-ridden terraces. There also arrives the task of exterminating the weeds that prosper and many a home spends many an hour digging dandelions from the lawn.

As we view grass from an artistic standpoint this year, bear in mind that recent research has found grass to be good as a food and high in vitamin content. We believe this and hope they get the subject down to more palatable stages for it is going to be mighty hard to make Boone countians swallow grass in its native state! It will take a deal of salesmanship. It seems practical however, that anything so full of sunshine element as grass should be healthful as a food. A dog has known this for a long time, as well as cows, sheep and horses. Man is sometimes slow to catch on.

A ROOF HAS AS MANY PURPOSES AS A SUIT OF CLOTHES, SAYS MCNAY

"The roof on a house can have as many different purposes as a suit of clothes," according to R. C. McNay, manager of the Boone-Kenton Lumber Co. "A suit of clothes," he points out, "is designed to serve as a covering for your body, keep you warm in winter, or allow you to keep as cool as possible in summer, and to give you a neat appearance."

"It is generally believed that a roof's only functions are to keep out the weather and give the house an attractive top covering," he said. "This has all been changed with the advent of the Cork Insulated Shingles—a patented asphalt shingle with a layer of granulated cork on the underside."

"Now," he points out, "a roof of these shingles will not only protect the house from the weather, and give a crowning color beauty to a home, but it will keep the house cooler in summer and correspondingly warmer in winter, with a substantial saving in fuel, in addition to its long life and fire retarding qualities."

According to Mr. McNay, the insulating value of these shingles is such that, having a roof with an area of 15 squares, and an average difference between inside and outside temperatures of 40 degrees Fahrenheit, the home owner who burns fuel $9.00 a month can save during a single heating season, the difference in cost between the Cork Insulated Shingle roof and the ordinary asphalt shingle roof.

"This saving in fuel, of course, continues year after year," he says. "There is also the advantage that cork insulation will retard the heat in summer and thereby make the home more comfortable in hot weather."

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONBy HAROLD L. LUNDQVIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 2

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts assigned for the year ending June 1, 1940. Copyright 1939, by Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

TESTING CONDUCT BY ITS USEFULNESS
(A Principle of Temperate Living)

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 15:1-14. Matthew 23:23-24. 1 Corinthians 10:24, 25. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall know them by their fruits.—Matthew 7:16.

Sound principles are foundational to right living. Right living is temperate living. The first temperance lesson for the year emphasized the sacredness of life. This lesson, which is our second one on that subject, properly stresses the importance of testing conduct by its usefulness.

The emphasis of modern thinking is upon learning, upon the brilliance of scientific achievement, with little or no concern about personal character. Christianity and the Bible go to the root of that matter, stressing the need of stalwart moral and spiritual character, without which other attainments are lacking in real value and meaning. Unless we can accomplish is the expression of the greatness of his character, it is transient and often detrimental in its effect on society.

Tested by results, the liquor traffic stands conclusively and completely condemned. Even its own frantic efforts to clean up and be more presentable indicates that fact. McAlpine made a rather acute comment when he said,

"IF I WERE A LIAR . . . I'd advertise beer as a food, whiskey as the promoter of the abundant life, and cocktails as the badge of social correctness. They say that if you repeat any thing times enough, people will believe it."

The Scripture portions before us present five inconsistencies, five instances where fact denies a false profession.

I. Wood Without Strength. (Ezek. 17:12.)
The branch of a vine is at its best too crooked and pliable to be very useful, but here we have a piece of vine which has been changed in the fire until it is so useless that it can only be burned up. This is the picture of a life, possibly somewhat limited in its abilities and gifts, but nevertheless valuable, but made useless by careless or dissolute living. How tragic!

II. Salt Without Savor (Matt. 5:13).
True salt is penetrating, antiseptic and purifying, but savorless salt is good for nothing but to make a road for the feet of men. "Ye are the salt of the earth." Christians, if they have the true savor in their lives, will count, by their very spiritual pungency, against sin and corruption in their communities.

III. Light Without Illumination (Matt. 5:14).

A light is intended to give illumination to all it surrounds about it. It always does that thing unless someone hides it under a cover, and then it becomes not only useless, but dangerous. A life lighted by faith in Christ will shine to the very ends of the earth and, as a missionary once said, "The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home."

We are in the light of the world, but if we cover our light we deny the very essence of our nature. Here is no thought of proud or selfish display. Light does not shout about itself, it just shines—but it really does shine.

IV. Trees Without Fruit (Matt. 7:16-20).
Every plant brings forth fruit after its own nature. We do not expect figs from thistles, but we do expect figs on the fig tree. The countryside bears no more desolate figure than a blasted, fruitless fig tree. Quickly the owner cuts it down and terminates its shame and uselessness by burning it. What about men and women? God has made them in His own image and likeness. He has given them intelligence and personal ability. He has a right to expect the fruit of a useful life from every one, and particularly from the Christian, who is "a good tree."

V. Life Without a Purpose (I Cor. 10:6, 7).
Light and salt are inanimate objects. Trees and vines with their wood and fruit are alive, but they are without intelligence and morality. Man, however, as we have already suggested, is the moral and intelligent crown of God's creation, made in His own image and likeness. If they who know better, live lives of careless indifference, yea of outright wickedness, how shall they escape the judgment of God in the day when they shall stand before Him to give an account of the manner in which they have used this precious gift of life?

The Beginning of Wisdom
He sent redemption to his people; he hath commanded his covenant forever; holy and reverent is his name. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; a good understanding have all they that do His commandments; His praise endureth forever.—Psalm 111: 9, 10.

Too many women are believers, believers in putting a number seven foot in a number six shoe.

One thing nice about the census taking in Boone County: it gave birth to a lot of parlor jokes.

BETHINK ONESELF

Today we do not pause to gloat over our wars of victory of the past nor do we speak of a fallen foe with hate. America gives this day in Maytime and in springtime, to commemorate the occasions when soldiers of our wars sacrificed themselves for a cause that was hailed as right and glorious. This day of memory is significant in that it stands for sympathy, sentiment and a symbol of peace although it originated in war. There should never fail to be a deep spirit of honor and respect in the hearts of us for those living and those dead who felt their duty to country was greater than the offering of their lives. We, here in Boone County must not lose sight or thought of the noble endeavor of those defenders who were furnished by this county and every other county in this great land, as cannon fodder "upon the altar of freedom." Many brave lads have been laid away on camp grounds and many are those souls who have weathered the storm to live today and place a wreath "in memory."

We have been gathering 'round local hearth discussing the present struggle abroad and we speak of past accomplishments when this nation won wars and claimed rewards and spoils. The air waves are filled with war broadcasts, newspaper columns teeming with war data of maps, pictures and correspondents tales. We are not able, if we would try, to get away from the thought of Memorial Day this year!

Too much we think of military strength and naval supremacy and too little do we pray for brotherhood and understanding. Can any of us truthfully say we are proud to give sons, fathers, brothers, friends to death and to battle so that in years to come we may gather at their graves and place a flower in memory?

DO IT NOW

Take precautions against destruction by moths. Cleanliness is the best weapon. By washing or dry-cleaning your garments you will destroy perspiration and soiled spots that moths seek.

Many dry-cleaners furnish moth-proof bags when you have winter garments cleaned for summer storage. Moth preventatives are useless unless clothes are rid of larvae that might be present in the cloth.

Wash woollens for this material is the one the moth usually destroys. watch dog, too.

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
5th and Madison Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less than normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts, and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must meet the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that, long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd into long, thin, shoes, and visa-versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The farm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accentuated in some significant degree.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolism or growth activity of the foot is interfered with. The attempts of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailments grow and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

SHORT COURSE IN POULTRY RAISING

The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture announces a short course in poultry raising June 17-20. All phases of the chicken business will be discussed by specialists and practical poultry keepers, including Dr. D. C. Warren, Kansas breeder.

Four points will be stressed: How to manage poultry for profit. How to judge poultry. How to identify and control diseases.

At the conclusion of the course, an examination will be given leading to certificates to permit flock-selection and pullover-testing under provisions of the national poultry improvement program.

JUST A TABLE

Buy an inexpensive folding card table that can be stored in the kitchen. Use it for serving lunches to the children or for the young daughter who wants to learn to bake cookies. It is handy as an extra work table and especially nice when entertaining and extra table space is needed for stacking dishes. It is used for pasting and painting by the young and is easily carried outside to be used on the lawn under a tree.

FISHING SEASON OPENS JUNE 1ST

Frankfort, Ky., May 28—Piscatorial addicts are looking forward to the arrival of June 1 when they can take to the public waters of Kentucky for what promises to be one of the best opening days this state has enjoyed in a long, long time as far as fishing is concerned.

Officials of the Division of Game and Fish point out that cold weather hindered fishing throughout the late winter and early spring months and only large numbers of fish were caught the latter part of April as the sun warmed the air and water. Since the month of May was closed to all fishing with the exception of pole and line fishing in the navigable waters (streams under lock and dam) the finny tribes have had very little opportunity to be tempted by live and artificial baits displayed by the anglers. Then too, the waters are in fine shape in every section of the state at the present time and this should play a great part in producing better fishing when June 1st rolls around.

The camp owners on Herrington Lake say that all boats and cabins have been rented and the lake should overflow with fishermen the opening day.

Reports which have been received by the Division officials and Conservation Officers indicate that a large turnout may be expected in every locality boasting a fishing stream.

Major Brown urged all anglers to secure their licenses immediately, in order to avoid any confusion or rush at the county clerk's offices.

EAST BEND

Church services were held at the East Bend Baptist Church Sunday.

Mrs. Forest Webster and son, Clarence Reynolds, of Covington, are spending a few days at the home of Charlie Webster.

Miss Dorothy Shinkle entertained a group of young people at her home Friday night.

Billy Whitehawk was to postpone his show which was to be held Friday night at Rabbit Hash on account of rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shinkle had as their week-end guests, Miss Velma Lee Black, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tucker and family, Mr. Tommy Williams, Ryle Isaacs, Charles Wallace, Harvey Readnour and Harold Hodges.

Ray Smith is setting tobacco. Born to Mrs. Charles Feldhaus, a boy, named James Matthew.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hodges spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Winkate.

Mrs. Howard McCubbin and Mrs. Howe Noel spent the week-end with their mother, Mrs. Maude Hodges.

Miss Kathryn Acra, Clarence Reynolds and Robert Webster called on Miss Thelma Hodges Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Thad Ryle entertained Bro. Ashcraft Sunday. The East Bend Baptist Sunday School will begin one hour earlier Sunday on account of the all-day meeting at Paint Lick, which some of the members wish to attend.

Miss Martha Padgett is spending a week at her sister's home in Covington.

GREAT EUROPEAN ANIMALS ACT IN CIRCUS DISPLAY

RINGLING - BARNUM SHOW THRILLS NATION WITH LATEST FEATURES.

With the most sensational mixed groups of performing wild animals ever seen in America—those of Europe's foremost trainer, Alfred Court—the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus will exhibit in Cumminsville Saturday and Sunday, June 8-9 its performance further notable by its new and fine array of other super-features from all continents and countless innovations in presentation.

Racing with Alfred Court for peak honors in this thrilling European invasion is the new opening spectacle, "The Return of Marco Polo," fashioned and costumed in Paris by Max Weldy, designer of the Polles Bergere productions, at a cost of over $60,000. This is the last word in pageantry, its color tones, gorgeously fantastic garb and rich trappings are like nothing ever seen in America before.

The newly-imported horse acts for the Big Show—sixty-four marvellously-trained equines—brings Europe's most famous horsemen to the world's largest big top, now a solid blue canvas, with its air conditioning perfected by a season's experimentation.

Scores of European headline troupes and stars, headed by the unparalleled Les Bretinis, Elly Ardely, Truzzi, the Akimotos, Rolando, Adriana, and Charlys and Tanita Ikoo, perform aloft and in the rings with such favorites as the Riding Christians, the three Flying Concello troupe, Robert Castle, wizard of the tight wire; the marvelous Yacopis and the Davises.

The performances begin at 2:15 and 8:15 P. M., with doors open at 1 and 7 P. M., to permit public inspection of the menagerie, including Gargantua, the Great giant gorilla, and the hundreds of blue-blooded steeds in the new horse fair tent adjoining it.

FIFTY-FIVE ARRESTS MADE BY CONSERVATION OFFICERS DURING APRIL.

The Conservation Officers of the Division of Game and Fish made 55 arrests, received 32 convictions and checked 6,149 licenses during the month of April, Major James Brown, Director of the Division, said today in a statement for publication.

In addition to this work the officers took a large amount of contraband, such as fish baskets, fish traps, guns, illegal fish, nets, gigs, ducks, foxes, steel traps, trot lines, poles and lines, dead falls, rabbits, opossums, snakes, dynamite and fuse, one deer, a motor, row boat, tent, hand saw, file, oars, grab hooks, knife and even a screw-driver.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Don't discard the old screening you remove from the screens. You may need it for patching. Also, you may use a larger piece of screening in a smaller window after cutting off the worn part.

Keep a mop, duster and carpet sweeper on each floor and save yourself many extra steps. Don't use hot water on varnished floor boards. Use a cloth wrung out in lukewarm water. Dry each section as soon as finished. If your window curtains have become yellowed with use, dip them in eucalyptus and they will brighten the appearance of a dull room.

COMFORT FEATURES

A natural sun-tan will be fashionable this summer on the farm—when milady may wear loose, easy clothing making for good circulation, much exercise and good health. Miss Frances Seeds, clothing specialist in the home economics department of the University of Kentucky, says:

The summer style of knee-length shorts provide modesty as well as comfort.

For those not liking shorts, the very full skirt will be both stylish and comfortable. It is just as good while working in the garden or on the farm as it will be at the nation's famous resorts or spas.

Feminine styles are especially good, but this does not preclude practicality. A cool, full-skirted garment fastened with three buttons and a belt still may be feminine in design.

Summer is an especially fine time to wear sandals, low-cut walking shoes or even tennis slippers.

For those who cannot endure the direct rays of the sun, the large hats, long (but loose) sleeves and other modifying features will provide comfort.

American women are among the healthiest in the world, both physically and mentally, and one reason is that increasingly she wears sensible clothes, Miss Seeds declares. Heavy, cumbersome, circulation-inhibiting clothes never made for health. Their day should be past; today's styles provide femininity but also make for comfort and health. Lots of fresh air and sunlight are excellent for every normal person; value them accordingly, and use the summer to "catch up" on health requirements.

An odd feature of the European war has been the increase in feminine styles in clothes, rather than of military costumes. Apparently this is in reaction against the war situation. The French designers have influenced American houses in this respect, Miss Seeds says.

MANY USES FOR DAIRY PRODUCTS

There are no less than 1,001 ways of using dairy products—all making for good health, says Miss Florence Inlay, foods specialist for the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Kentucky's second largest industry is dairying, so the state has rich stores on which to draw inexpensively.

Milk is high in calcium, vitamin A and phosphorus. Ways of using it are as follows:

Cream soups
Creamed vegetables
Creamed meat and eggs
Scalloped vegetables
Gravies
Cereals cooked in milk, or served with milk and cream
Custards
Puddings
Ice creams

Cream cheese or cottage cheese
Among favorite recipes of Kentucky farm women, in which milk is used, may be listed "scalloped eggs and asparagus" and "pineapple-graham cracker pudding."

Milk has the largest assortment of nutritive substances, of any single food material, and is the fountain upon which an adequate diet can best be built.

Miss Inlay quotes a noted Johns Hopkins physiologist as saying: "People who have made liberal use of milk as a food, have in contrast, attained greater size, greater longevity, and have been much more aggressive, than the non-milk using people, and have achieved much greater advancement in literature, science, and art."

To clean leather chairs, sponge the surface with mild suds and a bit of borax in the water. When dry apply a thin coat of shellac which will not harm the leather and leaves a nice finish. To clean rugs, use cornmeal and ammonia. Take one pint of coarse meal and enough ammonia to moisten and rub it on the rug with a cloth. Let stand a short time and sweep off with a broom.

DAIRYING JUMPS TO SECOND PLACE IN TAYLOR COUNTY

The production of nearly a million pounds of butterfat last year made dairying second only to tobacco growing in Taylor county, Kentucky. Income from milk and cream is placed at about $225,000. Last year's tobacco crop brought $285,000, in round numbers. Adding the worth of the calves from 3,000 to 9,000 cows to the value of the milk and cream would make dairying a close second to tobacco, according to County Agent C. V. Bryan.

Eighty percent of the 2,300 farmers in Taylor county are milking cows. Eleven cream buying stations and a cheese factory take the milk and cream from the farms of the county.

The development of dairying in Taylor county began with the break in tobacco prices about 20 years ago. The county agent, the railroads, cream buying concerns, merchants and other forces combined to place cows and purebred sires on farms of the county.

Four-H club work also was enlisted to interest farmers in the ownership of good cows. In 1926 members of 4-H clubs owned 120 dairy heifers, and their descendants still are scattered in the producing herds of the county.

Dairying, and the hay and grass production that go with it, have been of great value to Taylor county, County Agent Bryan declared.

39,686 FISH TRANSPLANTED BY DIVISION GAME AND FISH

A total of 39,686 fish were transplanted last week from four Scott county ponds to North and South Elkhorn and Big Eagle Creek, according to a statement issued by Frank Phipps, Superintendent of Hatcheries for the Division of Game and Fish.

These fish, numbering 4,105 newlights, 11,900 broods, 1,181 bass and 22,500 catfish, were planted in every pool of north Elkhorn in Scott county, and in South Elkhorn and Big Eagle.

Ponds from which members of the finny tribe were collected by the seining crew of the Division of Game and Fish were Tarleton's, Shipp's, Platt's (Marshall's) and Varelles.

Phipps stated that the seining crew was doing this type of restocking in every section of the state.

We may be in a mess universally, but it helps to remember that the sun rises each morning in the eastern sky.

TRIGG WOMEN PLAN COUNTY "CLEAN-UP"

A county clean-up campaign is announced by homemakers' clubs in Trigg county, Kentucky. It will include private property, public grounds, "dumps" and places where mosquitoes breed.

Each woman will begin at home, where she will clean-up the yard, paint or whitewash buildings and fences, plant flowers and otherwise improve the appearance of the farmstead. There are 240 members of homemakers' clubs in the county, and if each woman cooperates the results will speak for themselves, says Miss Eleanor Whittinghill, county home demonstration agent.

The homemakers also will attack the roadside dump nuisance, with a view to eliminating piles of rubbish, automobile junk heaps, and other dumps which too often are seen around towns. These places are mosquito breeding grounds, in addition to being highly unsightly.

Trigg county homemakers will ask for trash containers for the streets of Cadiz. Says their report: "Let's have some civic pride and help to make Cadiz the cleanest, most attractive town in Western Kentucky."

FARMERS INCREASE

GRAZING LIVESTOCK

While hogs have been ranking first in point of income in Simpson, Logan, Todd, Christian and Caldwell counties in Kentucky, a study made by the Agricultural Experiment Station indicated that farmers are tending to build up herds of beef and dairy cattle and sheep. Larger acreages of hay and grain developed interest in grazing livestock. This trend is considered an important factor in improving productivity of the land.

A good way to help with the abundant cotton crop, is for every mother to give daughter two new aprons before summer vacation.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

The efforts of a father to escape with his family the evil influences of a pleasure-mad society and the depressing effects of the Napoleonic wars, lead to stirring adventuresome drama in Gene Towne's and Graham Baker's presentation of "Swiss Family Robinson" for RKO Radio.

When the family embarks from England for Australia, a terrific storm wrecks the ship, and the entire group is castaway on an uninhabited South Sea island. The thrilling adventures of the Robinson family, which includes four sons make for a vivid human story replete with comedy, pathos and tense drama.

Thomas Mitchell, Edna Best, Freddie Bartholomew, Terry Kilburn, Tim Holt and Baby Bobby Quillian comprise the featured cast.

SATURDAY

A typical midway fun house, complete with sinister skeletons, unexpected passages, whirling turntables and dizzy slides, was especially built for important sequences in Columbia's new Joe E. Brown comedy, "Beware Spooks!"

The climatic scenes in the picture take place when Brown, an enthusiastic, if slightly dimwitted cop, traps the "heavy" in a fun house and engages him in mortal and mirthful hand-to-hand combat.

Every thrill and mirth-purveying device peculiar to a fun house is employed in this battle. Because the damage to equipment promised to reach staggering proportions, the studio didn't even consider leasing any of the fun houses now in use.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

"The Amazing Mr. Williams," re-

unites Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas for the third time in recent months, and provides the popular team with what is said to be a worthy, far funnier successor to "There's Always a Woman," and "Good Girls Go to Paris." The new comedy drama presents Joan as a mayor's secretary who is affianced to a super-sleuth, Douglas, with more time for murder than for marriage. What keeps the two apart until the surprising climax compresses the season's gayest entertainment.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

"The fastest-talking picture on record" is Hollywood's description of Howard Hawks' new Columbia picture, "His Girl Friday," which stars buoyant Cary Grant and beautiful Rosalind Russell, with Ralph Bellamy in a major featured role. The romantic comedy drama, according to sound experts, hits a new speed pace for fast cross-fire talk.

Lodge Cunningham, in charge of the sound recording for the film, points out that the average person will not exceed 80 words a minute during ordinary conversation; that court reporters are considered competent to meet any emergency if they can transcribe 140 words a minute and that the late Floyd Gibbons, pioneer in the fast-talking news commentator field, barked 240 words a minute. Grant, Miss Russell and Bellamy maintain a pace between 175 and 230 words a minute in "His Girl Friday."

POINT PLEASANT

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Carpenter of Devon were the guests of her father Mr. Geo. Darby and family Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Eggleston, Miss Fannie Utz and Miss Lucille Bell all attended Sunday school and church at Florence Sunday morning and in the afternoon motored to Devour park and heard Rev. Howard E. Cadie of Indianapolis preach. There was a large crowd that came from far and near to hear him.

Sorry to report that Miss Kittie Frances Darby was taken to the Dr. again last week she is not able to walk and has been suffering very much. Her sister Flora Mae called on her Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Court Hollis and son called on her father Sunday, Mr. Geo. Darby and family.

There are a few girls in Boone County who are still single because they dozed during an evening of some fellow's boasts.

There are those in Boone County who wouldn't be surprised if we would be asked to purchase licenses for baby carriages.

IN BUSINESS AND SOCIAL LIFE

Impaired eyesight is a regrettable handicap. Certainly the impression created by near-sightedness or squinting is deplorable. Consider, according to statistics, that about 45 years of your allotted life, your eyes are in continuous use. Reason enough why you should take particular care of them. An examination of your eyes TODAY may save you discomforts tomorrow.

$20,000,000 GOAL OF RED CROSS

BOONE COUNTY ASKED TO RAISE $200.00 FOR WAR REFUGEES—HAVE YOU CONTRIBUTED?

While the attention of the whole world is concentrated on the greatest battle in history—the outcome of which will affect the lives of millions yet unborn, the American Red Cross is at work mitigating the dire suffering of millions of civilian victims of this great battle.

So tragic has become the plight of these helpless millions that Red Cross Chairman Norman H. Davis has asked every chapter in the United States to double the original goal of ten million dollars.

The picture is indeed black. Five million civilian refugees on foot, on bicycles, in horse-drawn vehicles, in trucks, and on trains, are fleeing blindly before the advancing enemy. Hundreds of thousands have been bombed from the air and machine gunned in their flight. Many thousands are sick and wounded; many must be dead by the roadside as they are driven relentlessly forward; all are suffering from exposure, exhaustion and hunger. Their cry to us rings out as of old, "Help, or we perish."

Our county has been asked to raise $200.00 as its share of the $20,000,000 relief fund. We should far exceed this amount. Rev. J. Russell Cross, chairman of the Boone County fund, "I urge every one of you reading this article to send your check or your contribution to your local Red Cross Chapter at once. Our people have always subscribed and over-subscribed any amounts requested of them in the name of the Red Cross. They give their hearts as well as their dollars."

The lightning speed of warfare in these days with airplane and mechanized and motorized divisions, makes it absolutely essential that relief of its victims be prompt. Your contributions of today will save lives that will be beyond aid if relief is delayed.

Governments may fall, leaders may be deposed, countries may be destroyed, but the people must be aided to survive. Our sympathy must not be empty expressions. We must do everything within our power to give life and hope and courage to the wounded, the aged, and to the women and children who are the victims of war's fury. Every dollar we can spare is desperately needed to relieve the suffering of the millions of helpless victims of this brutal war.

Judge Riddell Returns From Vacation In Texas

Judge N. E. Riddell returned to Burlington Friday, after an extended vacation in Texas, where he spent the majority of his time fishing. He reported that some splendid catches were made during his stay, but that he didn't try to catch any of the big ones.

We welcome him home, and are glad to hear that his vacation was an enjoyable one.

Property Sold Monday By Master Commissioner

The property sold by the Master Commissioner on June County Court Day was as follows:

In the case of John Snelling, et al., vs. Cecil Snelling, et al., known as the John Snelling property, in Petersburg, Ky., was purchased by Chas. Snelling, of Petersburg, Route 1.

In the case of Sylvia George Kipp vs. Benjamin Stith, (property located at Kensington Lake, near Richmond, Ky.) was purchased by the plaintiff for the sum of $875.00.

The property in the case of John W. Tucker, et al., vs. Lorraine Tucker, et al., (4 town lots on Goodridge Drive in the town of Florence, Ky.) was purchased by C. F. Robinson for the sum of $1,425.00. This was the second sale of the piece of property by the Master Commissioner, it having been sold last fall to settle the estate of the late John W. Tucker, but due to an infant who was a defendant in the suit not being properly protected, the court set aside the first sale. The property was bid in by Robert Rouse the first time and the sale price was between $800 and $900.

BELLEVIEW STILL LEADING LEAGUE

BY DEFEATING SAND RUN—BURLINGTON CHALKS UP WIN OVER HEBRON SATURDAY AND CONSTANCE SUNDAY.

Belleview continued their winning pace in the Boone County Saturday afternoon baseball league last week when they won their fourth consecutive game. They defeated the last place Sand Run nine by an 9 to 5 score.

In a Decoration Day double bill with Big Bone (non-league games) Belleview broke even. They won the first game 4 to 2 behind the excellent pitching of Jay Ryle. (Writer's note: Watch this fellow Ryle from now on). Cliff Stephens was on the mound for the losers.

Charley Black was responsible for Big Bone getting an even break in the nightcap. He held the Grate team to a few scattered bingles and drove in three of his team's tallies to shade Bill Rogers' who twirled for the losers.

Locals Win
Burlington returned to winning ways Saturday when they trimmed a well-balanced Hebron nine at the loser's park by a 6 to 4 count. Some excellent support combined with Akin's "light-spot" pitching accounted for the game.

The locals handed the Constance nine its first setback of the season Sunday in a non-league affair. The score was 6 to 5. Don Kirk, portside first baseman, took the hill for the first time this season and pitched creditable ball. A Constance rally in the ninth fell short by one run.

Burlington vs. Mt. Vernon
The Burlington team will play the strong Mt. Vernon club at the Renfro Valley ball park Sunday, June 9. It was announced yesterday that the Mt. Vernon team is considered one of the leading Central Kentucky nines, having played such outstanding teams as the Lexington Eppings, Shelbyville, etc.

Transportation facilities have been arranged for approximately 30 followers to this game. (Note: Those interesting in making this trip for a small transportation charge are requested to phone Burlington 29 or 15 not later than Saturday morning 9:00 o'clock).

Petersburg Wins
Petersburg won another league game Saturday by trimming Big Bone by a 4 to 1 score.

To Uniform Donors
The management and players of the Burlington ball club wishes to express their thanks to the donors of the team's uniforms. Those who sponsored these uniforms were: Boone County Recorder, Guiley & Pettit, D. R. Blythe, W. L. McEneaney, Luther Smith, C. W. Ryle, Bob and Gene Roberts, Laundry, Martin Brothers, Calvin Cross, Peoples Deposit Bank and Antenn's Food Market. (R. G. M.)

WEED GROWERS TO ORGANIZE

COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION—NOVEMBER 1ST, SET AS DATE FOR OPENING OF BUSINESS BY GROWERS.

All burley tobacco growers will recall their reactions to the situation that developed on the burley tobacco market during the pre-holiday sales, when the unprecedented amount of 133,775,000 lbs. of tobacco was crowded on the local market, floors in about two weeks time and the lowest average for six years was paid, $16.33 per hundred pounds.

Every producer realized that something ought to be done at once to remedy the trouble, and general regret was expressed that the producers had no organization of their own to handle the problems, then so apparent.

In the midst of the confusion, disappointment and discouragement following these opening sales a group of growers from several adjacent counties was called to meet at the court house in Williamstown, Ky., by the officers of the Great County Farm Bureau, A. Threlkeld, president. The more than forty growers present from eight counties, after thoughtful discussion, adopted the following resolution: "We wish to see on record as favoring immediate organization of a Burley tobacco growers cooperative association to set up, with the cooperation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, a complete plan for controlled production, grading and cooperative sale of burley tobacco, and to operate under said plan for the benefit of burley tobacco growers in the present burley region, said association to be properly incorporated."

Other meetings followed at Williamstown, Georgetown and Lexington. At Lexington on March 6th the plan of organization and the draft of the new marketing agreement was presented to about one hundred growers from Kentucky counties and from Indiana and Ohio. The program was endorsed and the temporary organization was encouraged to continue its work.

The Incorporating Directors proposed to complete the set-up of the new association. Incorporation papers were filed in Frankfort and in Lexington, where the ultimate headquarters will be located.

The present directors are from fourteen counties in Kentucky, representing eight of the old burley districts No. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 14.

The officers, who will hold office until their successors are chosen on the third Monday in September, 1940, or until a permanent board is elected and qualified, are:

W. T. Forsee, Owenton, Ky., president; J. P. Fisher, Lexington, Ky., vice-president; Ed Pruett, Winchester, Ky., vice president; F. L. Duffy, Cynthiana, Ky., secretary and treasurer.

Thirty-Seven CONDEMNATION SUITS FILED FOR RIGHT-OF-WAY

For Construction of New Four-Lane Highway Between Richmond and Devon—Commissioners Appointed

Thirty-seven condemnation suits were filed last week against property owners located on U. S. 42 between Richmond and Devon for the purpose of securing right-of-way for the construction of the new four-lane highway that is to get underway this summer.

The reason for this mid-section being taken first is due to the fact that it is the only portion of the new road that has been approved and accepted by the Department of Highways. This stretch of only a few miles is almost straight and the new road will follow approximately the same route, eliminating a few curves and with few minor changes. Several surveys have been made of other parts of the road, but none have been approved by the department except the stretch between Richmond and Devon.

Commissioners Named
Hubert Conner, Hebron, W. P. Beemon, Burlington and B. W. Franks, of Walton were appointed commissioners to go over the property with Mr. Bagby, District Engineer, and set the valuation of property damaged. After the commissioners have made their complete report, exceptions may then be filed.

Although it has not been stated definitely whether or not this will be the procedure followed to obtain right-of-way on the remaining portion. Persons may be assured that if there is any difficulty in securing the right-of-way that this method will be used and no delays will be tolerated. The above method of filing condemnation suits against all persons involved means that all persons will be treated alike and it will greatly reduce the time usually required for securing right-of-way.

The State Highway Department has stated that it desires to start work on this new road sometime this summer. However, authorities say that this is doubtful, but should construction work start this year, it would not be before late summer or fall.

The new highway is to be of the four-lane type, with a parkway 4 feet wide dividing the two lanes, running north from the two running south. This type of road is accepted by the Federal Government.

Although it is not within the power of anyone to accurately estimate when we can expect this project to be completed, but it certainly will be a great step forward for Kentucky, as this highway accommodates more traffic at the present than any other highway in the United States. Its present condition is a menace to the modern automobile age.

Mrs. Dora G. Vawter
Mrs. Dora G. Vawter, a member of the Verona Baptist Church died Saturday at St. Elizabeth Hospital. She was 56 years old.

Several months ago, Mr. Stephenson was transferred to Irvine, Ky., to rebuild the newly purchased lines in that city and completely reorganize the entire system. Mr. Stephenson completed his task there, an dates that the new company, operating under the name of the Consolidated Telephone Company, has made much progress and the patrons are well pleased with the service.

The people of Boone County are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson back in this community and are especially glad that they will make Boone County their permanent home.

Burlington Trims Constance Nine Sunday

Burlington gave the Constance Hilltoppers their first defeat of the season Sunday at Constance 6 to 5. The Hilltoppers out-hit the Burlington boys 18 to 11, but three Constance errors were costly. One Burlington error in the fourth inning gave Constance their first run. Constance should have taken the game easily, but errors and careless base running paved defeat.

The crucial moment came in the last of the ninth inning with three Constance batters on base with none out and Burlington leading by the score of 6 to 4. Klassner, batting for Robert Vahlsing hit toward second wall appeared to be a double play ball, but was too slow to make the double killing, and all men were safe when the second baseman was pulled off the bag by the throw, and Gay scored on the play. Fred Vahlsing then struck out and a quick throw from the catcher to third doubled Snelling off third. This play was close, and was judged to be safe by many observers who were much nearer than the umpire. Penno hit what appeared to be a foul down the first base line, but the umpire was again the winner when he called it a fair ball.

Omer Dolwick was on the mound for Constance, and Riddell, Lane and Snelling divided the catching honors. Donald Kirkpatrick was on the firing line for Burlington, with Clure behind the bat. Each pitcher struck out eight batters, and Kirkpatrick hit one batter, Red Lane.

Constance plays Petersburg at Constance Sunday and then the following Sunday comes to Burlington for a return game.

SOUNDS SENSIBLE

It doesn't mean that just because we are urged to give less thought to parties and standards that we are asked to do away with our private political opinions. We are asked by leaders of all parties, for the time being, to give more thought to preserving the nation in order that our parties might live. Without an America we would be without the freedom of present voting and party bickering, that we all enjoy. It is suggested that we turn our efforts to working for the common welfare of our people, which does not follow that we are losing our free speech in connection with the differences of political opinion. If the national leaders of the Democratic and Republican organizations can be foresighted enough to put aside their differences when a more vital issue claims their support, so can local leaders be as reasonable. It would not be a cooperative movement to join hands, and in a fifty-fifty way, to protect the American people in this emergency that threatens their lives and present liberty. The formation of new cabinets and committees of varied political faiths, to put up a united front against the fifth column, is this meeting a desperate situation with thought and without scrapping our individual political leanings and opinions.

COTTON PICKERS WANTED

A rival for the annual corn husking contest of the middlewest and the plowing contest of Canada comes a new feature to take place October 1st. It is to be a national cotton picking contest with $2000 going in prizes for the winners. There has been talk about mechanical pickers taking the place of colored workers who labor in the southern cotton fields, but this contest will engage the country's interest more than any discussion of machine over man-power. The procedure, the same as with the corn husking preparations, is taking place. A tract of 30 acres of richest Mississippi delta land has been planted and will be cared for until October when negroes from far plantations will do their best to strip the stalks in record time. This will be well worth following as those interested in the corn husking contests can testify.

SUMMER PLANS

The subject of vacations is paramount at tabledishes in many a Boone County home. It is always cropping up at this time of year, come what may. Sometimes the family decide to curtail expenses and the yearly trip is not so elaborate or lengthy, but folks usually find a way to take a vacation. With the European stand as a bar to foreign travel people who have traveled abroad are urged to visit Latin America. The Department of Commerce suggests this is a good way to cement friendship between the two Americas.

Those of us who cannot afford this type of journey, will dig out the road maps and dust off the picnic baskets for spending time in our countryside. There is much of interest in our own state for tourists to see. Enjoy your own backyard!

GIVE YOUR HELP

Throughout the country, appears in hotel lobbies, entrances, ways of banks and stores, churches and theatres, boxes for contributions to the American Red Cross. This is not the regular yearly call for emergency drive for funds to aid in the assistance of the European low countries. The cause is for universal relief and the consideration and the kind are answering the plea. The sad tones issuing over coffee cups and cigars as to the plight of the poor refugees can be answered in effective action by walking up and dropping coins into the box. Whatever disaster comes to man extended is the hand of the Red Cross resources. As they act in this grave cause can we in Boone County not support their cause?

A STYLE HINT

Never wear your clothes too tight to be comfortable. Never wear a skirt that is too short for your figure whatever the style might be. In summer wear plenty of white. Have belts the color of the dress and have them narrow. This will not enlarge the waist line. Have a soft frill at the neckline to flatter the face. Have sleeves cover the bulge of your upper arm. A soft surfaced fabric will add to most appearances rather than harsh surfaced fabrics. Do not go in for extreme styles for conservative lines will suit you better a month from now.

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 23:7-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.—Romans 14:12.

Personal responsibility is a subject that will be of great and repeated consideration. We talk so much about social, national or racial responsibility that we are prone to forget that the social or national and racial responsibilities are made up of individuals. The Bible, while recognizing the relationship and responsibilities of nations and social groups to God, rightly stresses individual responsibility. It is man who is made in the likeness and image of God. He is the one who has fallen into sin, and he needs the regenerating grace of God in the Lord Jesus Christ. It is man who stands responsible to God, both as an individual and as God's representative in carrying His message to others.

I. Man's Responsibility for the Lives of Others (vv. 7-11).

Ezekiel had the official responsibility of a watchman sent by God to his own people in their captivity in Babylon. His was a special calling, and yet it is not far from this according to the teaching of the New Testament, every Christian is called to be a witness, a winner of souls, and a watchman.

The Watchman's Commission (v. 7). His appointment is by God, and the warning words he is to speak are given to him by God. Every true preacher and teacher of the gospel should be a God-called man, presenting the Word of God. Otherwise, his ministry will have little meaning and no real power.

The same of every Christian. A personal touch with God must precede his efforts to win others to God.

2. The Watchman's Responsibility (vv. 8, 9). Being a watchman is not a duty that one bears lightly, for it has grave responsibilities. Lives are dependent on the vigilance and faithfulness of the watchman. Even those who watch over worldly goods or who guard the safety and comfort of others are held by us to a high measure of responsibility and are liable for misfeasance or carelessness. What about the Christian to whom the destiny of eternal souls has been committed? Read the solemn words of verses 8 and 9.

3. The Watchman's Message (vv. 10, 11). The Jew who was in captivity because of their sin and failure were despondent. They saw no ray of hope; they were under the overwhelming burden of their sin. The message of God's watchman was one of hope to the repentant people. God is gracious toward the sinner and has no pleasure in punishing him. "Why will ye die?" places the responsibility squarely where it belongs—on the sinner himself.

II. Man's Responsibility for His Own Life (vv. 12-16).

Whatever may be our responsibility for the lives of others, certain it is that we must each be responsible to God for our own lives. Ours is the glorious opportunity of living our life—and ours is the responsibility for it.

1. Consistent Living Required (v. 12). This verse evidently does not mean that a righteous man overtaken in a moment of defeat is lost. It rather refers to the one who has made an outward show of being righteous. Confident of himself, he has then fallen into careless living, and all at once his true character is revealed in outright wickedness. That man cannot then draw on his past record as though it were a bank account to be used to justify him in his hour of failure. Righteousness is a matter of the heart. It is a spiritual rebirth, expressing itself in changed conduct and consistent living, not only yesterday and today, but also tomorrow.

2. Real Repentance Accepted (vv. 13-16). God is ready in Ezekiel's day to accept the genuinely repentant man and woman. Infinitely more precious and warm is the welcome that Christ now gives to sinners who turn to Him, for He, our blessed Lord, has now worked out the way of salvation on Calvary's tree.

"Is Not For" Am I to thank God for everything? Am I to thank Him for bereavement, for pain, for poverty, for toil? . . . Be still my soul; thou hast misread the message. It is not to give thanks for everything, but to give thanks in everything.—Dr. G. Matheson.

They Shall Return to the Lord And the Lord shall smite Egypt; he shall smite and heal it; and they shall return even to the Lord, and he shall be entreated of them, and shall heal them.—Isaiah 19:22.

Selfishness What makes selfishness such a deadly sin is that it is such a self-deceiving one.

One way of getting a majority vote in the U. S. is to take it on the neutrality question.

What is going to happen to the man who is lying from hand to mouth and who sprains his wrist?

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair, chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Altho when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet, releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better—Adv.

BIG SHOW HEADS TOWARD US WITH NEW SPECTACLES

RINGLINGS IMPORT EUROPE'S BEST FOR NEW 1940 PER-FORMANCES.

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, with the world's largest big top in solid blue, improved air conditioning, a new opening spectacle, "The Return of Marco Polo," created and costumed in France by Max, Welch, and all other performers, star-studded by a tremendous array of new European features, will exhibit in Cummingsville, Saturday and Sunday, June 8th and 9th.

Foremost among the impressive importations is the great Alfred Court, Europe's most famous trainer, with his three famed wild animals—Polar bears, Himalayan bears, Bengal tigers, lions, black and spotted leopards, Siberian snow leopards, black and spotted panthers, cougars, pumas, jaguars, and Great Dane dogs, all working together in breath-taking violation of jungle law. Never before has a trainer accomplished this startling mixing of so many species of natural enemies. This is Court's first American appearance.

The leading horsemen of Europe—Hans Strassburger, Vas Concelos and Los Aservas—with their renowned troops of dressage and liberty steeds bring the Big Show's horse displays to a new high. The war and big money made their importation possible, as it did scores of other troupes and stars who hitherto would not budge off the continent.

The Greatest Show on Earth, steaming toward this territory on four long trains, with 1,600 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 menagerie animals and hundreds of horses, will open its performances at 2:15 and 8:15 daily, with doors open at 1 and 7 P. M., for public inspection of the huge menagerie, including Gargantua the Great, and the long lines of performing steeds in the new horse fair tent adjoining it.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

The Graves County Farm Bureau purchased 133,700 trees from the Kentucky Forestry Service. Additional trees furnished by the Tennessee Valley Authority made a total of approximately 160,000 trees set in the county this spring.

The Grant county planning committee is urging farmers to "produce the best possible tobacco on the allotted acreages, by following improved tobacco cultural methods." "Make each acre on the farm produce an income," also is suggested.

Excellent results were obtained in Perry County in growing yetch in a mixture of wheat, rye and crimson clover as a cover crop. The mixture was grown on land which had been the drained and treated with four tons of limestone and 400 pounds of superphosphate to the acre.

Bath county farmers have been hiring mair spread at a cost of $1 a ton. Four new limestone spreaders are being used in the county. Plans call for spreading 877 tons of mair and 11,842 tons of limestone.

Adair county farmers are seeding with confidence five to ten acres of alfalfa where they once hesitated to sow an acre, reports County Agent R. B. Rankin. Most seedings made last year are doing well.

Grover Blanton, Harlan county, transplanted 5,000 kudzu crows on 10 acres of worn hillside land that had grown up to brush.

While many farmers normally turn under cover crop growths at this time of year in carrying out soil-building practices, Johnstone points out that almost the same good results if the seed crop is harvested and the straw turned under. The farmer can use the seed to expand his cover crop acreage or sell the seed locally.

Details concerning harvesting cover crop seeds may be obtained from county agents.

COVER CROP SEED
MAY BOOST FARM
INCOMES IN 1940

Kentucky farmers may obtain additional income and increased protection against soil losses by saving a part of their crimson clover, vetch, barley, rye and rye grass for seed this year, according to W. C. Johnston, of the State College of Agriculture.

With the increased interest in seeding cover crops throughout the state there is a steady demand for good seed of adapted crops, he said, and a special coordinated effort is being made this year by extension agents and Agricultural Adjustment Administration committeemen to promote the saving of these seeds.

Indications are that national production of crimson clover and vetch will be below normal. Johnstone pointed out, and the supply from Europe has been practically cut off.

Saving of these seeds, including crimson clover, vetch, Kentucky No. 1 and No. 2 and Missouri early beardless barley, balho and abuzzi rye, rye grass and wheat will be of particular value in more ways than one, Johnston advises. A large supply of seed will be assured, costs of seedling will be reduced, and seedling of a larger acreage of cover crops will be promoted by the interest that is created.

When the season of cotton dresses, the novice can make her own clothes. Although practically all material is preshrunk the wise seamstress will shrink her material first, and then it will not need later work after laundering. Simply place the material in its original folds in a tub of cold water. After it is thoroughly wet hang it on the line in a shady place, letting the material drip dry. No ironing is necessary.

Glendale, Ky.—The younger boys and girls at the Kentucky Baptist Children's Home here eat together, as illustrated in the accompanying photograph, but space requirements enforce separate dining for the older boys and girls. Even brothers and sisters who are residents of the home do not see each other at mealtime, after they have begun to grow up.

This will be remedied if Kentucky Baptists in June succeed in raising $75,000 for a contemplated enlargement of the home. A large dining room will be provided, brothers and sisters will sit together at meals, and all the boys and girls will have the benefit of more normal association together, as in private homes.

The home will be 25 years old June 23. In commemoration of the anniversary, Baptists plan to raise the fund for additions which will make it possible for the home to take in more orphans.

Dr. J. G. Barbe, Superintendent of the home, could take in perhaps 1,000 more children, so great is the demand, if it had the facilities. For the present, the institution is planning to make room immediately for only 100 new children, in addition to the 225 now there. The home has a policy of conservative expansion, preferring to take in only as many children as can be given the proper attention.

In addition to living space, a limiting factor is consideration of the expense of providing clothing, medical care, schooling, and food for the growing youngsters. It will not be news to parents of growing children that boys and girls can consume a great deal of food, but it may astonish others to learn that for a meal such as that pictured above it is necessary to provide 1,200 hot biscuits.

MODERN ROOFS NOW SERVING DOUBLE PURPOSE

The Eskimos and the Hottentots have always used a roof for two purposes, but modern civilization has only until recently, considered the function of a roof as a protection from the elements.

The grass roof over the Hottentot turns rain, it is true, but much more important, it turns back the heating rays of the sun. The grass is a poor conductor of heat, and the stems and leaves have vast numbers of tiny air spaces through which no air currents are present to carry the heat from the outside to the inside. The igloo of the Eskimo keeps out snow and sleet, but more important, the thick mass of snow crystals with their minute air cells keep the small, but precious supply of heat, inside the igloo.

As Americans began to take more and more advantage of modern comforts and conveniences, the double purpose roof gained in importance. Today, more and more people are thinking of the roof covering, not only as a means of keeping out rain, snow and sleet, but also as a means of keeping heat in the house in winter and keeping it out in summer.

Probably the first fundamental development in an insulating roof was the Cork Insulated Shingle, produced by The Philip Carey Company, Lockland, Cincinnati, Ohio. The value of cork as an insulating material had long been known, just as asphalt shingles had been known for their long life and fire resistant qualities. These two values have been combined for the purpose of providing a roof that will not only keep out the elements for a long period of years but will at the same time, reduce heat losses in winter and heat intake in summer.

These cork insulated shingles are fabricated by adding to the asphalt shingle, during the process of manufacture, an underneath layer of granulated cork. Thus, when these shingles are put on by the usual overlapping method, the roof is covered with three layers of insulating cork.

Boyd county farm women have spent six weeks discussing spring fashions in relation to keeping clothing costs low, and keeping cost-records.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

Producers, processors and distributors of dairy products throughout Kentucky are lending support to the national campaign to increase the use of milk and milk products. The Kentucky Dairy Council, secretary of the Falls Cities Coop. Milk Producers' Association, chairman of the Kentucky Producers' Committee.

The Breed Associations are boosting the campaign along with representatives of the promotional committee. The members of the committee include: P. B. Gaines of Carrollton, president of the American Jersey Cattle Club, R. D. Shipman of Shelbyville, president of the Kentucky Jersey Cattle Club.

John Moser, of Louisville, Ky., representing the Kentucky Holstein Cattle Club, David Bell, of Shelbyville, representing the Kentucky Guernsey Cattle Club, Dr. Fordyce Ely, of the University of Kentucky and Carl Maenisch, of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

June Dairy Month is a great event. One that means much to Kentucky inasmuch as it is estimated by Prof. Fordyce Ely, in charge of the Dairy Section of the Kentucky Experiment Station, that 35 percent of Kentucky's farm income derives from the sale of dairy products—greater even than the income from tobacco.

No other single kind of food has as much to offer to good nutrition as milk and its products, and research is constantly adding new information to the average human diet is deficient in calcium unless milk is included. Children show better bone formation and larger nitrogen and acid-base mineral retention as the amount of milk in their diet increases. For normal, healthy children, a daily intake of one quart of milk is most satisfactory. And records show that on the average, each person in the United States uses less than one pint of milk a day.

"America consumes 45 million bottles of fresh milk daily," chairman of the Dairy Council, "but that's only a part of our three and one-half billion dollar dairy industry." America also uses 17.7 pounds of butter, 5.72 pounds of cheese and 8.84 quarts of ice cream yearly per capita. Last year, America ranked 4th in consumption of cheese, but first in the eating of ice cream.

SAYS LATE LAMBS ARE HEAVY LOSERS

Late lambs cost Mercer county sheep raisers $10,000 a year, estimates County Agent Curtis F. Park. Many of these lambs are infested with stomach worms. The county-wide improvement program calls for drenching all sheep, with special emphasis on late lambs.

By the use of good ewes and purebred native rams, better feeding and drenching, Park believes many thousand dollars can be added to the income of Mercer county sheep raisers.

Fertilizer Brings Kentucky Farmers More Than Ten Million Dollars

Extra dollar returns on Tobacco, Vegetables, and Corn, which farmers received Nationally for each dollar spent on fertilizer.

The gigantic sum—three billion dollars—which farmers have received from the Government under the AAA since 1933 is equalled by the extra dollar value of increased yields produced by fertilizer in the same period, according to estimates made from personal interviews with 32,000 farmers in 35 States.

Kentucky farmers gave the interviewers grass-roots facts which show that for every dollar they spent for fertilizer they received an average return in increased yields of $3.75. In other words, Kentucky farmers spent $2,792,000 for fertilizer. The extra return which they received from its use amounted to $10,476,000, leaving an increased income above the cost of the fertilizer of $7,684,000.

The returns from each dollar Kentucky invested in fertilizer, as shown by The National Fertilizer Association survey, varied from crop to crop. Tobacco led the list with an increased value return of $9.02. Corn ranked well up with a return of $2.38. Other crops reported were wheat, which brought $2.11 for each dollar invested, and barley, $2.20.

Kentucky farmers also had their say about the effects of fertilizer on quality of crops. Over 32 per cent said they got better market quality in all cash crops, while 51 per cent said they got better feeding quality in grain and hay, and 10 per cent declared they observed better shipping quality in fruits and vegetables.

Average return in increased yields for all crops in all States shown by the survey was $3.60 for each dollar spent on fertilizer. Nationwide, the crops showing highest rate of return were: tobacco, cotton, fruits, and vegetables.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT, FRIDAY AND SAT.

A large cast of typical Disney characters are to be seen in "Pinocchio," Walt Disney's second feature-length production, an RKO Radio release, which makes an appearance at the Gayety.

They include Geppetto, the kindly old wood-carver who lives with his wife, Figaro the kitten, and Cleo the golfish. He carves the little wooden puppet Pinocchio and in answer to his wish for a real boy, the Blue Fairy endows the puppet with life, appointing Jiminy Cricket as his conscience. The Fox (J. Worthington Pouliflow) and the Cat (Giddy) are small-try comic villains who try Pinocchio to Stromboli, the unscrupulous puppet master. The Coachman buys stupid little boys and takes them to Pleasure Island where they eventually turn into donkeys. Lampwick is the toughest of the little boys on Pleasure Island; and Monstro is the whale who guards the entrance to Pleasure Island and swallows ships.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Warm glass is slippery it was discovered when Astair and Eleanor Powell had to dance on a huge mirror for "Broadway Melody of 1940" new musical coming to the Gayety Theatre. Rehearsals showed that when the stage temperature went above sixty-five degrees the glass became slippery, making intricate steps almost impossible. So technicians had to keep the temperature below that point during the entire time the colorful dance number was being made.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 13, 14

That which all Hollywood had been hoping would happen, has, Mickey Rooney and one of the "Dead End" companions in a picture together as bitter enemies. Bobby Jordan, one of the original group of "tough kids," plays Joe Dingle in "Young Tom Edison" at the Gayety Theatre. Bobby, who appeared separately from his "Dead End" companions in "A Slight Case of Murder," is cast as young Tom Edison's boy enemy in the picture. Mickey himself has played "tough kids" at times, notably in "The Devil Is a Sissy," and "Boys Town."

In "Young Tom Edison" the pair engage in two fights, Bobby winning the first and Mickey the second. Also in the cast with Mickey are Virginia Weidler, Fay Banister and George Bancroft.

LOCAL CAMP TO CELEBRATE
50TH W. O. W. BIRTHDAY
The Local Camp of Woodmen of the World will take an active part in the nation-wide celebration of Woodcraft's 50th anniversary on June 6, it was announced today.

Nearly all of the Society's 8,000 camps situated in 44 of the 48 states, will participate in the celebration, with parades, log-rolling picnics, initiations and other activities.

At Omaha, Nebraska, national headquarters of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, the board of directors will meet on June 3, 4, 5, and 6, which are the corresponding days on which, fifty years ago, Joseph Cullen Root and his associates met and organized the Society. One of the board's sessions will be held in the same room in which the fathers of Woodcraft first assembled.

National headquarters will conduct an open house for visitors on the anniversary day, followed by a parade featuring adult and junior drill teams, employees, members and elaborate floats. Woodmen Circle is assisting in this phase of the celebration, it was announced.

A program will be held in the Omaha city auditorium the evening of June 6, with the Society's own radio station WOW, originating a national broadcast over the NBC basic blue network and supplementary stations. Speakers will include Mr. Harry Root, son of the founder, and Hon. De Emmett Bradshaw, president of the Society.

From coast to coast, Woodmen of the World Camps will join this Omaha celebration through the medium of radio, building their own programs to include the official broadcast.

Stanley Ryle, representing the local Woodmen of the World Camp said today that there would be suitable activities in this community commemorating the Golden Anniversary.

Constance Defeats Petersburg Nine

The Constance Hilltoppers defeated Petersburg Sunday at the Constance ball park by the score of 2 to 1. The game was a pitcher's duel from the beginning to end. Each team scored one run on errors, two errors being charged to each side. Omer Polwick was on the mound again for the winners and allowed only three hits, striking out nine batters, and walking one. Snelling received his slants. Deck was on the mound for Petersburg, and did quite an excellent job of allowing only seven hits.

He struck out ten men and walked three. White was the catcher.

This was a clean game all the way, and one of the hardest fought games by both sides this year. Hitzfield put the only extra base hit, a two bagger. Petersburg completed the only double play of the game, Papet to Hitzfield.

Constance meets Burlington at Burlington Sunday, and then follows Saturday afternoon, tackle the strong Crescent Springs nine at Constance.

PLEA MADE BY RED CROSS CHM'N.

MILLIONS ARE SUFFERING IN WAR TORN EUROPE—$20,000,000 IS GOAL OF AMERICAN RED CROSS FOR RELIEF.

They came out of the Netherlands, from Belgium, fled down from Luxembourg and out of northern France. For two days it rained, a cold drizzle that slanted down in their flight, caked the wheels of their carts, seeped thru the shoes of those on foot.

There were five million of them. Newsmen who watched their flight wrote of a "river of misery." These people were not strong, because the crops had stayed to fight for their homes. They were women, children, and the aged.

They looked furtively over their shoulders for a last glimpse. Those who were remembered how the low-hanging clouds reflected the flash of artillery fire into their tortured faces. At night they took to the woods and attempted to dose in wet, make-shift shelters. And because the rumble of guns made it impossible to sleep or even rest, they moved on.

The next day was clear, misting, aching clear, and the soldiers kept looking to the sky. At first it was a distant hum. Then the small black dots in the sky grew larger and before they knew it these planes swept down upon them to strafe them with machine gun fire the northbound troops. But there was no use in screaming to the sky that they bore no arms, that they wanted no part of this war.

They trod on, through Tours, Poitiers, Limoges, Vichy, on to Bourges and to Nevers. And by that time they saw this flag. It was a red cross on a clean field of white. Many wept. They were so hungry, tired and harassed they could not eat. Their feet were swollen and the lower shreds of stockings was removed, their feet were bathed in clean water. They flung themselves upon cots and slept for the first time to the relief of their tired bodies.

The disheartening plight of these million refugees moved the heart of every American. Yet we cannot be content with mere sympathies. The cry for food and clothing and for clean surgical dressings to bind wounds cannot be answered with lamentations. Tears are not enough.

Our thankfulness for peace and security must be translated into tangible assistance. We can do this through the American Red Cross. Already millions of American dollars have purchased Red Cross money supplies that have been needed so urgently in Finland, Poland, and other war-stricken countries. This greater need that grows hourly in France must be met with greater response.

And remember, that this response must be prompt and generous. Give what you can, and give quickly through your own Boone County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Your contribution, large or small, whatever you can afford, is vital in answering this challenge. Our quota of the $20,000,000 War Relief Fund is only $800, but we need your help in reaching that goal. To date only $80 has been collected. Boone Countians, do your part—and do it today!

Premium List Now Ready

Premium lists of the Dearborn County Fair, which will be held July 22-27, inclusive at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, are now ready for distribution. They contain a program for the entire week in addition to list of the various generous premiums offered.

A copy of the Premium Book can be obtained at the office of this paper or by dropping a card addressed to the Dearborn County Fair Secretary, Lawrenceburg, Indiana, also at the Walton Feed Company, Walton, Kentucky.

Meeting Date Set For Old Salem Primitive Baptist Church, June 16

There will be an all-day meeting at the Old Salem Primitive Baptist Church, Sunday, June 16. Elder Ray, of Iowa will have charge of the services. Everyone cordially invited to attend.

SEND CONTRIBUTIONS TO RED CROSS AT ONCE

The world has never witnessed such suffering—millions are dying, women, children and old folks, due to lack of food, clothing and medicine. The American Red Cross is the one agency that can and will help these people but we will have to furnish the money by our contributions.

Boone County with a population of ten thousand people has been given a quota of only $800.00 and to date we have received $200, or one fourth our quota. Please send your contribution at once to J. Russell Cross, Walton, Ky. R. R. or C. L. Cropper, Burlington, Ky.

The celebration starts with the opening of Centennial, June 14th by the President of the United States from Washington and ends June 23rd. Plans have been made for a very interesting and entertaining program.

BETTER MARKET LAMBS STUDIED

BY BOONE COUNTY FARMERS ON TOUR HELD FRIDAY-NATIVE EWES DISCUSSED AT SEVEN FARMS.

Boone County farmers studied methods of producing better quality market lambs on a tour held last Friday, June 9th, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Flocks of O. W. Cleek and Robert Slayback, Beaver, W. J. Conley, Beaver Mills and Forks, Walter Johnson and Huf Fisher, Verona, and Wm. Ryle, Walton, were visited.

Black faced native ewes of good size and quality were found to produce just as good and often better quality lambs than western ewes, especially the white faced Western type. Poor quality native breeding ewes were quite often found. Western breeding ewes were found to be much more uniform, more hardy, produced strong lambs and sold at more wool. The lambs of these ewes as a whole were slightly rougher in quality, more uniform and vigorous and showed the importance of using only purebred Southdown or Hampshire rams as sires.

O. W. Cleek and Robert Slayback of Beaver had 500 head of the finest type and most uniform quality flock of Black faced Montana yearling Western ewes probably ever brought into the County. Mr. Cleek plans to sell these ewes as breeding stock to local farmers this year.

Reuben Asbury, Field Agent of the Producers Cooperative Commission Association, gave a lamb grading demonstration at the farm of Wm. Ryle on the afternoon program. Asbury stressed the importance of producing fat lambs to bring top prices. The problem of producing fat quality lambs of marketable weight is considered the most important sheep production problem today. It is toward this goal that most of the important breeding, feeding, parasite control, and other important sheep management problems evolve.

FOUR GIRLS DROWN IN LAKE AT SPANISH VILLA WEDNESDAY

Two Pairs of Sisters First Drowning Victims in County For Year—Warned By Owner About Deep Water

Four girls, Nellie Ware, Louise Ware, Susie Carpenter and Libby Carpenter, all of Devon, were drowned Wednesday afternoon of last week when they waded beyond their depth in an artificial lake on the property of Mrs. Laura Clemons and her brother Saul Stanley, operators of the Spanish Villa, just south of Devon. Nellie and Louise Ware were daughters of Harry and Thelma Ware, and Susie and Libby Carpenter were daughters of Earl and Mary Carpenter. Ages of the girls were 13, 14, 15, and 16.

Mr. Stanley said the girls had visited the lake Tuesday afternoon and waded along the shore. He warned the girls to stay away from the lake because of its depth. Stanley said the girls replied they had heard they could wade across the seventy-five-foot body of water. The lake is 100 feet long and 15 feet deep. The lake was dug for a swimming pool. Mrs. Clemons said, and had never been completed.

The girls returned Wednesday, the Ware sisters accompanied by their two younger brothers, Chester 10, and Harry Jr., 8. The boys played along the banks as the girls waded.

Harry, the first to miss the girls, ran to Spanish Villa, Dixie Highway, to summon aid. The Florence Volunteer Fire Department was called and the South Port Mitchell Life Squad, Covington Fire Department, Erlanger and Elsmere police also responded.

The firemen dug out a side of the lake and drained part of the water, while other rescuers, using a flatbottom boat, trotted with barbed wire to find the bodies.

Libby's body was found first after an hour's search. The bodies of Susie, Louise and Nellie were recovered two hours later.

Efforts of firemen, police and several private physicians failed to revive the victims.

"At the time of the drownings Chester was in another part of the 160-acre tract and was unaware of the tragedy until he saw the rescuers arrive."

Harry Ware, father of Louise and Nellie, is a carpenter on the Clemons and Stanley property. Earl Carpenter, father of the other girls is a farmer.

The disaster Wednesday was the first in Boone County this year, according to reports.

Funeral services for Nellie and Louise Ware were conducted Friday afternoon at Florence Baptist church. Burial was in Florence cemetery.

Services for the Carpenter sisters were held at 11 o'clock Saturday at Florence Methodist Church, with interment in Florence cemetery. Philip Tallaferro, Erlanger funeral director was in charge of arrangements.

THE AMERICAN PRESS
"For Over Fifty Years"

HE DESERVES THIS

We are very apt to dwell upon the virtues of mothers the world over as we annually type our respects to her and leave little over of the same thoughts for father on his day, June 16th. We hear rumors of a plan to incorporate Mother's, Father's and Children's Days into one occasion and term it "Family Day." If this should transpire our editorial might be the last we dedicate to the head of the house on his special Sunday.

There is for some of us only a dim realization of the self-denial made by a father. We speak of a mother's love as the sweetest in the world and would not deny it to be other than sacred and worthy. But we need to give much thought to a father's devotion.

He may be a cool sort of individual and also shy, who shuns sentimentality and a display of affection. Maybe he is a careful type of chap who takes his family as a set piece and wants them to show off to an advantage when company is about. There is the very irresponsible father who always seems to have more interests outside his home than in it. He may be all businessman who works hard to maintain a home and the family in it. But what he may seem on the outside, be it business or professional man, gentleman of leisure (forced or otherwise), retired and pensioned, underneath there is always the father and the father's affection.

We want him to know that we appreciate all that he has denied himself for us, the many sacrifices he has made to educate us, the hours he has toiled to feed us, the pleasures he has managed to give us. May he not be too burdened by worry, too harassed by economics, too tired to struggle. May the future days be as easy for him as he has tried to make the past ones for us.

FLY IT BRAVELY

Those oldsters of us in Boone County can recall past Memorial Days of our used-to-years when the towns were completely decorated for the patriotic occasion. Each house was constant in its flag raising on this special day for as sure as families paid tribute to their dead so surely did that family shake out the wrinkles of the folded flag as they hung it from the front porch. There was sort of ceremony that accompanied the event with the many of us at hand to be sure the act was carried out to the letter. Did you notice the lack of flags flown as we observed the day this year? Of all years this is truly the one when the American flag should be flown in glory from every house. We have been negligent, but we are going to do much better during Flag Week, this week being observed from June 8-14. Americans have not been forced to fly their flag and they pray they will never be forced to salute any other one. As appreciative citizenry we will fly our banner during this Fly-the-Flag Week. We have been a people criticized for forgetting too soon. Now is our opportunity to put into the heart of the observance gratitude for freedom, love of country and respect for right. We will dedicate our homes and hearts to the waving stars and stripes. A small flag in the buttonhole will give us cause to think twice of the meaning of the red, white and blue. This week will be given cooperation civically.

IMPROVED
UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL LessonBy HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute

Lesson for June 16

HAGGAI URGES THE BUILDING OF GOD'S HOUSE

LESSON TEXT—Haggai 1:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is.—Hebrews 10:24, 25.

Religious work—or, more correctly stated, Christian work—is a difficult and a thankless task, except for the grace and blessing of God.

Not only does the Christian worker have to struggle against that arch-enemy of God and of the souls of men, Satan himself, but he must overcome the deadly indifference and carelessness of men both outside and inside the Church. Then, as if that were not enough, he finds another enemy, the discouragement of his own heart.

Haggai ministered to the Jews who had returned from captivity and who had begun to rebuild the temple. Oppression had developed before they had made more than a beginning, and they at once gave up and turned their interest to their own affairs and the building of their own homes.

God was displeased by this selfishness on their part, and brought judgment upon them through a prolonged drought. Haggai was called to awaken their conscience and to encourage them to action.

1. Consider Your Ways (vv. 2-6, 9-11).

It was not necessary for the prophet to work up any eloquent plea to stir the conscience of the people. He had only to point to their own ways. They were thus faced with three reproving facts.

1. Indifference (v. 2). They were negligent and indifferent, saying the time had not come to build. The same kind of folk today are very sure that the congregation simply cannot afford to keep up preaching services, or heat and light the church for Sunday School.

2. Selfishness (v. 4). They built for themselves comfortable homes and lived in luxury, while God's house lay waste. One is reminded of our own communities, which have money for every conceivable comfort and convenience, but only a few niggardly pennies for God's work.

3. Loss (vv. 6, 9-11). Being stingy toward God is a losing business. He has only to withhold His blessing and we will find ourselves penniless. That is true in the physical realm and is even more true in the spiritual life. Withholding from God will always result in loss (see Prov. 11:24).

II. "Build the House" (v. 8).

God's work is constructive. He may have to destroy and tear down, but He only takes away the old and undesirable that a new and sturdy may be built. Three words stand out here.

1. "Go." The Lord wants His people to get into action. Haggai was telling them to get busy. Let us follow his example.

2. "Bring." We are not to come to the Lord's service empty handed. Only as He blesses do we have anything to bring, but often we fail to bring even that which He has supplied.

3. "Build." God's work is committed to us. We are to be His builders.

III. "The People Obeyed" (v. 12).

"Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams" (1 Sam. 15:22). God is looking for obedient people, and is ready to bless and use them. The response to Haggai's message came from

1. The Governor. One wonders what progress America would make back to God if its rulers were to lead us in obedience to His commands and in seeking His face in repentance and prayer. Thank God for every truly spiritual minded national leader, and pray that others may yield themselves to the control of the Lord. Then came

2. The High Priest. All too often religious leaders have actually hindered the work of God—and what a hindrance they can be! We read that in Haggai's time the high priest obeyed. Christian leaders, are we too going before our people in unquestioning obedience to God? If not, why should we not begin now? With such leadership, we are not surprised to hear that

3. The People Also Obeyed and Feared God. Many capable Christian workers believe that the youth of America of our day, far from being worse than their fathers, are actually seeking for real spiritual leadership.

False Christs Shall Rise

And then, if any man shall say to you, Lo, here is Christ; or lo, he is there, believe him not. For false Christs, and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect.—Mark 13: 21, 22.

Speaking the Truth

I had rather suffer for speaking the truth, than that the truth should suffer for the want of my speaking.

INSPIRATIONAL

Deal courageously, and the Lord shall be with the good.

The Blood Stream

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
5th and Madison Covington

The blood stream has several important functions. For instance it feeds the tissues from the products of digestion; it carries away waste matter and it aids in equalizing the temperature and the water content of the body.

Blood is not just plain fluid, but has two parts. A yellowish fluid called PLASMA, in which float solid particles called corpuscles. Then there are three kinds of corpuscles; red corpuscles; white corpuscles, and blood platelets. The red corpuscles are the oxygen carriers of the body. The white corpuscles are the protectors of the body and multiply at a great rate of speed. In other words, the white corpuscles enable the body to resist infections and throw off contagious disease.

Friends, now that we understand how important a part our blood stream plays in the health of our entire body, it is easy to see that we should be careful not to choke or cramp this blood stream in any way.

When you cramp blood vessels and shut off blood supply to any part of the foot, every school physiology book tells us that you not only deprive it of the food it should have to keep healthy, but the slower blood stream cannot clear away waste matter as it should. We find chemical deposits form at the joints of the feet and the legs and then inflammation develops leading to pain and discomfort that makes you miserable all over. These symptoms are often mistaken for arthritis, rheumatism or some other ailment. Backaches, headaches, and many body ills may be traced to the feet.—Adv.

MORE SORGHUM SIRUP WHERE SOIL TREATED

Soil treated with 200 pounds of nitrate, 300 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate and 50 pounds of potash to the acre produced the most sorghum molasses, in seven years of tests at the Robinson Experiment Substation in Breathitt county, Kentucky.

Untreated land averaged 154 10 pound pails of sirup to the acre, and the land treated with nitrate, phosphate and potash, 219 pails. Land treated with nitrate and phosphate only produced 209 pails.

Adding limestone to the nitrate, phosphate and potash treatment did not increase yields. In some years the use of limestone tended to produce an "off-flavor" sirup. Use of barnyard manure not only did not increase yields above those obtained from using nitrate, phosphate and potash, but usually resulted in molasses of poor color, and sometimes adversely affected flavor.

A local variety of cane called Williams usually has produced the best quality of sirup, and generally has excelled in yields. In tests at the experiment substation in Eastern Kentucky, The Williams variety has showed resistance to a red spot disease, and its foliage remains green until harvest. Sugaring was not a problem in sirup produced from the Williams cane, when cutting was done at the proper time.

Kentucky Corn Growers Planting More Hybrid Seed

KENTUCKY corn growers are devoting an increasing percentage of this year's crop acreage to the heavy yielding hybrid strains.

The steady gain in the number of bushels of corn per acre which Kentucky farms produce is directly traceable to the use of hybrid seed, crop experts assert.

Kentucky's 1939 corn production showed an increase of 7,800,000 bushels over the 1938-39 yield, while the acreage actually planted to corn was 92,000 acres less, according to a statement made public by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, based on statistics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Total production of corn in Kentucky in 1939 was 70,400,000 bushels compared with 62,600,000 bushels for the previous 10-year average," says the statement.

"With the popularization of hybrid, the corn belt is entering a new era in which, with the aid of science, more abundant crops can be produced on a smaller acreage."

"Corn growers realize that in hybrid they have a variety capable of yielding larger and higher quality crops. They know, also, that hybrid corn draws heavily on the supply of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in the soil. It takes more plant food to produce the stiffer stalks, better root systems and fully acid and potash is sufficient for the crop's requirements, growers can consult with their county agents or send samples of their soil for analysis to the state agricultural college or experiment station. Then, having established what their fertilizer requirements are, they are pretty well assured of an increased yield and higher profits at marketing time by applying the right analysis in the correct amounts.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Stuffed Flank Steak: 2 lbs. flank steak, 2 cups cubed bread, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 2 tablespoons minced onions, 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1/4 teaspoon celery salt, one-third teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter melted, 1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup boiling water or tomato juice. Spread meat on flat surface, pound well on both sides. Mix bread with seasonings, butter and yolk. Spread on meat and roll up. Tie with cord. Sprinkle with flour, more salt, paprika. Fit into roasting pan, add water, cover with lid, bake 1 1/2 hours in moderate oven. Baste frequently.

The war would be over by this time if the strategy planned by hangers-on had been heard by diplomats.

THE FARM AND HOME

Even temperature should be moderately low for roasting all meats—300 degrees for beef, veal, lamb and smoked pork; 350 degrees for fresh pork. Long, slow cooking develops to the full extent the rich flavor of meats.

Newly set trees are not capable of utilizing fertilizers until new root development has taken place. In fact, fertilizers may injure young trees. Manure, however, may be used safely as a mulch, and will benefit trees after they begin to grow.

In feeding cow's milk to an orphan lamb, begin with one to two tablespoonsful every two hours from early morning until late at night. After three days, gradually increase the amount, and the time between feedings.

It is wise to provide extra capacity, in planning water systems for farm homes. Twenty gallons of water a day per person is none too much. If livestock is included, 12 gallons a day is the minimum per horse or cow.

Many dairymen now are making silage from the first cutting of alfalfa. It is ensiled as soon as slightly wilted, and 40 to 80 pounds of blackstrap molasses added per ton of hay. About 70 percent of dairy farmers in Kentucky fed some form of silage.

Indian pudding recipe: Scald 4 cups of milk in a double boiler. Add a third of a cup of cornmeal slowly, stirring constantly, and cook over water for 20 minutes. Stir in one cup of molasses. Pour the mixture into a buttered baking dish and bake two hours in a moderate oven. Serve with top milk.

SEWING

When shirring material, lengthen stitch on machine and use ruled paper as guide to get rows even. To keep sheer fabrics from puckering when sewed on machine, slip piece of thin paper under material and stitch through it. When cutting sheer fabrics, first put a layer of newspaper on table, place material on this and pattern on material. Pin through all and cut out together and material will not slip.

Would you blame a fellow for being insulted if you called him a hog, with the present price of pork?

You might buy a suit with a button missing, but the price tag is usually fastened on tightly enough.

DO THIS! When getting furniture ready for summer uses, be sure to sew up all holes in lining and upholstery for moths can enter the openings and damage the interior of furniture. Adhesive tape is good to hold loose ends in place.

THE DOCTOR'S WIFE WRITES:

Dear Folks:

It is thousands of miles from my cozy, glowing open fire tonight to that thunderous noise beyond the seas, but I feel it just the same—deep down inside of me. Like a whiff of thin blue smoke, such as drifts across the mountains to our peaceful valley every Indian Summer, comes the consciousness of human sufferings beyond the seas. It is war, and war is misery.

Disease is misery, too, and in our country the war we wage is against disease.

In our own State, at this very moment, there is a war being waged against syphilis.

The doctor says that nations which fought in the World War suffered in their populations almost as heavy a death toll from syphilis as they did from bullets, shells, air bombs, and all the diabolical mechanics of warfare.

Syphilis does not respect any age, sex, race, or social class. It is said that one in every twenty persons in this country, or 5% of all the men, women and children, are infected with syphilis and many of and as he worked, he told me that syphilis can be innocently spread from person to person by

1. Kissing.
2. Transferring a pipe of cigarette from mouth to mouth.
3. By a drinking glass.

Then the doctor peered at me through his glasses and said: "Do you know, Maria, that syphilis germs have been found on a glass half an hour after being rinsed in cool water and that nursemaids sometimes carry syphilis to the children given into their care?"

Suddenly he seemed to realize that I was there, and as his face took on that stern look that always prevails when I have tried his patience, I climbed down from the high-topped stool and prepared for the worst! He surprised me though! He pulled off his glasses, shook himself out of his sternness and kissed me! Then he went to his desk and selected a small volume put out by the State Department of Kentucky and handed it to me. It was entitled, "What You Should Know About Syphilis." In this volume, I found the answers to all my questions.

There are more than 100,000

this number contract the disease innocently.

I kept thinking about what the doctor had said about syphilis and so last night, as he worked at his table-sized laboratory, I slipped quietly in and perched myself on a high stool and watch him work. I soon I braved a few questions about this dreadful enemy of mankind, cases of syphilis in Kentucky alone, 100,000 of these become infected last year. About 6 out of every 100 pregnant women have syphilis. The disease kills many men, women and children. The germ is capable of attacking all parts of the body, the joints, heart and nervous system. Mothers can and do pass the syphilis germ through their blood to their unborn children. Syphilis can be cured! Early treatment is of first importance and only a skilled physician is competent to administer the recognized curative drugs. Beware of quacks and patent medicine, and remember that the earlier treatment is begun the better the chance of recovery. When treatment is begun late the results are good in only 50% of the cases.

Syphilis causes the loss of fifty million dollars in Kentucky annually. A small part of this amount would greatly reduce the state-wide prevalence of the disease.

"Take no chances," advises the little volume. Avoid close relationship with people who have syphilis; have a complete physical examination, including a blood test by your family physician, at least once a year. Tell your sons and daughters freely, frankly of this disease. Help to bring syphilis into the open and fight it and you will be reducing the number of wrecked homes, blind babies, crippled youngsters, insane adults and warped criminals.

Let's make this war that we are waging against syphilis in our free and happy country so effective that it will be heard above that thundering noise beyond the seas.

GOODYEAR SPONSORS

1940 ESSAY CONTEST

Akron, O.—All members of the Future Farmers of America, National 4-H Clubs and classes in vocational agriculture, who are high school boys and reside on farms, are eligible to compete in the 1940 national farm essay contest sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio.

Subject of the essays for the contest will be "How Rubber Tires have Changed Farm Equipment and Methods." Contestants are limited to manuscripts of from 800 to 1,000 words and every qualified participant will be sent a Wahl Eversharp pencil upon receipt of essay by the Goodyear contest committee.

Again this year, as in 1938 and 1939, the 10 grand prize winners will be given an all-expense trip to the Canadian camp of P. W. Litchfield, Goodyear president. The camp is located at Lake Timagami and comprises two private islands. Sailing, fishing and water sports are provided.

Enroute to and from Mr. Litchfield's camp, the grand prize winners will visit Quintupletland, attend the Pageant of the Empire and other events of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto make a complete tour of Niagara Falls and visit many other points of interest.

High school attended by the student who submits the outstanding manuscript will get a special school prize of $100 in cash for an educational project. Twenty-five prizes of $25 each will be awarded to as many contestants who rank immediately below the 10 grand prize winners.

Closing date of the 1940 contest will be May 15 and announcement of the winners will be made about July 1. The Canadian trip will be made in August. Any inquiries about the contest should be addressed to Contest Committee, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

PASTURE MIXTURES

HANDY THIS SPRING

Owsley county farmers found rye grass, crimson clover and vetch exceptionally good sources of stock feed this long, late spring. Henry Campbell, for instance, had three and a half acres seeded to this mixture. The land had been treated with lime and superphosphate. In this field he grazed 14 ewes and 17 lambs the latter part of March and through April. On May 1 the grass was 6 inches high and the sheep were fat. His only regret, reports County Agent Guy F. Boyd, is that he doesn't have 20 acres of such pasture.

PARAGRAPHS

There will always be women in Boone County who will insist on being on a party line the way they can keep a line on the parties!

There are two wolves in every man's life. The one stays at the door and the other follows at his heels.

The meanest man is the one who works late at the office so he won't be home to beat the rugs.

A 40-acre farm of worn-out Harlan county land is being reclaimed by L. G. Morris by terracing, liming and putting it in pasture.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

Until America's foremost G-man J. Edgar Hoover, mentioned this, we had not given the matter such concentrated thought. Except in towns where instances of dangerous operations have brought the scene to the fore, the existence of tourist camps where cabins are stopping places for overnight guests, have always been considered a convenience rather than a menace. However, Mr. Hoover warns that such places are too many times bases of operation for gangs of racketeers. There are a number of instances when publicity following hold-ups and even murders, have been given to tourist camps. It is such an easy way for an "out" and is a handy point of call in a storm from the law. This incident makes it a bit difficult on the owner of a reputable camp who has taken means to safeguard the lives and property of his guests. There are many havens along roadsides where stop many a traveler who prefers this to a hotel. But today he demands that the cottages be up to standard in sanitation, protection and appearance. Many states demand regular inspection regarding conditions in the camp. The man who patronizes them should be certain he is in one of safe and savory reputation.

A PITY

Before starting our summer of motor travel of rolling about the country over highway and byway, give a thought to a warning word sent out by Nature Magazine on the increasing toll of wildlife. There are many ways of adding up the total of thirty million animal death a year, and one of the foremost ones in the listing is the number of creatures hit by motor vehicles. The average motorist tries to avoid hitting an animal but is too frequently unsuccessful. The rabbit is the one most often destroyed and the great pity of 800 deer killed in three states during 1938 by auto. Drivers can be more careful and considerate by being less reckless, that is if they wish to reduce the growing list of wildlife disasters.

WOOD KILNS

One recent venture is a step forward in giving the purphaser more satisfaction for his money. The days when wood, after sawing into lumber, must be racked to season before being used in the construction of furniture and houses, can be overcome with a newer method used very successfully today. There has been developed a wood kiln in which, through control by air circulation, humidity and temperature, wood may be seasoned in a few days. Formerly it would take months and years to do a good job and often faulty construction was due to improperly seasoned wood. This newer means is supposed to increase the value of seasoning as high as 25 per cent. Since there have been a few homes where owners have suffered financially for the sake of haste, the idea of a controlled wood kiln is a feasible thought.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

In Hopkins county, seven demonstrations of how to treat seed potatoes were held last month. Perry county 4-H club members had 18,000 strawberry plants distributed among them.

"Spring lambs for profit" has become the slogan of Trimble county farmers interested in sheep management.

A 3-acre field of Clay county swamp land, with water standing a foot deep, has been drained and partially reclaimed.

Rye grass was used extensively for pasture last month for Mercer county sheep.

Nine carloads of limestone have been booked for immediate delivery into Webster county.

According to a count-wide survey, all grass mixtures used in Estill county have had a legume included.

Five electric brooders are being used in Mason county, though most farmers still use brick brooders.

Farm leaders are cooperating to obtain better seed corn through more advised buying, in Owsley county.

Fifty Calloway county farmers are demonstrating the planned home garden.

Three Bell county farmers are planting black locust seed in quantity this spring.

Green county farmers recently received 104,000 locust seedlings from the State Forestry Service.

KENTUCKIANS EAT

MILLIONS OF EGGS

No one knows yet what the present census will find, but the affair made in 1935 found that in Kentucky there were produced yearly 39,705,459 dozens of eggs. Some of these eggs are sold to out-of-state markets, particularly in the East. The major part, however, are consumed locally. Fully 90 per cent of Kentucky's farms have small flocks producing eggs sold locally or consumed at home. The main problem now, according to the Kentucky College of Agriculture, is to get the flocks into more constant production to provide eggs the year around.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

The American people, from long habit, take first-class railroad service for granted. They know that when they step on a train to go to some distant point it will take them there safely, swiftly, comfortably and economically. They know that when they mail a letter or ship a gift or a box of apples or a carload of machinery, it will reach its destination exactly as the schedules specify.

But few people know the immense amount of work and thought and vision that has gone into building this astounding transportation machine—or the tremendous progress that has been made in improving it in recent years.

In 1923 representatives of the railroads held a conference, and decided upon a great program of rail improvement. And even the bare figures tell a story of dramatic success. Today's average freight car carries eight more tons than its counterpart of 1918. Locomotives average 43 per cent more pulling power than in 1918. Freight train speeds average 64 per cent faster than in 1920. General car shortage, once the bane of farmer and manufacturer, have been unknown since 1923, no matter how great the demand for service. And, finally, the output of transportation per train, as measured by tons moved one mile in one hour, has increased 118 per cent since 1920—which means that railroad efficiency has more than doubled in two brief decades. Is it any wonder that American newspapers, organized labor, business groups and high public officials have all thrown their support behind legislation which would equalize competition in transportation, to the end that all carriers can do an even finer job on behalf of the American traveler, the American farmer, and American industry?

RED RASPBERRIES
OUTFIELD BLACKS

In variety tests made at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Latham red raspberries have been yielding three to four times as much as standard black varieties. One kind, known as the Sodus, has been averaging 424 crates to the acre.

In mulching tests, the Experiment Station found that heavy applications of straw manure helped the growth and yield of Latham raspberries. Mulching produced more berries than did an application of a half of a ton of nitrate of soda to the acre. Much of the benefit of mulching was thought to have come from the conservation of moisture. Mulching also produced more cane growth and larger leaves.

The Experiment Station found that heavy pruning of raspberries reduces yields. Unpruned patches produced 17 to 38 percent more berries.

CHILDREN'S SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY NEEDS DEVELOPING

Greatly to be encouraged are a child's sense of responsibility and the ability to make decisions, says Mrs. Mary Mumford Van Cleave, in charge of the nursery school of the University of Kentucky home economics department. If a parent always demands instant and absolute obedience, the child may have his sense of responsibility weakened, and develop the habit of thrusting his decisions off on others. This may have serious results later.

Naturally, a three-year-old who has just seen a store full of toys is not capable of deciding which he should have on his birthday. If the decision is left to him, he may choose an expensive toy and one of which he will quickly tire. Usually he will want something brightly colored, that moves with great speed or often an electrical-run toy. A week later he may be much bored with it. In cases such as this, or in more serious decisions, advice should be given by parents.

On the other hand, if sometimes a child is allowed to make his own decision and later to see that it was unwise, then he promptly realizes the logic of the discipline that comes as naturally as cause and effect. If he dawdles through supper, for instance, and so misses out on the story hour later, he may see that he has disciplined himself.

It is up to the adult to point out the consequences, to give the child the choice between two possibilities. Then if the youngster chooses wrongly, he will see that his power of decision has been misused.

The child will have to trust his own mind later; it is well for him to learn to do it early, and to make wise choices.

TRY SPEEDING UP

POULT PRODUCTION

If turning turkey during incubation could be discontinued before the 24th day, settings could be made weekly and the incubation compartment could be kept full. To test this, the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station divided 5,600 turkey eggs into four groups. Turning was discontinued in the first group the 18th day, in the second group the 20th day, in the third group the 22nd day and in the fourth group the 24th day. Best results were obtained in the third group, with the second group second-best. Thus the experimenters say the results indicate turning may be discontinued earlier than the 24th day.

Boosting Kentucky Soil Fertility

Good Soil Management Produces Profitable Results.

TWO questions usually occur to a farmer in Kentucky when he is considering the use of commercial fertilizer.

One is: "What kind of plant food shall I select and how much shall I apply?" The other is: "Can I afford to use fertilizer?"

"The answer to the first question," says a statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, "is that the selection of the fertilizer that will produce the most effective results in higher yields and better quality crops depends on the type of soil, the crops to be grown, the kind of rotation and other factors. The soils and agronomy departments of the state agricultural colleges and experiment stations have useful information in easily available form. County agents, likewise, will gladly cooperate by recommending grades of fertilizer best suited to certain crops and types of soils.

"Soils differ widely in their need for fertilizer—that is, in the proportions of the individual plant food elements. Unusual problems due to variations in soil types and crop productivity can be solved by furnishing samples of soil to your state experiment station for analysis, which will provide information on the need of the land for nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash.

"The answer to the second question is furnished by the experience of successful farmers throughout the Middle West. Records on the use of fertilizers show that the average dollar spent for fertilizer may be expected to return at least $3 in increased crop yields, higher quality and feeding value, besides building up and increasing the fertility of the soil for future crops."

178,000 FARMERS

PLAN CONSERVATION PROGRAM FOR 1940

A total of 178,690 Kentucky farmers signed farm plans indicating that they will participate in the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program, the state office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has announced.

Farmers cooperating with the program in Kentucky this year represent approximately 88 percent of eligible farmers in the state. The number of plans filed is more than 18 percent larger than the total of 150,000 farms on which conservation payments were earned under the 1939 program.

Each farm plan shows the total soil-building allowance for the farm in 1940 and the total number of units of soil-building practices necessary to earn this allowance. Approximately 80 percent of the payments which Kentucky farmers may earn under the 1940 program are for these conservation practices, and each farmer has indicated in his plan those practices he will carry out in earning his payment.

Effectiveness of these plans in promoting soil conservation practices in Kentucky is indicated by the fact that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has already taken order for 68,000 tons of triple superphosphate, 8,000 tons of 20 percent superphosphate, and 28,000 tons of limestone as agent of aid materials to be supplied in lieu of cash payment for use in connection with the 1940 program in the state.

Reports from throughout the state show that farmers are also increasing the use of limestone supplied by private and cooperative crushers, that they are planting more than 1,000,000 forest trees on land which needs to be retired from production of depleting crops, and that they are continuing seedlings of legumes and grasses and other approved practices for conservation of the soil.

Women have equal rights as proven by the number of them that have to stand in street cars and buses.

EXPERIMENT STATION

TO CONTINUE CASTOR BEAN GROWING TESTS

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station for the third year will continue tests in growing castor beans, for which demand is increasing for the production of castor oil to use in making quick-drying paints and varnishes and textiles, floor covering, upholstery, automobile brake fluids and other materials. Castor oil also is being used extensively in lubricants for high-pressure engines for airplanes and other machinery.

Ten or 12 varieties of castor beans will be grown this year at the main Experiment Station farm at Lexington and at the Experiment Substations at Princeton and Quicksand.

So far, most of the beans from which castor oil is extracted come from Brazil. It is possible, however, that castor beans can be grown profitably in Kentucky, if cheaper methods of harvesting can be developed. Harvesting now is done by hand, which makes it difficult to compete with labor in other countries. Efforts are being made to use combines in harvesting.

Production at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in the past two years ranged from 425 pounds to 1,565 pounds of castor beans to the acre. The beans are about half oil. The oil has been sold for 10 cents a pound, but may be higher as greater use develops in making paints and other materials, and as a result of the war.

MOTHERS ESTABLISH OWN KINDERGARTENS

When 27 Knox county farm women said they couldn't attend homemakers' meetings because they had small children, Miss Anne Elizabeth Vaughn, the county home demonstration agent, decided that community kindergartens were needed. So she arranged to have the children taken to one home, where toys and playthings were provided, and two women volunteered to take care of the youngsters. Then the mothers, freed from family cares, attended lectures on the subject, "Child Care and Training."

FARM SIZE AFFECTS TYPE OF PRODUCTION

Surveys made by the Agricultural Experiment Station of farms in the outer bluegrass region of Kentucky showed that 100-acre farms paid best when emphasis was placed on tobacco, dairy products, poultry, sheep and hogs; 150-acre farms when tobacco, dairy products, sheep, beef cattle and hogs are emphasized; 250 to 300-acre farms, when tobacco, beef cattle, sheep, dairy cattle, hogs and lespedeza seed were emphasized. The larger farms had a smaller acreage of tobacco in proportion to tillable land than the medium and small farms, and put greater emphasis on beef cattle and sheep.

WARM WEATHER EGGS REQUIRE EXTRA CARE

To encourage the production and selling of warm weather eggs, poultry men at the Kentucky College of Agriculture give these suggestions:

Dispose of all roosters. Keep the laying house and nests clean. Confine the hens until noon on rainy days. Feed balanced rations. Gather eggs often, using a wire basket. Cool eggs as soon as possible. Keep eggs in cases in a cool place; below 60 degrees if possible. Set eggs twice a week. Don't let lice and mites rob your business.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1940

ONLY $225 RAISED TOWARD GOAL

OF $800.00 FOR BOONE COUNTY—IS IT TOO MUCH FOR US TO RAISE TOWARD HELPING REFUGEES IN FRANCE?

The Boone County Chapter of the American Red Cross has been assigned a quota of $800.00 in the $20,000,000 War Relief Fund. To date Chapter officers have received approximately $225.00. This is far short of our quota—which should be reached by July 1st.

We are appealing to you for this very modest sum. The need is most urgent. I hope every Boone County man will help by giving liberally, at once, to this war relief fund.

Our people well know the dire need of the hundreds of thousands of Allied refugees. In our minds' eye we behold with infinite pity the streams of aged men and women, and the terrified children, fleeing from their burning homes, ruthlessly strafed from the air as they hasten along the highways seeking even temporary safety against the horrors of war. With millions of destitute war refugees pouring into France from the battle areas relief needs are hourly becoming more critical. Conditions among thousands of these evacuees are beyond description. Our representatives in Europe report:

Children with bruised bodies and minds, many lost from their loved ones, others orphaned, totter as it were toward us in America, the last big uninvolved Nation of free people capable of showing concern through our charity.

Have you contributed? No matter how small the sum it will be appreciated by your local Red Cross officers. We need large gifts, we need small gifts—but most of all we need the cooperation of every man, woman and child in Boone County. Send your contribution today to either Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman, Walton, Ky., or to Mr. Carroll Cropper, Burlington, Ky.

Among the letters of sacrifice in donating to the war relief fund, the following was received from Carrie E. Soderland, of Los Angeles by National Headquarters: "I am just a poor working woman—working out by the day. I do housecleaning and ironing for my money, when I can get the work. So I got a job Monday, cleaning down on my knees working woodwork. So I am sending my day's receipts to donate to the Red Cross. True, not much, but it is the way we give." Two one-dollar bills were enclosed. Have you given in that way?

TEAR GAS USED IN CAPTURE

OF VERONA MAN SUNDAY—OFFICERS COMPELLED TO BREAK DOWN DOOR TO GAIN ENTRANCE.

Sheriff Walton and Deputies Jake Williams and Harold Conner, and Elmer Kirkpatrick were forced to use tear gas Sunday in order to arrest A. J. Winans, Verona farmer.

The officers armed with a warrant for Winans' arrest on a charge of insanity, drove to the Verona home Sunday. The officers tried to coax Mr. Winans into the yard by asking for a drink of water. He brought the water out of the house, but set it down in the yard. When the officers started to approach the house, he picked up a heavy stool and backed into the house, locking all doors. E. M. Walton, Sheriff had been warned to handle the man with care as he possessed a shotgun and was said to be desperate. The sheriff and his deputies persuaded Winans to come out of the house, but to no avail.

Tear gas shells were obtained from State Highway Patrolmen and fired into the room. The door was then broken down by the officers and Winans returned to Burlington.

After being tried before Judge N. E. Riddell and examined by several physicians Monday, Winans was declared insane and was sent to the Lake Sanatorium Tuesday for treatment.

Mrs. Dena Chapman and Mrs. Lydia Schmidt, of Dixie Highway were Sunday guests of Mrs. Addie Scott.

OHIO MEN LEASE LAND IN BOONE

FOR EXPERIMENTAL PURPOSES IN CONNECTION WITH DEVELOPMENT OF A GAS-TO-GASOLINE FIELD.

Experiment in connection with possible development of a gas-to-gasoline field, near Taylorsport, on the land of Mr. Beacom, Boone County, has been disclosed by a group of Cincinnati business men.

Gas and oil rights on several thousand acres of land along the Ohio River have been leased by a group of Cincinnati men.

A "pilot" plant, where gas will be processed into gasoline is under construction and should be completed in from 60 to 90 days. The plant will cost about $5000.

If the program is practical and profitable a considerable amount of money may be spent, Mr. Campbell said.

As the project stands now, it is strictly experimental. No one knows the extent of the gas in the field, nor whether it will be profitable to process the gas into gasoline for the market. As far as is known there is no oil in the field in which they are conducting the experiment.

One test has shown that 1000 cubic feet of the gas in the field will produce from three to five gallons of gasoline.

It is high multiple gasoline, that is volatile, which mixed with other gasoline will pass into an aeriform state quickly, a quality that will start motors easily in cold weather.

Chemical analysis shows that the Taylorsport field gas is slightly "wetter" than gas in West Virginia and other parts of Kentucky, and is richer than gas being run through a similar process in the Texas fields.

Vacuum will be employed to enrich the flow when the pilot plant is put into operation. The wells being used now run from depths of 400 to 1300 feet, depending on the contour of the land.

The geological formation seems to be similar to that of the extensive Lima O. gas fields, and indications are that the formation runs beneath the Ohio River.

Utopians Plan Outdoor Meetings

The committee in charge of the campaign is Virgil Vice, Burlington; Mary Reitor, Petersburg; Robert Graves, Hebron; Jane Scott, Florence; J. O. Griffith, New Haven; Mary Emily Burcham, Grant; and Norman Schwenke, Hamilton. All who are interested in Utopia Club work are invited to attend the Thursday evening meeting.

Rev. J. W. Campbell Honored Father's Day

Those present besides Rev. Campbell were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Randall, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dedman, Jr., Henry, John, Elmer and William Holladay, Marilyn and Billy Campbell, Mrs. Ida Sleet, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Romanowits, Mr. Chas. Lanthorne and Mr. Roland Puyar.

THIEVES LOCK SAFE TRYING TO LOOT IT

Burglars who broke into the Erlanger Hardware Co., 210 Dixie Highway, Erlanger Sunday night, locked up the safe containing the safe's contents. Monday, entrance was gained through a window. Once in the thieves apparently did not notice that the safe was open. The burglars apparently turned the handle of the safe and the safe was open and locked it, then proceeded to try to batter off the combination and open it. They failed. The safe was empty all the time.

WEED GROWERS STUDY PRICES

TOBACCO IS VITAL SOURCE LIVING FOR THOUSANDS TENANT FARMERS IN KENTUCKY.

It is definitely recognized that the tobacco crop is the money crop of the Burley tobacco belt. The annual income from this source has been for recent years, about $70,000,000, and we also know that this income is the vital source of their living.

Because this is true, the price consideration is most vital and a study of the price records of the past years, as provided by official Government records is illuminating, makes out a good case for past cooperative efforts and points to the need for such an organization as the Cooperative Association of Burley Producers, now being built among the growers of the Burley belt.

Study these figures: Production of Burley tobacco, 1912 to 1939 7,922,209,040 pounds. Farm value of Burley tobacco, 1912 to 1939 $1,501,600,000.00.

Average farm price for these 28 years $18.95 per 100 pounds. Production of Burley tobacco, 1922 to 1937 1,659,200 pounds. Farm value of Burley tobacco, 1922 to 1937 $335,000,000.00.

Average farm price during the Stone pool $20.23 per 100 pounds. Production of Burley tobacco, 1934 to 1936 224,900,000 pounds. Farm value of Burley tobacco, 1934 to 1936 $53,430,000.00.

Average farm price during AAA and poor season $23.75 per 100 pounds. Production of Burley tobacco, 1930 to 1939 3,261,100,000 pounds. Farm value of Burley tobacco, 1930 to 1939 $544,200,000.00.

Average farm price for past ten years $16.70 per 100 pounds. If we could have had the past ten years' average price of the Stone pool period, 1922 to 1927—$20.23 per 100 lbs. instead of the $16.70 we received on the farm, the burley growers would have had an additional farm income of $114,000,000.00 or $11,400,000.00 per year.

You can make other comparisons of vital significance from the above figures.

Prices Declined For Four Years. Sales price of Burley tobacco, 1936 was $35.70 per 100 pounds. Sales price of Burley tobacco, 1937 was $20.10 per 100 pounds. Sales price of Burley tobacco, 1938 was $19.00 per 100 pounds. Sales price of Burley tobacco, 1939 was $17.47 per 100 pounds.

The prospect for the season 1940 is very unpromising.

When interested write to W. J. Clarke, Promotional Director, Owensboro, Ky.

APPLICATION FOR REA EXTENSION

BEING RECEIVED AND WILL BE FILED ON JULY 1ST, ACCORDING TO REV. WILL SMITH, R. E. A. COUNTY CHAIRMAN.

Farmers who are interested in receiving R. E. A. electricity and who are not on the original line being constructed should complete plans for filing application immediately, according to H. A. Forester, County Agent. This information was received through Rev. Will Smith, County R. E. A. Chairman.

Rev. Smith states that the Association plans to file an application for the extension of new lines on July 1st. The securing of the sign-up and right-of-way applications are up to the individuals wanting electric service. Application forms and easement forms and instructions for filling out these forms may be secured at the County Office or from Chester Roland, Manager of the R. E. A. Association, Owensboro, Ky.

There will be no paid solicitors or persons to urge the extension of lines. Those who want the service should carry out the following steps:

1. See if three houses per mile can be signed up from the point where the line now being constructed is established to the last home where the new proposed line is to go.
2. If three houses per mile can be secured, the interested parties should elect a chairman of their own to get application forms and instructions at the County Office or from Owen R. E. A. Office and proceed to sign membership agreements and easement forms.
3. The sign-up should be completed by July 1st and filed with Chester Roland, Manager of the Owensboro R. E. A. Office.

$25.00 per signed member collected at the time of the sign-up. This money is refunded if the signer does not get electricity.

The Construction Company reports that the new line over the entire County will be completed and ready for energizing in about four weeks.

The many friends of Edgar Riley will be sorry to learn that he is a patient at Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington. Mr. Riley is a former resident of this county having resided both at Burlington and Petersburg for many years. His many friends here wish for him a speedy recovery.

MARKETING TOUR SET FOR JUNE 26

LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS INTERESTED IN COOPERATIVE SUPERVISED TOUR OF YARDS AND PACKING PLANTS INVITED.

Boone County farmers will hold a livestock marketing tour of the Cincinnati Livestock Yards and packing plants on next Wednesday, June 26th, according to H. R. Forester, County Agent.

All livestock producers who are interested in a cooperative supervised tour of the yards and packing plants are urged to attend. Those desiring to take part will meet at the offices of the Cincinnati Producers Cooperative Commission Association, Stock Yard Exchange Building, Cincinnati, at 8:30 a. m.

There is no charge to those taking part on the tour. Because dinner arrangements and guide service must be arranged, it is important to know just who and how many expect to attend. Those who are interested should leave word by Monday, the 24th, at the County Agent's Office. Phone Burlington 412. It was unfortunate that the tour comes on the same day that pooled wool is received at Petersburg, but it is hoped there will be few conflicts.

A COOL HEAD

It was last fall the housewives heard the plea for sanity in purchasing sugar. A war scare and storekeepers, bakers, candy manufacturers and housewives all became jittery and jumped in to buy large quantities of sugar. What happens, when folks buy frantically to protect themselves in case of a food shortage, is that the price of sugar does a rapid climb. The fire dies and the price of sugar returns to normal. The skyrocketing of fear and the skyrocketing of prices is not necessarily over. It may come to life and all our produce structure be thrown for a decided panic. We do know that a wide-spread war brings inflation in food prices. The prices double during 3 1/2 years of the last World War. The effect of the present conflict will influence the cost of commodities. The greatest harm comes, not during a war, but when the war is over. Can the situation be met so that this general collapse could be averted, or at least not cause such a depression? They say it can if the housewife gives consideration to the problem. We know she can do a great deal to help the situation and one suggestion is to find substitutes for products that show an increase in price. The purchaser asks, in turn, that she be informed concerning possible shortage and that she be made aware of justified increases and infringement by war-profiteers.

We are not in the war but we are considering the many phases that would affect us were we engaged in it. The housewife will get out her pencil and figure on today's living costs, but she should do her figuring for mass buying calmly and without frenzy. Keep the problem of today's living from becoming any more of an enigma than it is already.

PICKING UP

A recent survey shows that there are some husbands that stop the family car at roadside stands, as surprising as it sounds. These accommodating fellows buy a total of $3,000,000,000 worth of goods annually from the many roadside stands that dot the country's roads. They estimate that there are at least 300,000 of such stands and you don't have to drive very far from Boone County before you find one or more of them. They offer everything from fruits, vegetables, dairy products, honey, maple sugar, and soft drinks, to pottery, glassware and breads. There isn't a woman in our county who can't direct you to one of them even though she may be married to one of those fellows who speeds up the car when he sees indications of a roadside stand ahead.

FAIR AND HOTTER

Due to the variety of weather we have had during the winter, followed by a very late and extremely wet spring, there are cropping up a lot of unusual predictions for the summer weather. We are far enough along in June to see whether "one extreme follows another," or a "most unusually cool summer." Who can insist upon a year without a summer when the collar has already started to wilt and the rays of Sol have started chasing the thermometer up to high? The conditions of crops look good as a whole, and although the reluctance of spring gave us a late start, the advent of summer indicates that the hopeful months to come will be forceful in seeing that we weakly seek the shade and shelter.

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Dean of the Moody Bible Institute

Lesson for June 23

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

MALACHI DEMANDS HONESTY TOWARD GOD

LESSON TEXT—Malachi 3:7-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.—Malachi 3:10.

Spiritually sick—and desperately so—was Israel in the days of Malachi. The nation had been released from captivity in Babylon and had been back in its own land for almost a century. The outburst of religious enthusiasm which characterized their return had resulted in the rebuilding of the temple (Ezra 1:1-4). In this they were encouraged by Hagai, as we recall from our lesson of last Sunday. They had later been led by Nehemiah in the rebuilding of the city wall, but now again they had turned away from God. Malachi came with what one might call God's last word before judgment upon their sins. The lesson centers around four words.

I. Apostasy.
"Ye have turned aside" (v. 7, R. V.). This was God's complaint against His people. In spite of His blessings upon them, they had intermarried with the heathen, they had dealt treacherously with their brethren, and had neglected to worship God. What was even worse, they felt no conviction about their sin and denied that they owed God anything, not even the debt of common gratitude.

Read the insolent, self-confident questions and assertions of the people in verses 7, 8, 13 and 14. Think how perfectly they fit the attitude of a very vital people in the day of Malachi.

One might almost think that Malachi were reading the secret thoughts of our own people, and possibly of our own hearts.

II. Robbery.
Illness commonly has its center of infection, whether it be physical or spiritual sickness. Malachi struck at a very vital point when he revealed that the heart of Israel's difficulty was dishonesty toward God.

That dishonesty reflected itself in spiritual things, but, since the people were talking to God, it was a concrete illustration of their deceit—they had withheld from God the tithes and offerings.

Men who would never cheat the telephone company out of a nickel will rob God consistently Sunday after Sunday by sanctimoniously slipping a third into the collection plate. If that is all a man can and should give, God will bless it and multiply it for His glory. But certainly it does not help one who lives in luxury to give God's work the smallest piece of change which he can decently slip into the plate.

Nothing may be said to be an Old Testament people. Doubtless it is also true that the principle of New Testament Christianity is that all we have belongs to God, but often the one who hides behind that fact does not give as much as the people of Old Testament times. Is that honest?

III. Judgment.
God is love, but that does not mean that His patience is without limit nor that He will forever withhold judgment. He says, through Malachi (v. 9), "Ye are cursed with a curse." "The blessing has been withheld (v. 10). The devourer is in the land (v. 11). He promised them release and blessing if they repented and returned to the right way, which obviously means that their failure to do so would bring judgment. We know that Israel despised God's warning and to this day is paying for its sin. Will America be wise enough to heed God's call?

IV. Blessing.
So often the loving God had to speak through His prophets of impending judgment on sin, but how gracious He is in that He always holds out the promise of blessing for repentance and obedience.

Look at the precious promise in verse 10. Thousands of Christians join the writer in saying, "That is true in A. D. 1940 just as it was in 400 B. C." Read verses 11 and 12. Note that our God is not only a great God, but a good God. Consider the blessings of spiritual fellowship—the certainty of victory revealed in verses 16 and 17. One marvels that Israel could resist such a loving plea just as one wonders also why men of our own day of God's grace still resist His gracious invitation.

A Helpful Heart
It is a fine thing to do kindly, helpful deeds. It is one of the very finest in the world. But there is something finer than the helpful hand; it is the helpful heart.

End Is Death
There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.

Company's 18 offices, Coast-to-Coast.

As past national commander of the American Legion, and long active in that organization's patriotic projects, the insurance executive reminded his hundreds of co-workers that "Our flag is the symbol of our form of government. It stands for all that we are and hope to be. In these troublesome times, I believe it should be displayed as a constant reminder that we respect and revere the ideals for which it stands—loyalty, justice, freedom and democracy."

His address, presented by means of electrical transcription simultaneously in all offices, and accompanied by patriotic music, reminded his co-workers of the danger of "lending attentive ears to propagandists who would destroy this very government of ours. It is time for American citizens to speak," he declared, "and demand that these alien intruders return to the shores from which they came. We must be proud of our country—of our American institutions—and of our form of government. We must tell our side of the story."

The ceremony was concluded with the presentation, to each office, of a beautiful silk American flag. "Its material value is small," Belgrano concluded, "but its real value is beyond price. It stands for a nation of free men. I hope that whenever your eyes fall upon this national emblem, you will feel that surge of pride, that wave of gratitude, which will daily inspire your silent prayer, 'God Bless America.'"

1940 KENTUCKY STATE FAIR WILL EQUAL ANY IN NATION

Louisville, Ky., May 18—Refreshingly new from top to bottom and with a new spirit of friendliness the 1940 Kentucky State Fair will equal any State fair in the Nation, Robert B. Jewell, General Manager, said today in outlining plans for the thirty-ninth renewal of Kentucky's outstanding educational and amusement extravaganza. Dates for the fair are September 9th to 14th, with a preview set for Saturday, the 7th, and the advance showing, Sunday, September 8th.

Work on the new $200,000 building program is proceeding at a rapid pace and two of the fourteen new barns planned for the cattle and the horse departments are completed with the third one expected to be finished within the next few days.

One of the many innovations will be completely new lighting system for the Horse Show Pavilion which will be installed at a cost of several thousand dollars. This will do away with much of the glare prevalent heretofore.

At a cost of nearly $15,000, a seven-foot wire fence will be erected around the ground, and all roads will be widened and resurfaced.

Making its first appearance at the Kentucky State Fair will be Grand Circuit Racing which has been booked for four days. On one of these days Greyhound, 1:55 1/4, World's Champion Trotter, will endeavor to break the existing track record of 2:01. Money in excess of $13,500 will be divided among the winning owners during the meet. Three stakes and several overnight handicaps are to be decided during the four days of racing.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The June meeting of the Constance Homemakers was held on Wednesday, June 5th at the home of Mrs. Adam Reeves. There were 16 members and our Home Demonstration Agent Miss Gillaspie present.

The business session was held in the morning with Mrs. Walter Sprague, our president, presiding. At the noon hour a covered dish luncheon was served.

The club will meet at the Erlanger Lumber Co. Wednesday, June 19th for making Kitchen Gadgets. On July 8th the club will take a garden tour in the morning and have a canning demonstration to be held in the basement of Constance Christian Church in the afternoon.

Mrs. Peemo gave a talk on flowers and Mrs. Kenyon gave a lesson on Making Kitchen Gadgets, which concluded our meeting.

Visitors and new members are always welcome.

CANNING PROJECT
STARTED BY 4-H GIRLS

Four-H Club girls enrolled in the canning project have received their project and record books, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent. Local adult leaders are planning to hold group meetings in the near future to demonstrate proper methods of canning fruits and vegetables. These meetings will be held at the home of the leader. The project of canning will be completed in time to be displayed at the 4-H and Utopia Fair, August 24th.

Following is a list of adult leaders selected by the 4-H members: Burlington, Mrs. Vernon Pope; Florence, Audrey Markesbery; Hebron, Mrs. Stella Nichols; Hamilton, Mrs. Orin Edwards; and Mrs. Minnette Stephens; Walton, Mrs. Sam Sleet; Petersburg, Mrs. Agatha Payton; Taylorsport, Mrs. Miles Berry.

EVENTS SCHEDULED AT EXPERIMENT STATION
Important events scheduled at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington this month include a poultry short course June 17-20; breeders' school, June 21-22; and meeting of sheep raisers June 25.

Among speakers at the short course in poultry, and also at the breeders' school, will be Dr. D. C. Warren, of Kansas, an authority on stock raising. General management, judging, disease control, and other phases of poultry production will be considered.

Dairymen, beef cattle raisers, shepherds, swine producers and horsemen will attend the breeders' school. Among speakers are Laurence B. Gardiner of the American Jersey Cattle Club and D. R. Evans, secretary of the United Duroc Association.

At their meeting June 25, sheep raisers will consider the kind of ewes best suited to Kentucky conditions; also the control of parasites, and other problems connected with sheep production.

INSPECT METHODS IN

"LIVE-AT-HOME" PLAN
In two "cow-hog-hen" tours in Grant county, 78 farm men and women studied ways of increasing incomes by more complete production of the family living at home. Larger and better gardens, good milk cows, hogs and chickens, to produce a year-round supply of food, form the basis of the county planning committee's live-at-home program.

CHICKENS SECOND IN FARM RETURNS
IN MONROE COUNTY

Farmer cooperation through a county poultry improvement association in five years moved eggs and chickens to second place in total income in Monroe county, Kentucky. From last year's farm-to-barn crop Monroe county farmers received $262,448 and from their poultry they received $242,900.

Organized in 1935, the Monroe County Poultry Improvement Association sold eggs at a premium of 10 cents a dozen, first in Kentucky, and then in other states. Last year a hatchery was established at Tompkinsville, the county seat. It operates under the national poultry improvement plan, which means its chicks are disease free and come from good stock. Using eggs produced in Monroe county, the hatchery raises no chicks to sell to the county, thus insuring a supply of good chicks for all farmers.

There are 700 brooder houses in Monroe county, County Agent Justus Ellis reports. Fewer than 50 of the 2,400 farmers in the county have no chickens. Only pullets are used for layers in Monroe county. After the hatching season is over, the hens are fattened and sent to market, farmers retaining only enough layers to provide eggs for home use. Chicks are hatched early, so the pullets will be ready to lay by October 1. Laying heavily through the fall, winter and spring, when egg prices are highest, their job is done by June 1.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Sam Suddarth of Adair county has excellent red clover grown from home-produced seed, while a field alongside sowed with northern seed is not nearly so good. The first crop of the home-grown clover will be cut for hay and the second crop saved for seed.

Members of the homemakers' clubs in Boyd county are setting a new tree for each old one on their farms. Attention also is being given to renewing shrubbery, to flowers, to lawns and to other forms of home and farm beautification.

"That Mason county may become one of the garden spots of Kentucky," members of homemakers' clubs in that county are developing a program for more trees, better lawns, shrubbery and flowers. The county's County Women's Club sponsored a flower exchange this spring.

In preparation for new effort at livestock improvement, a survey made in Casey county revealed 28 registered bulls, 33 grades and 18 unregistered bulls. The survey held to arouse interest in better breeding stock.

The Carlisle County Wool Growers' Association sold 34,000 pounds of wool for farmers in six counties. Clear wool averaged $33.10 a hundred; light burr, $28; medium burr, $25; and heavy burr, $21. Expenses of handling and selling are about 50 cents a hundred.

Members of homemakers' clubs in Caldwell county have been studying outdoor meals, with emphasis on simple picnic lunches. Mrs. Harold McGowan, built an outdoor grill at a cost of 10 cents, plus her labor.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Boxed tobacco made double the growth of un-boxed, according to 15 Montgomery county farmers who tried the experiment.

Approximately 115 Barren county farmers who enlisted in a rat-killing campaign report excellent results so far.

V. G. Hestand, Monroe county, estimated his alfalfa would yield 5,000 pounds of hay per acre at the first cutting.

The Marion County Farm Bureau financed the purchase of 20 gilts for 4-H club members.

First aid demonstrations won county championships for Lila Egan and Maxine Wright, Powell county.

Brice Moore, Johnson county, is grossing about $12.20 per ewe on his lamb flock.

Members of homemakers' clubs in Rockcastle county will wear home-made dresses at a county-wide meeting.

In Elliott county, 20 poultry raisers are selling their cockerels for enough to pay all costs for the whole flock.

In Union county, 110 farm men and women attended a sheep meeting to discuss marketing problems.

For the first time, at least half of the Daviess county farm have hybrid corn.

The Hart County Certified Seed Association closed books with all but a few bushels of seed corn sold. Hickman county farmers are buying registered rams cooperatively at moderate price.

FARMERS TO INSPECT

EXPERIMENT STATION
August 7 has been selected as the date of a state-wide meeting of farmers at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Director Thomas F. Cooper announces the meeting will be open for inspection. Plans are to be made to accommodate several thousand farmers, representing all parts of Kentucky, and from neighboring states.

KENTUCKY SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND

The Kentucky School for the Blind, Louisville, Kentucky, provides for the visually handicapped children of the State full educational opportunities from kindergarten through an accredited high school. Instruction also given in music, commercial work, home economics and other vocational occupations.

Opportunity is provided for those qualified to pursue higher education. Eligible for admission are boys and girls, residents of Kentucky, who are blind or whose sight is so defective that they cannot obtain an education in the public schools; it is further required that they be of good health, sound mind, and between the ages of six and eighteen years.

Tuition, books, board, laundry and medical attention are furnished without cost to the pupil. There are separate schools for white and colored children, some distance apart, each with its own staff of teachers.

On admission to the school each pupil is given a complete physical examination. Recommendations are carefully carried out and progress is noted on health card provided for each pupil. To safeguard partial vision and to prevent advancement of blindness, each child from time of admission is under the care of an eminent eye specialist.

The school session opens the second Wednesday of September and closes the second Wednesday of June, the children returning to their homes for the summer vacation.

For further information write: Miss Catherine T. Moriarty, Superintendent Kentucky School for the Blind 1867 Frankfort Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky.

LOW ELECTRIC

BROODING COST
That chicks may be brooded by electricity at a cost of slightly more than 1 cent each was demonstrated in Kentucky this year. The cost of current for 14 brooders operated in Garrard county was 12 cents per chick for a period of 38 days. Paul Walden of Garrard county operated five electric brooders for 42 days, raising 1,849 chicks at a cost of $15.61 for electricity.

The average current consumed by 18 brooders in Garrard and Larnie counties, in which 5,281 chicks were started, was .55 of a kilowatt hour per chick for an average of 38 days. Regular colony brooder houses were used, with heat supplied by well-insulated electric brooders.

The tests were made through the cooperation of farmers, rural electric cooperative associations, county farm agents and the State College of Agriculture.

Uncle Sam is mending his defenses. Young men are needed for some of the newer arms and services. Local post offices and recruiting stations can supply necessary information.

SHRUB PRUNING TIME HERE

Wood growth of shrubs must be renewed to make the plants look attractive, reminds N. R. Elliott, Kentucky College of Agriculture landscape specialist and the time to prune is now. The best method is to remove a fourth to a third of the old cane, taking it out clear to the ground. When this is done regularly over a period of years, the top of the plant is renewed every three to four years.

It also reduces the size of the plants. A good rule to remember is always to prune as soon after blooming as possible, says Prof. Elliott.

This picture of Governor Johnson was snapped while drinking the second bottle of Jersey cream-line milk at lunch at the National Jersey sale held June 6 at Lexington, Ky., according to R. L. Runcan, secretary, Falls Cities Co-operative Milk Association, Chairman of the Dairy month publicity for Kentucky.

Governor Johnson opened the National sale by extending a welcome to the visitors who came from coast to coast and from Cuba to Canada. The sale of 58 animals averaged $37.00. It was the first time a national Jersey sale was ever held in Kentucky.

Governor Johnson has officially proclaimed "June Dairy Month." "Follow the Governor's lead and assist the farmers in making 1940 June Dairy Month a success."

Must start now and fully prepare not only for the present time, but for all time to come. The American School Army plan will provide an adequate defense for future time. Twenty years from now there would be on the rolls of the United States Army 2,000,000 men who would have had thorough military training in their formative years; who will be sounder of body and trained of hand and mind in the event they should have to bear arms in defense of this glorious country.

"Rich as America's resources are, we cannot afford to keep a large standing army, nor is that necessary. Neither can we afford the exorbitant cost of emergency preparation under the stress and waste of the excitement of an emergency after it is upon us. The American view of training, of benefit to the School Army plan provides the necessary defense at the lowest possible cost, from the points of citizenry and of raising man power to industry during adulthood."

"In the light of the studies of the defects found in drafted men of the World War, the benefits of this training to the health of the youth of the Nation will be great. Each graduate will be equipped with a worth-while education, trained for the responsibility of defending the nation that is already borne by every able-bodied male citizen whether he is equipped or not. Training in The American School Army therefore imposes no new obligation upon the young manhood of the nation, but equips the youth to better carry out the responsibility which is already his. Each graduate of the American School Army is to be carried on the rolls as a Reservist and subject to bear arms in defense of the United States, the same as all men now are."

"It is my sincere wish that we will never have cause to use the services of these young men in this way, and it grows more apparent day by day that the way to keep from sacrificing young men's lives needlessly is to be fully prepared. Toward this end I have worked out the American School Army plan with the cooperation of the Office of Education and the United States Army."

REPRESENTATIVE INTRODUCES BILL FOR SCHOOL ARMY

In a plan destined to provide a permanent trained reserve of two million men, for the defense of the United States, Representative Kent E. Keller, (Democrat) of Illinois, Tuesday introduced a bill in the House of Representatives, for the creation of The American School Army.

To begin with the plan calls for the training of 21,850 youth between the ages of 15 and 18, each year in military, vocational and academic education to be increased as found necessary. These cadets are to be selected according to the apportionment of the various Congressional Districts. In the Keller Plan, the Educational Board, under the Chairmanship of the United States Commissioner of Education, has charge of the academic and vocational training and is to cooperate with the War Department which provides the housing, discipline, and military training. There is to be no educational requirement. The only bar against a boy who wishes to enter is a physical defect which cannot or not be corrected by care and training or mental deficiency as to be classed incompetent.

In reviewing the merits of his bill in Washington, Mr. Keller stated:

"I repeat that no country will attack America, with our unlimited resources if America is fully prepared. The countries that understand nothing but force, can be met only by force. America must start now and fully prepare not only for the present time, but for all time to come. The American School Army plan will provide an adequate defense for future time. Twenty years from now there would be on the rolls of the United States Army 2,000,000 men who would have had thorough military training in their formative years; who will be sounder of body and trained of hand and mind in the event they should have to bear arms in defense of this glorious country."

"Rich as America's resources are, we cannot afford to keep a large standing army, nor is that necessary. Neither can we afford the exorbitant cost of emergency preparation under the stress and waste of the excitement of an emergency after it is upon us. The American view of training, of benefit to the School Army plan provides the necessary defense at the lowest possible cost, from the points of citizenry and of raising man power to industry during adulthood."

"In the light of the studies of the defects found in drafted men of the World War, the benefits of this training to the health of the youth of the Nation will be great. Each graduate will be equipped with a worth-while education, trained for the responsibility of defending the nation that is already borne by every able-bodied male citizen whether he is equipped or not. REBUILDING HISTORIC NATCHEZ TRACE WILL OPEN BEAUTY OF DEEP SOUTH

An undeveloped section of the Natchez Trace, overlooking with Spanish moss, and not much changed from Andy Jackson's day.

Mixing and spreading soil materials for surfacing the new Natchez Trace.

A typical section of smooth, dustless, calcium chloride stabilized roadway.

ORIGINATING as an Indian trail many years before the first white man set foot on this continent, the route of the Natchez Trace from Nashville, Tennessee to Natchez, Mississippi, is one of the oldest and most historic roads in the United States. Over it, through the wilderness, came the early pioneers who settled the Southwest Territory back in 1798.

By treaty with the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians, the United States acquired the right to develop the Natchez Trace into a wagon road and mail route, in the early 1800's. But for many years the journey over the Trace remained a hard and perilous one—due not so much to the Red Man as to the bloodthirsty bandits who found easy picking on the wilderness trail. Lafayette knew its hardships, as did Meriwether Lewis, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and many another well-known figure of history.

Reconstruction of this ancient road into a Parkway—extending the approximate 500 miles from Nashville to Natchez—was adopted as a permanent project of the National Park Service in 1933. Under supervision of the Public Roads Administration, several sections of the road were placed under construction last year in the three states traversed by the route, and the 1940 program is now underway.

Since the parkway is particularly designed for pleasure and sightseeing use, there will be no roadside advertising signs, hot-dog stands or any of the other ugly structures that mar so many of our present-day road-sides. To keep the highway, itself, in tune with the unspoiled country through which it passes, the authorities are adopting, as far as possible, types of road surfacing that are substantial and at the same time harmonize with the natural surroundings.

The first part of the new parkway to be completed during 1939 was a section just outside the southern terminus at Natchez. For surfacing on this section, local soil materials—gravel, sand and clay—were scientifically combined to produce what highway engineers call a "stabilized" mixture. After these natural materials were properly mixed, spread over the roadway and packed down by rolling, an application of calcium chloride was spread over the surface. The function of this material, which dissolves and penetrates into the soil mixture, is to provide long-lasting films of moisture that hold the soils tightly together and prevent dust. Once or twice a year, depending upon the amount of dry weather experienced, additional treatments with calcium chloride will be made to restore the needed moisture.

Some authorities believe that the route of the Natchez Trace was used by DeSoto who discovered the Mississippi River in 1542. Four centuries later—in 1942—modern tourist-explorers will be able to traverse the same route for at least much of its length, if the reconstruction work progresses at the scheduled pace.

WOMAN No. 1—
Here's a Woman:— (Not old)—that cannot do all the things she would like to do. Why? Her feet hurt. Long before the day is over, her legs ache and draw. Early in the afternoon her back begins to ache—then her head aches. When the day is over, she is a physical and nervous wreck, glad to be in bed. Now maybe after a night's sleep (if she gets a night's sleep) she hopes the day will bring her some body and foot comfort.

THE SECOND WOMAN:—About the same age—used to suffer day after day like the first woman. Someone told her that feet out of balance and not properly supported, sometimes caused leg pains—backaches—and followed by headaches and general nervousness.

BUT SHE INVESTIGATED and found that these things can be corrected. After wearing surgical shoes, the foot pains disappeared—no more leg pains—no more backaches—no more headaches—and the world seemed bright again. Just like being born all over again. If you are suffering—don't put up with it another day—investigate today. Your feet may be causing all your trouble.—Adv.

CAREY Fibre Coating does more than cover the surface of a felt roof—it renews the life of the material. The light oils soak into the dried-out felt thoroughly waterproofing it. The heavy oils fill up exposed cracks and form a new wearing surface. This new surface is reinforced with fibers of genuine asbestos—the wonderful mineral which is practically impervious to exposure. Carey Fibre Coating is made for felt roofs, but it is also fine for any other metal roof. One gallon covers about 50 square feet—get our money-saving prices on any quantity.

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

A new record for changing make up in one picture has been established by George Sanders who plays the dual role of The Saint and The Boss in "The Saint's Double Trouble," fourth in RKO Radio's series of film mysteries based on the popular stories by Leslie Charteris.

Approximately twenty times a day, Sanders put on make-up for his role of The Boss and an equal number of times he removed it for the part of The Saint.

Because both characters are supposed to look as much alike as identical twins, the subtle difference in looks is registered by make-up and the lack of it, and a slight stressing of eyebrows and chin line for the part of The Boss, and underworld crook.

Bobby Breen doesn't expect that he'll be the one-boy-in-a-million whose voice won't change.

He proved that when, upon the completion of his new starring picture "Escape To Paradise," he announced he had signed up for instruction in dramatics at the famed school of Madame Maria Ouspenskaya.

Bobby knows that when he reaches the age that his voice should change, he must rely on his ability at acting to continue with his screen career until his singing voice is completely settled.

"Escape To Paradise" is Bobby Breen's eighth starring picture. The amazing young singer began his screen career three years ago with "Let's Sing Again," and since that time has made a picture every five months—a record for a child star!

HIGHER FERTILITY KEY TO BIG CROPS ON KENTUCKY FARMS

CHICAGO—It's the extra bushels per acre a Kentucky farmer harvests that spell the difference between making a profit, breaking even on his season's work, or finishing "in the red."

This is true whether he is growing corn or wheat—potatoes or oats—or any other crop.

"All things considered," says a statement, "the cost of plowing, seeding, and cultivating a field is practically the same, whether the crop yield be large or small."

"The farmer who has the knack of getting large yields from his land year in and year out can teach his neighbors several important things. For example, his crops always seem to get a quicker start and thus he gets the jump on weeds and insects in the spring and frosts in the fall. He usually makes a bigger profit than anyone else in the neighborhood."

"His secret of success is relatively simple. In addition to practicing sound farm management and selecting good seed, he is a firm believer in commercial fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, and he applies it in generous quantities."

His experience has demonstrated to him that fertilized crops are of better quality and higher yield. He has found, too, that both these qualities are dependent on a sustained supply of plant food."

Soil tests tell what fertilizers are most needed.

CHICAGO—"Growing crops are just like dairy cows. To produce their best they must be well fed," says an agricultural report.

"If the supply plant food is insufficient or depleted through years of continued cropping," says the report, "the crops are underfed and the farmer harvests an unprofitable yield. Poorly nourished plants, moreover, are more likely to be infested with certain fungus diseases than healthy ones."

"Fortunately the average farmer can take inventory of the fertility of his soil before spring planting time by means of tests which send agricultural colleges, experiment stations and county agents are glad to make. These tests will tell whether the soil is deficient in nitrogen, phosphorus and potash and what amounts of commercial fertilizer are required to restore the fertility of the soil, which leads to profitable crop production."

KENTUCKY PLAYING IMPORTANT ROLE IN JUNE DAIRY MONTH

New York, June 18—Kentucky is playing an important role in June Dairy Month as the state's annual milk production is valued at more than $17,000,000.

On January 1, there were 540,000 milk cows reported in Kentucky valued at $24,300,000," says the Milk Industry Foundation in a statement urging nation-wide support for the Dairy Month campaign. "Production in 1939 equalled $77,000,000 quarts."

"Kentucky is an important state to the dairy industry," the Foundation declared, "and this June program will benefit consumers by emphasizing the food value of milk and dairy products, and enable producers and distributors to promote increased demand for excess farm milk production."

"In addition to fluid milk which brings the farmer his highest price, Kentucky in 1939 produced 23,814,000 pounds of butter, 7,903,000 pounds of cheese, 1,776,000 gallons of ice cream, 62,068,000 pounds of canned milk."

"The 1938 milk was the third largest single source of farm cash income to the state topped only by tobacco and cattle. Milk was 32 per cent larger than cash farm income from hogs, 2 per cent larger than the combined income from lamb, chickens and eggs, 2 1/4 times greater, more than 3 times vegetables, fruits and nuts."

"Estimates for the nation as a whole show that milk production on farms this June will reach a new all-time peak. Last June farm milk production in the U. S. totaled 5,332,000,000 quarts of milk."

Young men who join the U. S. Army are assured a steady job, a steady income and a number of other advantages for at least three years, the period of enlistment. Recruits are now being sought.

FORECAST BEETLE INJURY TO TREES

May beetles will be abundant again this year in parts of the Bluegrass region of Kentucky, according to the Agricultural Experiment Station. Damage may be expected to oak, elm, birch and other trees. It is predicted that many oaks on farms will be stripped of their foliage. Trees in cities usually escape injury.

Injury to oak trees may be prevented by spraying them with lead arsenate at the rate of 4 pounds to 100 gallons of water. Where there is danger from livestock grazing beneath sprayed trees, it is suggested that the spray be washed from the grass with clear water, immediately after the spraying operation is completed.

Taking advantage of low purchase prices, several Jefferson county 4-H club members have bought registered swine.

100TH BIRTHDAY TO BE OBSERVED

NEW BETHEL CHURCH CONGREGATION TO CELEBRATE CENTENNIAL EVENT SUNDAY, JUNE 30TH.

Ceremonies in observance of the 100th anniversary of one of Kentucky's oldest churches will be presided over Sunday, June 30th by the youngest ordained minister in the Southern Baptist Conference.

New Bethel Baptist Church, of Verona, is to celebrate its organization in 1840. The service will be held in the old church building on the outskirts of Verona at 11 a. m. (slow time).

Rev. Harold Lee Davis, Jr., 21-year-old pastor of the historic church, is the youngest minister ever to serve it. Rev. O. J. Steger, pastor of the Southside Baptist Church, Covington, will deliver the sermon.

Luncheon is to be served on the church grounds. Speakers scheduled in the afternoon are Dr. H. C. Wayman, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Newport; Rev. Lewis C. Ray, pastor of the Latonia Baptist Church; and Rev. R. F. Demolsey, pastor of the Florence Baptist Church, who will read the church history.

The colorful history of New Bethel Baptist Church relates that it was organized Saturday, June 30, 1840, with 25 charter members from the Salem Baptist Church near Walton.

Minister and messengers from the Ten Mile, Popular Grove, Mt. Zion and New Salem Baptist Churches perfected the organization in the home of Zadok Stephenson, of Verona, which was then known as Stephenson's Settlement in Boone county.

The church then assumed its name, and the members worshipped in their private homes until a plot of ground was acquired and a church building erected.

Because of the growth of membership, a larger building was constructed on the same site in 1880. New Bethel members worshipped there until 1935 when they purchased the Verona Methodist Church building which had united with the Walton Methodist Church.

The old church, in which the centennial celebration will be held, is used only for funerals and special purposes.

Listed on the roster of pastors who have served the church since its organization are some of the most prominent figures in the Baptist denomination.

A total of 400 Baptists are now listed as members of New Bethel Church. It is a member of the North Bend Baptist Association, the General Association of Kentucky Baptist and the Southern Baptist Convention.

Nell Craig Ad's Second Operator

Nell Craig, operator of the Nell Craig Beauty Salon, located at 704 Dixie Highway, has announced this week the addition of another full time operator for the purpose of eliminating the necessity for appointments.

Miss Iona Dixon, of Corinth, Ky., a graduate of Manning's School of Beauty Culture of Louisville was selected to fill the position.

NEW OPERATOR'S LICENSES ON SALE

AT CIRCUIT COURT CLERK'S OFFICE—OLD 1939-40 LICENSE MUST BE TURNED IN BEFORE NEW LICENSE ARE ISSUED.

The new 1940-41 Operator's Licenses are now in the hands of the Circuit Court Clerk and persons who wish to do so may purchase their license.

The Clerk advises, that in order to obtain the 1940-41 license it is necessary that you turn in your 1939-40 license; that, if you are under 18 years of age it will be necessary that your parent or guardian be with you to sign for you; that persons who have never had a license obtain their new one only by buying the 1939-40 license for the remainder of this year and then turning them in and having them renewed and this may only be done on Monday of each week, as this is the only day upon which the Highway Patrol is in Burlington to conduct the examination; (there is no charge for the examination; that persons who have in past years had an Operator's License but did not renew them last year may turn in the license which they had and buy license for the remainder of this year and then have them renewed for 1940-41. In both instances where it is necessary to obtain the two license the cost is double.

The Clerk announced that it was his intention to visit various parts of the County as was done last year for the purpose of selling Operator's License and that this would probably be done during the month of July. If any persons who have any suggestions to make to improve this service will stop and talk to the Clerk or write him a letter it will be appreciated. The locations chosen last year, were for the most part, selected by the people in the communities or at least suggested by them. It is necessary that there be a telephone at the location and that the hours the place is kept open are near the same as those used by the Clerk.

R. E. A. Extensions Being Prepared

R. E. A. line extensions to the present line being constructed are being prepared on a total of approximately 25 miles of additional line, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. These extensions will be submitted by the R. E. A. for construction appropriations in the near future.

Those who will not be served by the present line and who wish R. E. A. service should act immediately. It is necessary to have three houses per mile signed and a right-of-way to the closest point of contact to the present line.

WILL BOONE COUNTY FAIL?

TO RAISE QUOTA FOR RELIEF OF PEOPLE IN WAR TORN COUNTRIES - SEND YOUR CONTRIBUTION TODAY.

It is only a little over two decades ago since thousands of our finest men died in hope that their deaths would erase war from the earth forever. In succeeding years the United States did everything in its power to keep the world at peace. Now, all our hopes lie shattered by the horrible and titanic war ravaging Europe.

Today is it too late to talk of appeasement, trade treaties, diplomatic conferences and embargoes. The people of these stricken nations—Holland, Belgium, France, England, Norway and Finland—cry for mercy—and mercy is all that counts.

Mercy is not a cheap commodity. Tears alone cannot buy it. Medicine costs money. Food costs money. Clothing costs money. Dollars, millions of dollars are needed, if the American Red Cross is to continue its labors of translating our sympathy into ease for the sick, shelter for the homeless, and clothing and food for the needy.

Hunger does not wait! Disease moves swiftly! Bombs bring horrible wounds! There is essential if we are to help—and yet Boone County has not responded enthusiastically to the call for mercy. Send your contribution at once to your own Boone County Chapter that we may reach our goal of $800,000 soon! Then both we and the miserable refugees receiving Red Cross help can say, "Thank God for America!"

Send your check or cash at once to Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman, Walton, Kentucky, or to the treasurer, Mr. C. L. Cropper, Burlington, Ky.

The following letter was received by Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman of the Boone County Chapter from National Headquarters, Washington, D. C.:

"While conditions for rendering relief may change, the policy of the American Red Cross remains the same. Cessation of hostilities in France does not diminish the terrible suffering and needs of refugees. We therefore intend to continue to extend all possible relief, but only upon condition that we have liberty of action and protection as to insure that our aid goes solely to those French men, women and children and refugees for whom it is intended. There are already great needs for American Red Cross assistance in England. These will doubtless increase in the near future. Our campaign for funds must go forward. I am confident that our people will continue to trust their Red Cross to do its best to relieve human suffering under the changing conditions of the world today."

"Wm. Carl Hunt, Acting Manager Eastern Area."

COOPERATIVES SUCCESSFUL

IN FORMER YEARS, ACCORDING TO REPORT—PRICE BOOST IN BURLEY OBTAINED THROUGH COOPERATIVE MARKETING.

The burley growers of Kentucky and surrounding territory did make, in years gone by two special and successful efforts to market their tobacco cooperatively. Both Cooperatives suspended operations but for reasons other than the vital considerations that touch the pocketbook.

First—The Lebus Pool of 1906 and 1907 with the 1908 enforced cut-out, did several things:

1. It demonstrated the practicability of the cooperative idea expressed mainly in commingling, setting a reasonable and uniform price on like grades and selling cooperatively.

2. It broke down the attitude of complete hostility of the manufacturers toward cooperative marketing.

3. It secured a price for the pooled tobacco that justified all the trouble encountered in setting up and administering the first burley cooperative. The tobacco of the 1906 crop that sold in 1908 for $15.00, the 1907 crop for which the manufacturers paid outside the pool, $7.00 per hundred pounds they bought in 1908 at $17.00.

4. It succeeded eventually in breaking up the monopoly of the American Tobacco Company.

Second—The Skone Pool, 1922 to 1927, record tells a very different story than we have heard and listened to, to our own undoing.

1. It taught us that production control is essential to the effective operation of a Cooperative. To allow the field to spread and production to increase without regard to consumption is suicidal.

2. W. J. Maddox, Farm Credit Administration, declares that the members of the pool received $13,000,000 more for their pool pounds of burley than they could have received under the old system.

3. It raised the average price that every grower received, whether in or out of the pool. If the average pool price of $20.23 had prevailed during the whole of the past 28 years, the growers would have added more than $100,000,000 to their income. If the average pool price of $20.23 had prevailed during the past ten years, $80 to 100, instead of the price they did get, $16.70 per hundred pounds, the growers would have had a higher income by $115,113,300.00. Think it over.

It revealed the fact that one important function of a Cooperative is to keep the members informed about and interested in their Association. Henry M. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, recently said "Any cooperative enterprise, to succeed, needs two things: One is honest and efficient management. The other is the constant, active, participation of a well informed and loyal membership. To make sure of the first, we must also have the second. The two make an unbeatable combination."

The interest of every thoughtful burley grower is urged. Write W. J. Clarke, Promotional Director, Owensboro, Kentucky for further information and watch your local paper for additional news.

BABY ATTACKED BY RABID DOG

BITTEN IN EYE AND MOUTH AT HOME ON BELLEVUE-BURLINGTON ROAD WEDNESDAY OF LAST WEEK.

Glady's Fields, 2-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Fields, of Burlington-Bellevue Road was attacked Wednesday afternoon of last week by a mad dog, and was bitten in the eye and mouth, according to a report of Dr. M. A. Yelton, attending physician.

Dr. Yelton stated the baby had been placed on the bed by its mother while she had gone to an outbuilding in the yard. Upon returning to the house she discovered the dog on the bed biting the baby's face. The dog was driven from the house and attempted to attack Mr. Fields who grabbed it by the neck. Fields tied the dog to a tree in a wooded area, then summoned Dr. Yelton.

The dog, a small fox terrier was killed and the head sent to the University of Kentucky for examination. Dr. Yelton immediately gave an anti-rabic treatment, and at this time the baby is reported to be convalescing nicely.

The following letter was received by Dr. Yelton from the University of Kentucky:

"Dr. M. A. Yelton
Burlington, (Boone County)
Kentucky
Gentlemen:

"Following is report of the bacteriological laboratory upon a dog head submitted by you for examination and received by bus June 20, 1940.

Lab. No. 131334. Re: Glady's Jane Fields, bitten in eye and mouth. Owner, not given.

"Examination—POSITIVE for rabies.

"Inasmuch as the examination of the brain indicates that this animal was infected with rabies or hydrophobia, anyone exposed to saliva through handling or feeding or from having been bitten within a period of ten days prior to the first symptoms, should take the Pasteur or anti-rabic treatment immediately to guard against contracting the disease.

"Note is made that the child is receiving anti-rabic treatment. We commend you on your good judgment in not waiting for laboratory report before instituting treatment in this case.

Yours very truly,
"Lincoln A. Brown,
Director, Department of Public Service Laboratories."

Dogs throughout this county should be observed closely. Dr. Yelton said and if at any time they should show any indication of rabies, should be placed in a pen and tied securely, and watched for further developments.

POOL WOOL SOLD BY SHEEPMEN

THIS WEEK—60,000 POUNDS DELIVERED MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY—$35.50 RECEIVED.

Boone County wool pool members delivered approximately 60,000 pounds of wool to L. S. Dinkelspiel Company of Louisville at Walton, Burlington and Petersburg on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, according to H. E. White, president of the pool. The exact number of pounds sold was not available at the time the paper went to press.

Walton received 23,658 pounds of wool on Monday. Approximately 22,000 pounds were received at Burlington and 15,000 pounds were expected at Petersburg. Clear wool brought growers $38.80 net per hundred pounds and rejection grades $33.80 per hundred. There were very few rejections and the average is expected to be well under five percent.

The crop gave one of the lowest yields per sheep that has been recorded in many years. The wool, however, was of extra good quality. The hard winter and heavy spring rains account for the low yield, according to many growers.

Growers were well pleased with the sale, the grading and the treatment rendered by the buyer. Mrs. William Greenup and daughter, of Union, spent Sunday with relatives here.

THE AMERICAN PRESS
"For Over Fifty Years"

JUSTLY PROUD

Do we fully realize why we celebrate the Fourth of July? Are our children wholly aware of the deep significance of this day? Consider well the importance of the American way of life that the Declaration of Independence gives us. We did not obtain all this peacefully but gained it through war and dedicating the new flag with American blood, blood of men who would die in order that their children might be free. And so there was born a nation of people who formed a republic based on the foundation of free speech, the right to make their own laws that govern them, to choose their religion as their conscience dictated. Those colonists who fought valiantly at Valley Forge and Lexington were led by love of liberty and freedom from oppression. They fought for a cause they believed right and there is no true American who questions that cause, who does not thrill to the lines of our Declaration of Independence, who would not sacrifice were the cup to pass to him. Today as we revere this Fourth, we are celebrating the sisterhood of states united in peace under the bonds of liberty, justice, brotherly love and patriotism. Those who live under the protection of this flag, who would undermine its meaning, who would change its government, who would subjugate its citizens to one-man rule, that man beware of the fury of a nation who honors its priceless heritage and who will not permit anyone to tamper with its hard fought freedom. That man beware of the ghosts of departed pioneers who placed on the map of the world, through life and blood, the name of the greatest nation in the universe.

IN THE WAKE

The papers following the observance of a national holiday are always crowded with disasters due to a careless celebration. They deal with traffic accidents and casualties from fireworks after the Fourth of July festivities. There can be one hopeful note sounded this year in regard to the holiday and that is of the many cities that have placed a ban against firecrackers. It is impossible to get a correct number of those who suffered injury due to fireworks last year, for many are the cases never appearing on the record. We do know that the nation's youth suffers at the hands of gun powder and the eyes lost, burns and lacerations received, fractured fingers, arms amputated, explosions resulting in outright deaths, all tend to dim the glory of the Fourth which should not suffer at our hands.

The auto accidents of other holidays pile up such a total that many people refrain from driving at this time. They prefer to stay home than to run the risk of holiday accidents in traffic. Take your time, Boone County drivers, for you will get to your destination all in one piece. If you do a bit of imbibing save your partying after you reach your destination. Let not the happiness of anyone be ruined by your selfishness and carelessness.

TELL US

This is a personal note from your editor which we issue at about this time each year, asking for your cooperation in helping us with the summer's printing. We know that you will give us consideration as you realize your travels, guests and entertaining as well as other items of local interest. A refreshing bit to our readers. The editor is always willing and happy to be stopped on the street to jot down any bit of news. Large papers who employ a staff of news gatherers are papers no more eagerly read by folks than are we right here in Boone County. People want their hometown papers and they are naturally interested in news of their hometown friends. Tell them through us and your reward is in making this paper better reading and this is worth something to you.

AN OPEN SEASON

The government sends a piece of literature dealing with a subject of importance to the well-being of all of us. We are advised to pass the word to housewives of Boone County to do their best to rid surroundings of summer's pest, the housefly. Science has shown us the ill that follow in the path of the fly and science has given us various ways of eradicating the menace through poisons. Simpler means and one especially most commonly used is the old standby, fly paper. But however, try to eliminate the very drawing of flies by keeping refuse and garbage containers away from the living quarters. Burn everything possible in order to safeguard the health of your family and neighbors. Screen your doors and windows well. A fly is small but he is capable of instigating a manifold epidemic.

THEY WATCH THIS

Uncle Sam warns the farmer of the danger that exists for him during June, July and August. This is combustion time and estimated that eight of every ten hay fires come during these three months. The majority of these fires occur in alfalfa, clover and soybean hays. Our farmers will keep their eyes on their storage bins. They will sense offensive odors. These men are wise in the ways of agriculture and they know too well the importance of guarding the source of their Uncle Samuel's greatest wealth. The farmers we know are always on their toes in caring for their homes and barns, land and crops, their stock and poultry. But we pass on this warning for what might suffice as a gentle reminder of combustion months.

Mrs. Clarence Jones spends a portion of each week at the home of her mother in Ludlow, who is very ill.

The difference between gossip and idle chatter, lies in whether you are telling or listening.

JONAH: THE OUTREACH OF GOD'S LOVE

LESSON TEXT: Jonah 3:1-10; 4:10, 11.
GOLDEN TEXT: Salvation is of the Lord. Jonah 2:9.

"There's a wisdom in God's mercy like the wisdom of the sea. There's a kindness in His justice like the kindness of the sky. 'For the love of God is broader than the measure of man's mind; And the heart of the Eternal, is most wonderfully kind.'"

Such is the message of the book of Jonah. How appropriate it is to close the year with a study of the prophets with this declaration of God's love and mercy. I. A Second Chance (3:1-3). Jonah had been sent to Nineveh to preach the word of God. He was not secretly wishing in his heart that this great city which was the enemy of Israel should be destroyed rather than repent and receive God's blessing (see 4:2). Jonah made an attempt to run away from God's commission. We know how God patiently dealt with him and now gave him a second chance to do His will. How glorious it is "to continue to us . . . the privilege of service even when we seem to have sinned away our first chance, misused our endowments, and have by our very failure embarrassed His plans." Dr. J. Stuart Holden goes on to point out that only God gives a second chance. Nature does not; man seldom; if ever, gives his fellow who has failed a second opportunity. But God does. Praise His name!

There was also a second chance given to the man who was unwilling to bring judgment upon the city without another warning. Quoting Dr. Holden again: "I care not what is the history of failure, of shame, of sin which is behind you, and that everything depends upon your attitude of acceptance or rejection of His proffered grace and mercy."

II. A Stirring Revival (3:4-10). So great was the city that it would have taken Jonah three days to bring his message to the entire population (see v. 3). He had only begun when, at the end of the first day, the city from the ruler down to the humblest inhabitant, was in deep mourning and repentance for its sin.

Jonah, the man who had been brought back from a living death as a sign (Luke 11:23-32) to Nineveh that God was gracious to repentant sinners, pointed to the fact that though his message was of condemnation (v. 4), they might expect God to be entreated of them (v. 9). He was (v. 10).

God has sent times of revival and when whole nations have been turned from their sin. Such revivals have been occurring in recent years in various mission fields. Thousands of earnest Christians are praying now that such a revival may come again in our own land. The writer knows where helpful literature along this line is available without cost. Let us pray and be faithful, and trust God to bring revival to the hearts of men.

III. A Selfish Reaction (4:1-10). Jonah, instead of rejoicing in the repentance of Nineveh, showed his narrowness and selfishness by becoming angry (see 4:1). How petty and childish are the attitudes of men when contrasted with the mercy of God.

The Lord, dealing gently with Jonah, gave him a place of refuge and a gourd plant to shade him from the sun (4:5, 6). Then, to teach him a lesson, a worm was permitted to eat the gourd (v. 7). When Jonah was greatly concerned over the loss of the plant, God pointed out to him that it is wrong to be stirred up over the passing of material comfort and not to be concerned for the souls of men.

How many of those who poured out millions of dollars (and rightly so) for the relief of the harassed people of Finland, would give five cents to win them to Christ? Many who will give liberally of money, time and effort to the commendable work of food or famine relief, will not so much as cross the road to talk to a neighbor about Christ. A farmer will at all times be ready to care for a sick cow, but will spend an hour or two on Sunday or some evening of the week in an effort to win his neighbor's boy (or his own boy) to Christ? These are pertinent and serious questions. What is our answer? God will hold us responsible.

A Prayer
O God, Who hast given to us the knowledge of right and wrong, and hast taught us that it is Thy will that we choose the right throughout our lives, give us grace to be loyal to the right as we see it, and faithful to the highest we know. Amen.

We are in the midst of balls in this section, namely, golf, base, tennis and moth.

TABLE MATS

A subscriber has suggested this way of using left-over pieces of cellophane from gift wrappings or food wrappings. Cut the paper into strips about three inches wide and braid them as you would for a rag rug. Sow together with thread in the shape you desire. These mats can be cleaned with a damp cloth. They make delightful summer coverings.

BEEF AND DAIRY CATTLESHOW WILL BE STATE*FAIR'S LARGEST

Louisville, Ky., June 24—Housed in bright, shiny new barns, the glamour boys and girls of the Kentucky State Fair, those hefty but coy creatures known as Beef and Dairy Cattle, will put on one of the fair's biggest shows. Dates for the engagement are September 9th to 14th. Place is the Fairgrounds in Louisville.

Having a major part in the revitalized fair program, this department boasts of one of the largest entry lists in its entire history. Included in the competition this year will be many of the Nation's leading money winners in the Jersey and Hereford shows as well as top ranking animals of all other breeds of Beef and Dairy Cattle.

Entirely new at the 1940 Fair will be the offering of extra awards to two Kentucky classes—one for Herefords and one for Guernseys. These will be in addition to other Kentucky classes which have been a part of the program heretofore.

The eleven new barns which will house these fine show herds are the latest and most modern in design and were planned after exhaustive research. They have the aid of leading exhibitors. Some of the barns will have a shower rack, shower for the grooms and an office, electric lights and attachments for fans will be among the many features of these new buildings.

Discussing the new plans for the Beef and Dairy Cattle Departments, Robert B. Jewell, Manager of the State Fair, said: "Fairs and Expositions are the show windows of the livestock industry, they are the milestones that mark the progress of a nation, and the only way we can gauge our progress is by comparison at our Fairs and Expositions."

Another added feature for this department this year will be two more Kentucky classes for the Future Farmers of America, one for Guernseys and the other for Jerseys. These are just a few of the items on the gigantic list of improvements and additions that will be made at the new 1940 Kentucky State Fair.

LARGE PIKE IS CAUGHT IN ROCKCASTLE RIVER

Word has been received by the Division of Game and Fish that Johnnie Cromer, London, Ky., recently caught a big wall-eyed pike from Rockcastle river, near the old Sublimity Springs, Laurel County. The fish was thirty-two and a quarter inches long, and weighed eleven pounds and one ounce. Johnnie is not what one would call a professional fisherman, but had borrowed a hook and line which he cast into the water while other anglers set a trot line. And what a cast!

Many a fellow has been resting up all year to take two weeks vacation this summer.

RABBIT HASH HOMEMAKERS

The Rabbit Hash Homemakers' Club met at the Lumber Co., at Rising Sun, Ind., Thursday, June 20th for the making of Kitchen Gadgets. There were eight present, and under the instructions of Mrs. Opal Kelly, the leader, quite a number of useful kitchen gadgets were made, such as movable shelves, wall cabinets, files for lids, partitions for drawers, cutlery racks and several other things. Everyone had an enjoyable day as the day was an ideal one for work and pleasure.

At the noon hour lunch was eaten at the Ideal Restaurant.

Due to the courtesy of our efficient ferryman, Raymond Bedgood, the business session of the club was held in the cabin of one of his boats.

On July 9th the club will hold a canning demonstration at the home of Mrs. Mary Wilson in the morning and in the afternoon will go on a garden tour.

Mrs. Orville Hensley was made a new member of the club.

Those present were Mrs. Opal Kelly, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Mrs. Ida Mae Ryle, Mrs. Adah Wilson, Miss Brenda Crocker, Miss Anna Marie Ryle, Mrs. Marie Hensley and Mrs. Minnette Stephens.

149 BOYS AND GIRLSATTEND JUNIOR WEEK

The 20th annual Junior Week held at the University of Kentucky, attracted 749 members of 4-H clubs in 111 counties.

New officers of the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs, elected during the week, are Elmer McBride, Barren county, president; Mildred Ray, Garrard county, vice-president, and Lydia Mae Sutherland, Graves county, secretary.

Warren county furnished the champion team in the demonstration of farm practices and also in the demonstration of dairy production. The members of the team are Howard Pearson and Marion Floyd. Gleah Polley, and

Helen Owens of Pike county won the home economics demonstration contest. In demonstrating the preparation of dairy foods, Nell Tyson and Louise Knight of Hopkins county were first. MANY USES

The left-over cold cream jars are mighty useful as containers for picnic baskets. Scald them well before using them for food. Also, they serve a useful purpose as ice-box dishes as their lids fit tightly. Again, if you are a bit artistic you can paint small bouquets on their sides, enamel the tops, and use in sets on the dresser for pins and hair-ends.

IN LOVING MEMORY
Of my sister Laura Porter Huey, who died 3 years ago today, July 1, 1937.

Beyond Life's Gateway
There is an open gate
At the end of the road,
Through which each must go alone,
And there in a light we cannot see,
Our Father claims his own.

Beyond the gate our loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought,
That a loving God knows best.

Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where its loveliness never dies,
She lives in a land of Glory,
Beneath the blue and the gold of the skies.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence White,
Junior and Ray.

Squirrel Season Will Not Open Until Aug. 15

Frankfort, Ky., June 25—The open season on squirrels does not open on July 1st this year, Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated today in again warning the hunters not to seek out the "bushy tailed" animals until the hunting seasons opens on August 15th. Many inquiries from every section of the state have been directed to the Division office here concerning the new season on squirrels.

rels and for that reason news items are being sent to every newspaper in the state in order that all persons may be informed as to the change.

If any hunter is in doubt about the opening date of the squirrel season, he or she can just stay-out of the woods until August 15 and be safe. Major Brown warned that any person caught hunting squirrels before August 15 would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, which means either a fine or jail sentence.

BIG INCREASE IN BLUEGRASS SHEEP

There are four times as many sheep in the Central Bluegrass counties of Kentucky as there were in 1879, says the annual report of the Agricultural Experiment Station, in a review of Kentucky farming systems. The number of hogs has decreased, along with the lower corn acreage, while tobacco and hay acreages are higher.

A study of farms in magisterial district 2 in Woodford county, which is considered a typical district, showed a total of 114 farm operating units. The acreage per farm ranged from 5 to 974. Nine percent of these farms were under 25 acres, 20 percent ranged from 25 to 75 acres, 12 percent from 75 to 125 acres, 17 percent from 125 to 175 acres, 10 percent from 175 to 225 acres, 9 percent from 225 to 275 acres, 8 percent from 275 to 325 acres, and 15 percent from 325 to 974 acres.

About two-thirds of the farms were owner-operated, while one-third were handled by operating tenants. Farms under 175 acres were about equally divided between owner operators and operating tenants.

The champion sold for 35 cents a pound, and the other two in the champion pen brought 15 cents. Prime lambs in the show averaged 13½ cents; choice, 12½; medium, 11 and common 8½ cents.

Lamb from Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky were exhibited. William Cameron, Henderson county, Kentucky, won first prize on his 4-H club record book.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Oscar Carrier of Grayson county made a net profit of $96.78 from the production of 332 early broilers. Grayson county hatcheries report an increase of 10 percent in number of chicks hatched, over last year.

Red clover is being re-established in Owsley county through use of lime and phosphate. To build land rapidly, some farmers cut a hay crop, turn under the second crop and follow with a heavy cover crop.

The county agent, Farm Bureau and Franklin Chamber of Commerce cooperated in launching a sheep improvement program in Simpson county. One hundred and three farmers attending a banquet were told that the county should have 8,000 to 10,000 sheep.

J. C. Mattingly fished in 110 rat tails and won first prize during a Washington county rat campaign. Poison was used on about 1,000 farms or places in town, and it is estimated that 5,000 rats were destroyed in Springfield and the county.

A homemakers' club home beautification program in Henry county brought the following results: trees planted, 129; roses set, 262; shrubs set, 251; flower seed sown, 105 packages; yards cleaned, including removal of old buildings, 45.

Eighteen farmers in Bell county, owning a total of 6,150 acres of forest, are members of the Gatlin Forest Fire Protective Association.

Eighteen coal companies, with a total of 28,910 acres, also are members.

FARMERS APPROVE OF HYBRID CORN

Marshall county, Kentucky, farmers who grew hybrid corn last year were so pleased with yields that they vastly increased acreages this season. O. E. Peters, who grew five acres last year, this year planted his entire crop of 100 acres to hybrid varieties.

E. T. Inman, also of Marshall county, harvested two tons of hay to the acre at the first cutting of five acres of alfalfa seeded last August. Limestone, phosphate and manure were used on the land. As the field is on the highway, many farmers have seen it this spring.

County Agent H. E. Rothwell reports.

FARM STUDY SHOWS FEED REQUIREMENT

Studies of 127 farms, made by representatives of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, indicate that a herd of 10 beef cows, producing fat calves averaging about 500 pounds each, requires in a year about 120 bushels of corn, 14 tons of clover or lespedeza hay, 5 tons of corn fodder and 25 to 35 acres of pasture. The labor needed amounts to about 120 man hours per year.

A drove of light feeder cattle, producing a gain of about 300 pounds each, requires about 300 bushels of corn, 6 tons of legume hay, 12 tons of corn fodder and 40 to 50 acres of pasture. The man labor necessary amounts to about 640 hours per year.

A herd of dairy cows, producing an average of 6,000 pounds of milk each a year, in a year requires about 160 bushels of corn, 1,000 pounds of cottonseed meal or its equivalent, 20 tons of legume hay, 25 to 35 acres of pasture and 2½ tons of straw for bedding. The man labor needed amounts to the equivalent of 135 to 150 ten-hour days, or about half the time of one man a year.

A flock of 25 ewes requires about 7 bushels of corn, 20 bushels of oats, 2½ tons of alfalfa or other good legume hay, and 15 to 20 acres of pasture. About 160 hours of man labor a year are needed but the major portion of this work occurs in winter when other farm work is not urgent.

PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less than normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts, and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must become the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that, long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long, thin, shoes, and vice versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The firm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accentuated in some significant degree as for example the BUNION. Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolism or growth activity of the foot is interfered with. The attempts of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailment grows and becomes pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

BURLEY GROWERS

FACE THE FACTS

The greatly concerned growers of burley tobacco are coming to realize more and more every day that they are confronted in 1940 with an array of significant and thought provoking facts. There is set out here only a few, but enough to convince every thoughtful grower that he must become a member of the newly organized Cooperative Association of Burley Producers in order to lend his help in solving the problems these facts present and to secure the personal increase in net income the wisely managed cooperative marketing of tobacco will certainly bring.

Facts To Face

1. The growers of burley tobacco, doing an annual business of about $70,000,000 have an official, self-owned and self-controlled, organization to represent, protect and promote their interests in this highly speculative and readily manipulated business.

2. In the years 1937, 1938, 1939 the annual production of tobacco ranged from 350,000,000 pounds with a supply of one billion or more pounds on hand, and an annual disappearance of 300,000,000 to 330,000,000 pounds, resulting in the building up of stock in 1940 to the second highest point in the history of burley tobacco. The price record was: 1937, $20.00; 1938 $19.00; 1939, 17.50 per hundred pounds.

On the 1939-1940 loose leaf market the better grades were off $3.00 to $6.00 per hundred pound and lower grades from $1.75 to $4.00, resulting from higher production (30,000,000 lbs. above estimates), overcrowding the re-drying facilities by heavier marketings, and an excessive supply of Carolina substitute for some lighter types of burley tobacco.

3. The field of production spread from eight States in 1920 to sixteen States in 1939. Further spread is preventable only by continued Government control.

4. There is an annually increasing investment in warehouses etc. by private capital, and a gradual increase in handling and selling costs.

5. The ultimate suspension of earlier burley tobacco associations thru the spread of the field, lack of right valuation and application of the cooperative principle, and minimizing the law of supply and demand in relation to price.

6. The members of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association permitted it to suspend operations in 1928 in spite of the fact, as set out by W. J. Maddox of the National Farm Credit Administration, that "In the six years (1922-1927) the co-op had received and sold more than a billion pounds of tobacco which had brought to the members a sum conservatively estimated in excess of $13,000,000 more than they would have received under the old system."

7. With an annual production of 325,000,000 pounds of burley tobacco from 100,000 farms, an increase of only one cent per pound in price thru cooperative marketing would mean an extra income of $3,250,000.00 or $32.50 per farm—a big dividend on a $5.00 membership fee.

8. The setting up of an efficient cooperative association necessarily incurs considerable expense and must be financed through the funds provided by the nominal membership fee of $5.00. With reasonable cooperation from the thoughtfully informed growers, 10 to 20 percent of this fee should meet all promotional expense, leaving 80 to 90 percent to set up the marketing equipment this fall.

When interested, write W. J. Clarke, Promotional Director, of Owenton, Ky., for further information and watch your paper for additional news.

TERRACING TO CONTROL WATER EROSION URGED

Farmers cooperating in the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program are being urged through county and community committees to increase the construction of terraces this year as a step in diminishing losses of soil fertility from water erosion, the state office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has announced.

Surveys indicate that water erosion is the greatest single cause of loss of fertility from Kentucky soils. Estimates for the Nation show that water erosion removes 20 times as large a quantity of plant foods as crops remove, and the loss in Kentucky is high since most of the cropland is rolling and much of it is poorly protected by cover crops.

Information issued to county committees of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration points out that terraces may be used to control erosion on productive soil and as a first step in restoring gullied and infertile soil to productive condition.

According to agricultural engineers terracing is advisable on slopes having an average drop of 12 feet to each hundred feet of horizontal distance if the soil is subject to sheet erosion or gullying at any time and if it hasn't been damaged too much already. It is pointed out, however, that terracing should not be attempted by the farmer until he has obtained information on terracing requirements from his local Agricultural Conservation Association office or from the county agent.

The 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program provides one unit of federal credit for each 200 linear feet of properly constructed terrace, which is one of the most effective means of controlling erosion.

Farmers in 38 counties built 555-900 feet of these erosion control terraces in cooperation with the 1939 Agricultural Conservation program.

SALVATION ARMY

APPEALS FOR WAR FUNDS

Salvation Army workers who are giving assistance to refugees in the war-torn countries of Europe, today appealed for funds to help them continue their work among the women and children.

Since the beginning of the war, Army lassies have been preparing meals, cooking doughnuts, and all the other tasks which they have to do in the front-line battlefields. All Salvation Army buildings in Belgium, France, and Holland are being used as hotels and restaurants, giving sleeping accommodations to countless thousands. Many hundreds of children have been separated from their parents and the Army has undertaken the feeding, clothing and sheltering of the homeless.

From countries already in the war, the Army has sent fifteen contingents of officers and workers for war work. Many of these groups consisted of at least three hundred lassies at one time.

During the invasion of the low-land countries, Army officials in charge of the work were offered safe transportation out of the country. Without exception, all officers stayed to lend aid and assistance to the refugees. The first casualties in Amsterdam, Holland were treated at the hospital set up at the Training College in that country.

Colonel Mary Booth, who is the Territorial Commander for Belgium, cabled to the Army General as follows: "I have tried to get into touch with you but have failed. As far as I know all Officers are well, but I have not heard from them all. Communications are very difficult. We are doing all we can to cope with the tragic situation. We are caring for hundreds of homeless and refugees. There is great suffering and distress. I wish you could send officers to help but I fear that is impossible. I hope some financial help will be forthcoming. Count on us doing all we can to keep the flag flying. God has wonderfully sustained us."

The biggest difference between yesterday's youth and today's is that yesterday's youth asked for a nickel.

TONIGHT and FRIDAY

Sparkling with originality and an engrossing down-to-earth treatment of its motivating romance, "Primrose Path," proves once more that Ginger Rogers is one of our finest dramatic actresses, and that few can touch Joel McCrea for robust and likeable hemannishness on the screen.

The two favorites are co-starred in this absorbing and sympathetic story of a girl who disowned her dissolute family and of a boy who didn't know what real love was until he lost it. Hungry for affection, the girl meets a young man who runs a hamburger stand and marries him without letting him know the ugly truth about her parents and her home.

Their brief happiness is shattered when the girl, aware that her husband will learn the facts for himself sooner or later, brings the boy and the family together. See this picture.

The conflict of hurt pride with their very real need for one another makes for the taut drama of

SATURDAY

Guns roar a romance of the early, lawless West out where they settled arguments with bullets. Charles Sarrett, the ace of the range, smashing across thrill after thrill in a lead-slinging saga of the untamed plains! Bad men thirsted for his life and cow-boys hungered for his song.

Charles Sarrett is starred in Columbia's "Bullets for Rustlers," a thrilling melody of melody, romance and action set against the spectacular background of the Old West.

SUNDAY and MONDAY

When Jane Withers and Gene Autry teamed up in "Shooting High," the current 20th Century-Fox offering, a double quota of fast-moving entertainment resulted.

Jane and Gene ride, shoot and sing their way through this picture in a manner that will delight all their old friends and win them many new ones.

"Shooting High" boasts five tuneful melodies, two of which Gene sings alone. Jane and Gene get together in two numbers, "Shanty of Dreams" and "Wanders," while Jane has one rollicking melody all to herself.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, JULY 2ND and 3RD

In "The Story of Forty Little Mothers," which will be shown at the Gayety, Eddie Cantor, the Clown Prince of Gags, discards his mantle of humor to emerge as a real human being in one of the most entertaining pictures of the year, providing a combination of comedy, pathos and drama that blends into what is in appearance of Judith Anderson, celebrated Broadway stage star, as Madam Granville, head of the school. Miss Anderson acquires herself as if she had been in pictures all of her life.

Rita Johnson plays the unfortunate mother and delivers a fine performance.

On Sunday, September 8th, the Louisville Kennel Club will sponsor an all-day Dog Show. More than 500 dogs are expected to be shown this year. On the same day the Dahlia Show and Florists classes will open for inspection. School gardens will be on display Tuesday and Wednesday the Federation of Women's Clubs and the amateurs will vie for honors. The Homemakers classes and the Dahlia Sweepstakes, the latter consisting of 100-150 blooms per table, will be decided upon on Thursday.

A huge new thrill show and rodeo will be presented at the Grandstand under direction of Cliff Gatewood who announced that practically all of the acts he will bring have not been shown in Louisville before.

New plans for the Midway are completed and include rides, acrobats, specialties, sideshows and concessions that are the latest the amusement world has to offer. It is here that gayety and fun will be dispensed by the ton, according to Fair officials.

In the Beef and Dairy Cattle Department a new class for Guernseys has been installed and exceptionally keen interest is being shown by the entries being received in the Sheep and Swine, Mules and Jacks and other departments.

Additional trophies this year will be given for the best utility and the best dairy bird in the pigeon class. Other divisions of the Poultry Department are expected to have an increase.

A larger number of Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club boys and girls are to be on hand for the State Fair, leaders of these groups said. Tentative plans call for contests to find the healthiest boy and girl in these groups and a search for the State's prettiest farm girl.

The Baby Health Contest will bring to the attention of the Nation some of Kentucky's finest youngsters. Many of the mothers who have babies in this contest once were participants in this same contest.

One thousand dollars will be expended for a complete new sanitary control system and emphasis will be placed on clean rest rooms with courteous attendants in charge.

One of the showplaces at the Fair will be the Kentucky Log House, which this year will be presided over by Mrs. W. T. Lafferty, of Lexington, Ky. On Thursday of the Fair a reception will be held here for Governor Keen Johnson and Mrs. Johnson. Ceremonies will be broadcast over several radio stations.

As a part of the new revitalized program, and in order that there will be something for everyone, there will be two or more National-known dance bands for those who like good music and dancing. Also, the dance pavilion will be covered at a cost of several thousand dollars.

REA PLANS TO ENERGIZE LINE

THIS WEEK, ACCORDING TO INFORMATION RECEIVED HERE—SOUTHERN SECTION OF COUNTY TO BE SERVED.

The R. E. A. line in the south section of the County will be energized this week, according to information at the County Agent's office. The remainder of the line is expected to be energized inside the next three weeks.

The securing of new extensions is an important problem confronting those who are not now served with electricity. Those who want electric and can secure the necessary three users or customers per sign-up form and get busy immediately meeting requirements for line construction. Quite a number of extension sign-ups from various sections of the county have already been completed so far as preliminary field work is necessary in filing allotment applications.

Information on allotment requirements can be secured from Chester Roland, R. E. A. Manager, Owensboro, Ky.; Rev. Will Smith, County R. E. A. sign-up chairman of the County Agent's office.

It should be kept in mind that there are no paid solicitors for R. E. A. service. Extensions should be worked up only where people are interested. Those who may be working locally are doing so on their own time and expense. If you are interested in securing electricity, work with your local committee.

PETERSBURG WINS OVER BELLEVUE

SATURDAY BY SCORE OF 11-7—BIG BONE IN THIRD POSITION WITH BURLINGTON A CLOSE FOURTH.

As a result of a five-game winning streak the Petersburg baseball team has gone into a tie for first place with Bellevue in the Boone County baseball league. Two successive defeats for Bellevue by Burlington and Petersburg helped to tighten the race.

Last Saturday the greatly improved Petersburg team slugged out a 11-7 victory over Bellevue. Hebron, behind the superb pitching of E. Turner, defeated Big Bone 9 to 1. Burlington won their game with the last place Sand Run nine by an 8 to 4 count.

In the Burlington-Sand Run game Alkin, local moundsman, toyed with the tall enders, allowing only five hits until the eighth inning. Two errors, a walk and a two base slow accounted for the losers late rally. Shinkle, Sand Run pitcher, showed an assortment and with a little better support would be one of the ranking young pitchers of the county.

ANNUAL PICNIC PLANS COMPLETE

FLORENCE VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT WILL HOLD FIFTH ANNUAL PICNIC AND DANCE, JULY 12-13.

Officials and members of the Florence Volunteer Fire Department, have completed plans for their fifth annual picnic and dance which will be held at Zimmer Garden's Florence, Friday and Saturday, July 12th and 13th.

The first day of the entertainment will be devoted entirely to the picnic. Concessions of all kinds will be enjoyed by those attending, and everything in the entertainment line will be on the grounds.

Saturday will be devoted to the picnic and dance. An orchestra well known to greater Cincinnati will furnish the music for those who like to dance both old and new steps. Officials of the entertainment committee claim that this will be one of the most entertaining events in the history of the department.

One year ago the department purchased a new pump, one that is capable of caring for any emergency, and is modern in every respect. The department displayed the new pump at the last annual picnic, and those visiting the picnic, praised the department for the wonderful progress made in equipping the firemen.

Much progress has been made by the Florence Volunteer Fire department in the past few years, and each year the department has sponsored a picnic and dance to help finance the department's activities. All surrounding territory is greatly benefited by the new equipment of this town and should do their part toward maintaining this organization. Let's all go out and help these boys to have even a better department than at present.

ANALYSIS REPORT RECEIVED HERE

BUSINESS ANALYSIS BASED ON RELATIVE RETURNS FROM FARM ENTERPRISES IN COMPARISON WITH OTHERS.

Sixteen Boone County farmers cooperating in the Kentucky farm account project received personal farm business analysis service the past week, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

The business analysis was based on relative returns from farm enterprises in comparison with other farms conducting similar types of businesses. Forty farms of Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties were included in the study.

The summary of the analysis shows that the high farm made a net profit of $2,509.00 while the low farm showed a net loss of $1,490.00. The year of 1939 was not as prosperous as 1938 for most farms studied in Kenton, Boone and Campbell counties. For thirty-five farms in 1939 the average "net earnings" were $728.00 per farm while in 1938 the "net earnings" were $919.00 per farm. The thirty-five farms used in this summary in 1939 had an average investment of $11,524 per farm on which 8.5 per cent was earned.

Dairying furnished the largest part of the income for 26 of the 40 farms summarized. Of the remaining 14 farms the principal source of income was truck and fruit on five farms, tobacco on five farms, poultry on three farms and hogs on one farm.

Because of the differences in types of farming followed and size the summaries were grouped in three classifications: (1) "Dairy Speciality" farms. The farmers in this group received 40 per cent or more of their gross income from dairy cattle. There are 11 farms in this group; (2) "Truck, Fruit and Dairy" farms. The nine farmers in this group obtained most of their income from the above crops and dairying. These farms are characterized by smaller than other farms in these counties. The operators of these farms take their products to the Cincinnati fruit and vegetable market; (3) "General" farms. The 15 farmers in this group follow a more diversified type of farming which is predominately tobacco, dairy, and of a lesser degree poultry, hogs and sheep.

Five farms in these counties were not used in the analysis because their type of farming was different from the other.

Thirty-five of the forty farms received a substantial part of the income from dairying. Twelve farmers had dairy receipts above $100.00 per cow.

The 12 farmers with dairy receipts above $100.00 per cow, all sold whole milk. The group of 12 farmers receiving $75.00 to $99.00 per cow had 9 selling whole milk, one selling cream and two selling cream and whole milk. The group of 11 farmers receiving under $75 per cow had four farmers selling whole milk, five selling cream and two using a 11 the dairy products for home consumption. The farmers selling whole milk are in a more favorable position for receiving more cash income per cow. As can be seen from the above table, the farmers obtaining the highest income per cow have considerable more productive cows. Also note that the group obtaining over $100.00 per cow had cows valued at $63.00 each while the cows in the other groups were valued at $48.00 each.

Recommendations

(1) Strive for higher milk production, by feeding a balanced ration, by rigid culling of the low producers, and replacing with high producers and by improving pastures.

(2) Increase the number of cows per farm whenever market, feed, and pasture will permit.

(3) Do not leave cultivated land without a cover crop over winter.

(4) Establish and follow a program of soil improvement. The greater the productivity of a farm, the greater its potential earning power.

(5) These farms should produce more feedstuffs thus enabling them to low the annual cost of purchased feed.

(6) Obtain higher income per acre of truck and fruit.

(7) Have as many intensive enterprises as labor and the carrying capacity of the farm will permit.

(8) Try to produce a much larger future for the home use of the garden and available livestock products puts the farmer in a very favorable position for obtaining a living from the farm. Every farmer should have a garden with a variety of vegetables at different seasons of the year.

Prices for dairy products, poultry products and truck crops were lower in 1939 than in 1938. Tobacco and sheep maintained profitable levels. Consequently, the "General" farmer obtained the highest net earnings in 1939.

Tax Rate Increased By Erlanger Board

The Erlanger Board of Trustees, meeting Friday night, increased the tax rate for the City of Erlanger from 75 cents to $1.00 on $100 property valuation. The tax was due Monday of this week.

The increase was voted to provide a sinking fund to pay for the $40,000 sewer bond issue passed by the voters of Erlanger at the last election.

An ordinance granting a 3 per cent discount on tax bills paid in July and 2 per cent discount on bills paid in August was passed by the Board.

FARMERS' NEEDS ARE IMPERATIVE

SAYS W. J. CLARKE, PROMOTIONAL DIRECTOR OF COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION OF BURLY PRODUCERS.

Every one familiar with the problems of the burley growers in relation to the handling and marketing of their product, realizes that the needs are many and imperative and can be met only thru such a cooperative organization as the Cooperative Association of Burley Producers, now being presented to the growers for their approval and enlistment as members. The Constitution, By-Laws and Marketing Agreement of this Association are all fitted to the present circumstances, conditions and needs of the burley situation.

Among the many considerations that prompted the incorporating of this new Association the following "needs" were definitely in mind.

1. The need of an established Association to truly represent and protect the interests of burley growers in their relations with Federal Government Agencies, the Tobacco Manufacturing Interests, the handlers and buyers of this product. A $700,000.00 business that ought to be in the $100,000.00 class is now without any personal leadership.

2. The need of Association managed facilities for handling and selling the tobacco produced by its members in the most economical way and with highest net returns to the growers. The plan suggested in the Marketing Agreement contemplates offering in seasonal competition all the tobacco delivered to the Association, in green order, carefully graded by Government graders, and commingled on grades from crop to crop, day to day and period to period; and to level up from season to season the average price received. This can and should be done so that the growers would receive a uniform price for like grades through the proper angle have decided, after much massaging of arms, backs, etc., to engage the local baseball nine in combat on the Burlington field at 10 a. m. Thursday, July 4.

These old patriars will be led by none other than the incomparable, unarmored, unarmed, brave who will be on the mound after a thirty-year rest. Other stellar lights that will be seen hobnobbing about are, Benson, our County Clerk, (who, if his luck holds out might be able to last one inning); Flash Tolin, whose speed on bases is something to gaze upon; Buckley Cline, who will be required to wear a dark cap if the sun is bright; Hal Hawk Jake Smith, who roamed the center-field pasture in the gay nineties; Sluggo Hub White, who makes a pregame statement that he can catch them if he doesn't have to move to either side, front or rear.

Others too numerous to mention will be arrayed against the young bunch of whippersnappers who represent Burlington. So if you want to enjoy laughs and hear cracks, groans, etc., come out and root for the old boys.

JOIN IN!

There returns, after twenty years and more, the universal call of hurried needles, the snipping of scissors, the folding of hundreds of patterns, the cutting of threads, the sound of the sewing machine and the buzz of group conversation, as the double crochet and the knit two sweeps across the nation. Millions of hands of the land take up the sword of charity in war by each doing a bit for the cause of the refugees of the war-torn world. The appeal for funds made by the Red Cross was, and is, contributed to by all good citizens. The subscribing of money alone is not the only plea that comes from the American Red Cross, as they seek willing hands to do the work of gauze work, knitting and crocheting for the sufferers. Women from far and wide, as women have always done, give many hours to aiding in any way possible. Many cannot give money but few are those who will not sacrifice a week for the sake of a human being who needs their help.

The organization of the Red Cross is too large and wide-spread in exerting helpful influence to be without a humane foundation. There are criticisms by some of instances of unwise policies and this is to be found any place where there are so many nationalities and personalities affected by such service. The good that it does, the lives that it helps is worth our cooperation in furthering its work. The women of Boone County will give their time, as much as they possibly can, to meeting in labor of hands, for the assistance of their fellows who are not so fortunate. Rather we do this for them than they do this for us!

THIS IS BAD

It is disagreeable to face the fact but our present day youngster who enters into the world of business, has a belief that it is distasteful to us, though there are those older who agree with the youth. According to a recent poll, there is found that 80 percent of our American youth figure that knowing the right people is more important than in doing a job well. They believe, 80 percent of them, that it isn't their ability that will win for them but the importance of the people they know who will give them what they seek. This is a question that has been discussed around many a table and unfortunately the solution has been in favor of "knowing the right people." In other words, it is the amount of pull that you have. The poll of opinion regarding this matter was not taken of the views of the older heads but we are fearful that the percentage would be high on the same side. How many times you have seen a chap well-fitted for a position give way to a less capable boy because of matters of political indebtedness, relationship, or money backing. We are sure that there is still opportunity for the boy who can go from the bottom to the top for success has not gone with the wind and ability is not lost in the modern survival. We must not encourage our children to believe that could influence over true worth, of pull over push. That would be to admit defeat for our youth, and would signify throwing up our hands in resignation against fate.

STOP HERE

We should get our share of the tourist business here in this county for we have a part in furnishing scenic beauty to the country and about our section might be found various spots of historical interest to those who would seek it. The many people who like to vacation near home, those folks will welcome motor trips that offer such virtues in the way of something worthwhile for not much money. The majority of those who wish to vacation near home, those folks will welcome motor trips that offer such virtues in the way of something worthwhile for not much money. The majority of those who wish to vacation near home, those folks will welcome motor trips that offer such virtues in the way of something worthwhile for not much money.

SO MUCH DOWN

Most everyone thinks of new schemes to make money and even the railroad takes a drastic step in starting intangible buying of train tickets. It has long been a question then whether the method of any installment purchasing really helps a nation, but evidently the railroad figures that this business of extending credit could apply to a train ticket as well as a living room rug or a bedroom suite. Of course you have to establish credit and your proposed trip must cost $50 or more before you can expect to use their plan. Your paper is open-minded and tries to keep up with the times, but we are old-school enough to figure that a fellow should have the price of his ticket before he takes his trip.

NOT HERE

With so many motorists on the road as the touring season swings into full speed ahead, there goes up the cry of speed traps and unjust fines imposed by rural authorities. The city drivers have complaints of trifling infractions that are imposed on them with heavy fines by small town authorities who take this means of collecting revenue. This is not true in Boone County and yet we can name some places where such is occurring. There are many traps that are speed traps and necessarily so in order to cut down the number of accidents. There are more cases where drivers are ignoring lights and stop streets than there are where they are called unjustly for failing to observe them. There must be regulations in all towns, regardless of size, but we do not condone any unfair advantage taken to fatten the town's till.

BACK FAITH WITH CASH

In a recent address, President Robert M. Hanes of the American Bankers Association, said that if ever there was a time when America needed to be on guard, it is now—once our personal liberties were lost, they would never be regained. The nation's duty now is twofold: Prepare against possible invasion; keep out of foreign war. He said: "The bankers of America are behind the President's defense program 100 per cent. They are ready to finance that program."

As in the past, private banking is preparing to give all its energies to the service of the country. Banking has faith in America. Banking will back that faith with dollars. National rearmament means that great new factories must be built and old factories expanded. It means that obsolete machines must be replaced by new. It means difficult and costly readjustments throughout the whole industrial structure. And to achieve this, willing minds and hands, vital as they are, are not enough. Money, vast amounts of it, is necessary. And the banks, as Mr. Hanes said, are ready with the money.

Today all industry is unified—eager to do all it can to perpetuate our American way of life. And banking is among the most important servants that we have.

THIS IS RAILROAD COOPERATION

The first pledge of industry's wholehearted cooperation with the new air expansion program came from a railroad. William M. Jeffers, President of the Union Pacific, said in a full-page advertisement:

"There can be no doubt, in the light of world events, that America needs an air force second to none. 'There can be no doubt' that supported by the cooperation of American industry the genius of United States plane builders can find a way to meet any demands put upon them."

"Attention centers today on the building of military ships. As citizens of the United States, we stand four square behind such a project."

"As transportation men, we see another need—strengthen commercial aviation too."

"Anything which increases the speed of communication and travel knits the nation more closely together."

"That is what transportation has been doing since the first railroad was built, what it must continue to do if America is to develop and be secure."

"Some may see in this a diversion of business from the rails to the air, which at first thought would seem to work against our self-interest."

"That is the narrow view. 'It ignores the fact that in times like these cooperation counts for more than competition, and that intelligent self-interest starts with helping the nation strong.'"

"What helps the country helps all business, and what helps business helps the railroads."

"On that basis, we welcome the growth of aviation, and to the speeding of its expansion program we pledge full cooperation."

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 7

JOB TEMPTED TO DOUBT GOD'S GOODNESS
LESSON TEXT—Job 2:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—In all this Job stood not, nor charged God foolishly.—Job 1:22.

Poetry has in all ages been the language of the soul. Feelings beyond the reach of the choicest prose seem to pour forth unhindered through the poetic channel. That is one reason why Christian people find such a response in their own souls as they read the magnificent poetry of the Bible. For the next three months we are to be privileged to carry on a study of the poets of the Bible. None of us should miss a single lesson.

The book of Job deals with and solves the fundamental problem, "What is the meaning of the suffering of the righteous?" Our first lesson presents Satan as the great adversary and accuser of man, and reveals that man may successfully resist him by faith in God.
I. Satanic Accusation (vv. 1-5).
The lesson opens with a scene in heaven, where the angelic beings present themselves to give an account of their activities. Satan, too, is there as the adversary and accuser of men's souls. He had already, by God's permission and as a test of Job's faith, destroyed all of Job's property and had taken from him his family (see Job 1:14-19), but he had not destroyed Job's trust in God (1:21).

Now Satan had a new charge; namely, that Job could bear the losses of his children and his riches, but if God would permit his own body to be afflicted, he would deny God. It is the familiar refuge of those who would lie about the service of God to say, "He is in it for what he gets out of it." Those who use that lie do well to recognize the originator of their calumny; they are working with Satan when they thus hinder the Lord's work.

II. Spiritual Integrity (vv. 6-10).
The trial of Job was most severe, for only his life was spared. His afflictions were evidently a series of boils on his skin (which would have been bad enough), but a systemic condition which made his whole life a sick and mad thing. His repulsive skin was to live with other people (see Job 7:1-5, 14, 15; 16:8; 19:17-20).

Not only did he suffer physically within a reach of his life, but he was subjected to the mental and spiritual torture of having the one who should have stood by him—his wife—urge him to renounce his faith in God and deny his Creator. Many who have borne crushing physical pain have broken down under spiritual cruelty, but Job still maintained his integrity.

Why God permitted him to suffer he did not yet understand, but he knew God and he was willing to take from His hand evil as well as good (v. 10) as long as His heavenly Father was in control. What a testimony!

III. Sympathetic Friendship (vv. 11-13).

His wife and neighbors had abandoned Job, and even the children of the street despised him (19:18), but he did have three friends. Thank God for friendship—not the fair weather kind, but the type that stands by in the hour of trouble. These friends apparently came from a distance (vv. 11, 12) and at some sacrifice of time, effort and money. Friendship that doesn't cost anything usually doesn't amount to anything.

Notice the intelligent and sympathetic manner in which they shared his sorrow. They were themselves sorrowful (v. 12) and they sat with him, not saying a word. In the hour of deepest need words are futile and often only add to the sorrow, but how much it means in such an hour to have someone who will sit with him, and yet sympathetically, stand by. One could wish that his friends had continued as they began and not later have spoiled their comfort by many important sounding but foolish words which the Lord had to condemn in the serious words found in Job 42:7, 8.

We shall see the answer to the question regarding suffering in our lesson for July 21 as being that man might be brought to really know God and to see himself in the light of God's holiness. Thus, by victory through testing, man proves to himself and to his fellow men that God is worthy of our fullest confidence, that faith in Him will bring us through the deepest darkness and the severest trial.

Roots of Evil
To abolish evil its roots must be dug up and exposed in the sunlight, where they will wither and perish. These roots thrive underground and are cancerous.

No More Vanity
Ye shall see no more vanity, nor divine divinations; for I will deliver my people out of your hand; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.—Ezekiel 13:23.

Many mothers are now wishing that schools offered courses in how to help around the house.

We still contend that a woman's place is not behind the steering wheel.

FOR PICNICS

A nice picnic refrigerator can be made by packing a large tin can tightly with ice and cover it securely. Place this in the center of a lard can and line the lard can with newspaper to keep the inside cool. Pack your foods around the center can of ice to keep them fresh. This acts as a cooling unit for a long enough time for your picnic.

SALVATION ARMY ACTIVE

IN AIDING WAR REFUGEES

The following cable from The Salvation Army's International Headquarters in London, England, was received (Wednesday, June 5) by the New York offices of The Salvation Army, 120 West 14th St.

"The Salvation Army is doing its utmost to meet the pressing needs created by the new military situation in Europe.

"At request of the British military authorities, The Salvation Army rushed six mobile canteens to the southern coast of England and ministered to thousands of British, French, and Belgian soldiers brought over from Dunkirk. The naval and military staffs could not supply the provision refreshments at once. Canteens, which were ready for immediate action, distributed the distribution of tens of thousands of cups of tea and coffee, and thousands of pies, cakes, and sandwiches were given to the men free.

"Members of The Salvation Army staffs, assisted by volunteers from International Headquarters of the Army in London, toiled incessantly night and day. Our workers saw large groups of men standing fast asleep as they waited for food. A local baker suspended business to bake thousands of meat pies.

"Salvationists dispatched many telegrams to relatives informing them of the safety of their loved ones.

"The London Red Shield Clubs of the Salvation Army were visited by thousands of returning expeditionary force men.

"Paris Salvationists also assisted thousands of fleeing refugees from northern France. Many who were footsore and bleeding had walked 120 miles. At Palais Du Peuple, hundreds were bathed, washed, bandaged and provided with beds by The Salvation Army. Nine children accompanied one woman who was taken to a maternity home where her tenth child was born.

"The pitiable human suffering seemed endless. Similar scenes were witnessed at the City of Refuge, Young Men's Home, Plaisance Hotel, (Salvation Army Institutions) and at other places.

"Salvation Army Officers met refugee trains at the North End and East End Paris stations and gave every assistance to stricken refugees.

"Salvation Army canteens in South France, which are staffed by English Salvationists, are meeting many needs among the troops. The activities included feeding the men not otherwise provided for, running mobile canteens for men going up the line, and the cheering and fortifying of men facing danger.

"The latest Canadian war work development by The Salvation Army is the opening of a hotel in the west central part of London by the Honorable Vincent Massey, High Commissioner for Canada."

Posture From The Ground Up

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT

9th and Madison Covington

The shape of the body is maintained by a frame work of bones fastened together at the joints by ligaments. Muscles attached to the bones by tendons help to hold the bones in place and move the movable ones. The strong flexible column of bones known as the spine or backbone is the great supporting center of the body.

From the ground up, body balance depends upon the even distribution of weight about an imaginary center axis. Whenever you move, many different sets of muscles, bones, and joints function as levers in adjusting the weight masses of the body so that you can keep your balance. While standing or sitting, movement may be so slight that it is barely noticeable. In playing strenuous games, such as tennis or football, thousands of adjustments must be made at high speed.

The feet play a very—very—important part in body balance as they support the entire weight of the body both in standing and in moving and hold it upright against the downward pull of gravity.

Feet—distorted in shoes and weak shanked shoes, that do not hold the bones in posture—make it impossible to maintain body balance. Unbalance can cause many ills and distress in remote parts of the body. Backaches, headaches, and even nervousness or poor digestion may be caused by the shoes you are now wearing—Ad.

NOT SO EASY

A favorite game with a subscriber we pass on to you. He calls it "Cards in your Hat" and plays it alone or as a contest. Place a hat, bottom side up, about 5 feet in front of where you stand. This goes on the floor, by the way. The crown acts as a bowl to hold the cards that you try to place inside, one at a time. There is a trick to the flipping and it takes practice to be good at this. If playing in a contest use two hats, two different decks of cards and score by points as, Aces 15 points face cards 10 points, others five points.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

The surrender at Paris, which was followed almost at once by the collapse of French military resistance, was more than a disaster for the French Republic, more than a great victory for Hitler's incredible war machine. It was a symbol of the cataclysmic changes that are taking place at a bewildering speed in the world we live in. For Paris, with London, has long been associated in men's minds with freedom—with all that democracy means. And democracy is what Hitler, as he said and wrote time and again, is out to destroy. Paris is—or used to be—a living example of all that Nazism abhors.

Little by little we are coming to realize that this is not a war in the traditional sense. It is, instead, a revolution with the most far-reaching purposes imaginable. There have always been victors and vanquished in war. But, once the peace treaties were drawn, the world went on much as it did before. The victorious powers did not attempt to force a government, a philosophy of life of their own choosing, on the conquered. Few are able to believe that if Hitler wins he will be satisfied with such rewards as financial reparations, the restoration of the pre-war German colonies and similar material gains. For Hitler, as Mein Kampf vividly indicates, is consumed by two ambitions. One is to make the German race master of all Europe, and perhaps, in the fullness of time, the world. The other is to destroy the capitalist system, liberalism in government, and the democratic process. We have many an object lesson in the countries he has so far taken. In every instance, freedom of press and speech and all rights of protest, have been abrogated 100 per cent. While the forms of local government are permitted to exist, all important decisions and policies are made in Berlin. Revolt of any kind against Nazi orders is punished with the utmost severity. And racial minorities, especially the Jews, are ruthlessly oppressed.

Men who have had contact with high German circles have lately been describing what they believe a Hitler victory would mean to Europe in which only the German, the master race, would be permitted to bear arms. A European customs union, completely German controlled, would be established. The smaller nations would disappear, or would exist as mere geographical entities without power or real meaning. All currencies would be dominated by Germany, and Germany would establish the terms on which trade between peoples could be carried on. The gold standard, of course, would cease to exist. It would be replaced by some sort of a barter system. The "superior" peoples of Europe—the British, the French, the Scandinavians, etc.—would command a high standard of living, while the "inferior" peoples, such as the Slavs, would be much in the position of slaves, performing the hard labor and receiving in return just enough food and clothing and lodging and medical attention to keep them alive and able to work.

So far as this hemisphere is concerned, there are two theories. One is that, after Hitler had consolidated Europe, he would attack the Americans with military force. The other is that he has no such plans—which is what he said in his recent interview with the second news correspondent. The second theory has many authoritative adherents. Hitler, they say, feels that the Americans would have to come to terms with him whether they wished to or not, in order to dispose of their surplus commodities and manufactures abroad. The Americans he reasons must have foreign trade—and that necessity would drive them to join in whatever system of commerce he establishes. Our gold—and at the moment we have some 60 per cent of all the world's monetary gold—would be useful only for filling teeth and manufacturing jewelry.

One note of optimism is occasionally sounded. Even if Hitler wins an overwhelming victory in Europe, some hopefulness, he will not be able to put his plans into effect. This is based on the fact that all the empires won by conquest in the past have invariably collapsed sooner or later of their own weight. Conquered peoples are not cooperative—a tremendous part of the conqueror's energies and resources and man power must be given to policing them. And in time, the conqueror grows rich and soft.

So much for speculation. This seems sure—tomorrow's world, no matter who wins this war, will be a vastly different place than the world of today. There will, say the authorities, be famine, depression, constant social and economic upheavals. The future for all nations is far from bright.

SPIDERS MENACE TO EVERGREENS

Red spiders are a menace to evergreen at this time, reports N. R. Elliott, Kentucky College of Agriculture landscape specialist. Hold a white sheet of paper under the plant's branches and tap the branch gently—if red spiders are present, the sheet will be covered with tiny, red, moving objects. If the home owner has access to water pressure, spray the plants with a hose once every 10 days. Use all the force obtainable. Do this when the sun is not on the plants. Another control is to keep the plants dusted with a finely ground sulphur. A bean beetle dust gun may be used. Apply the dust in the middle of the day when the plants are dry, once every 10 days to two weeks.

OUTSTANDING ATTRACTION PROGRAM

Seldom, if ever, has the Dearborn County Fair, which will be held at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, July 22-27, inclusive, offered to its fair patrons such a high class and varied program. Hoagland's Society Hippodrome acts a party 22 head of the finest horses in the country. In addition there will be six other troupes and a daily balloon ascension. Here is an opportunity to see World Fair attractions at the least cost. Don't fail to send for premium book.

"Destination Unknown"

These are the "refugees to nowhere." This family happens to be Belgian, but there are hundreds of thousands of others like it in France, Holland, Norway and Finland. No armored plate protects them. No supply trains bring them food. No commander finds them a place to stay when night falls. No expert strategist tells them where to continue their weary trek, or how. Father and grown son are not there to help them. All hope is behind them; in front lies nothing but horror and frightful uncertainty.

War strikes the civilians first and makes them suffer most. Battles are fought in the streets of their small towns and on the fields of their small farms. Invading battalions crush their homes, shops and schools. Foragers seize their crops to feed soldiers, and confiscate their livestock to haul supplies. Nothing remains for the "refugees to nowhere."

It is to help them that the Red Cross is asking for $20,000,000. Your local Red Cross Chapter has a big part to play in raising that sum of money. It needs your help, because you and your neighbors are the American Red Cross. We know you will heed the cries from the "refugees to nowhere," and that the Red Cross flag of mercy will never come down. Give as much as you can to the Red Cross War Relief Drive—today.

BIG CLOVER WHERE SOIL WAS TREATED

Red clover and orchard grass yielding two tons to the acre on the farm of F. G. Burnett near Williamsburg, is an example of Clover and grass mixtures all over Whitley county, where limestone and phosphate were applied, says County Agent Wilcox Carter.

The Burnett field was sowed in March, 1933, with a mixture of 8 pounds of red clover, 10 pounds of orchard grass and 5 pounds of phosphate. The clover is now in full leaf and the grass is growing well. Little is expected to show up this year, but by June 1 this spring it was 6 inches high. Carter says he is watching with interest how the lespedeza does after the clover is out.

ANEMIC CHILDREN RESPOND TO MILK

Adding milk to the diet did much to correct anemic condition in groups of children studied by research workers in the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Forty-six children sent to a fresh air camp made quick response to an extra half-pint of milk a day. Sixteen school children, found deficient in hemoglobin, were given a half-pint of milk at the morning recess, and made steady improvement over a period of 17 weeks. In another group of 76 children examined for anemia, 31 were selected to receive milk. Hemoglobin regeneration occurred in every case, although recovery was not complete in some instances. The studies are being continued and effects noted where both milk and egg yolk are given.

A BIG RECORD COW

A two-year-old cow in the herd of M. D. Harrison & Son, Graves county, Kentucky, produced nearly 62 pounds of butterfat and 1,209 pounds of 6 percent milk in the first month of her lactation. This is about a third of a year's production of the average farm cow in Kentucky.

Lots of women who don't wear much would do a lot of hollering if it was because of poverty.

If you aren't known as a tightwad, somebody is pretty sure to label you a spendthrift.

National Corn Champ Tells How It's Done

The winner—Clark W. Dellinger.

It wasn't done with mirrors, that record-making official yield of 180.1 bushels of corn per acre which made Clark W. Dellinger, Clark County, Indiana, 1933 national champion corn producer. The enormous production was the result of a systematic use of the latest and best corn-growing practices.

The five-acre plot in a 14-acre field on the Ohio River bottom which Dellinger chose for his crop was naturally fertile, but it came a long way from the perfection which he set as his standard. The land had usually been planted to corn. Last year he allowed it to make a tremendous undergrowth, which was plowed under about nine inches deep in May. The land was fitted by two double discings, two harrowings, and two cultipackings before planting. Corn of the Johnson County white variety, of his own growing and selection, was planted late in May. It was rowed three feet each way, with from two to three kernels per hill.

Though the land was rich, he knew that it had been used and was not up to its own virgin fertility, so he added fertilizer of 0-16-6 analysis, applying it to the hill at the rate of 125 pounds per acre. Six cultivations during the growing season cleared the way.

H. R. Smalley, Director of Soil Improvement Work, The National Fertilizer Association, commenting on why the corn champion used fertilizer on rich soil, said, "Big yields take fertility from the richest soil. The grain alone removed from Dellinger's land 250 pounds of plant food per acre. A 50-bushel corn crop, including stover, removes 156 pounds of plant food from the land—32 pounds of nitrogen, 29 pounds of phosphoric acid and 25 pounds of potash. Return of this plant food to the soil is essential to continuing yields."

MOVIE FEATURES PASTURE PROFITS

Hollywood gives us movies which star dogs, elephants, penguins, and even a pig like the one Will Rogers cherished in "State Fair." But "Green Acres," an all-color movie now making the rounds of farm meetings, is the first one to elevate "Bossy," the milk cow, to stardom. Included in her supporting cast are beef cattle, sheep, hogs, and horses. But "Bossy" gets all the fat lines—and that's no joke, as farmers will observe when they see the picture at one of their farm meetings.

The picture tells the story of pasture improvement which today is making its way into the front rank of up-to-date profitable farming practices. "Despite the fact that pasture is the cheapest feed that can be grown for any kind of livestock, pasture improvement is just beginning to receive the serious attention it deserves," said R. H. Lush, Pasture Specialist, The National Fertilizer Association and co-director of "Green Acres." "It is a crop that responds to plant food, lime, and good management. Results of hundreds of experiments and demonstrations conducted by State Experiment Stations have spotlighted its value to every farmer."

"Every well-fed cow," said Mr. Lush, "eats the equivalent of 100 pounds of grass a day. The cost of producing 100 pounds of digestible nutrients from cut is $2.62; from corn silage $1.54; from corn grain $1.38, while pasture produces this amount for $64."

The results of 34 experiments also showed that the cost of producing 100 pounds of beef on unimproved unfertilized pasture was $4.05, while the cost on fertilized pasture was only $2.71. The same experiment showed that unfertilized pasture produced only 12.6 cents of milk per acre, while the treated pasture made 44 cents.

Results of 7 years experiments at Illinois, Iowa, and Ohio showed that pastures produced only 65 pounds of beef cattle per acre, while carot grass and legume pastures fertilized produced 291 pounds of beef per acre.

What's the Answer?

By EDWARD FINCH

THIS custom dates back to the time when men bartered for their brides and took with them their best friends to aid and advise them in the negotiations. It was assumed that the prospective bridegroom was under great strain and that he needed assistance both mentally and physically for the days immediately preceding the ceremony, so his friend, the "best man" of the two, acted as his personal guardian until the knot was tied!

HOW TO PROTECT CROPS AGAINST NATURAL ENEMIES

CHICAGO—In the never ending battle against plant diseases, weeds, insects, and the destructive effects of frosts and storms, farm crops that are fertilized are likely to fare better than those that are unfertilized.

This is the conclusion drawn in a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. "Fertilizers are often associated only with increased yields," the statement points out, "yet tests have proved that they promote a sturdier growth that enables plants better to withstand their natural enemies."

"It has been demonstrated repeatedly that fertilizer gives practically every farm crop a quicker start. This is especially important in the spring when rainy weather may delay planting a week or ten days beyond the normal date."

"It has been found that fertilized corn, for example, can be cultivated several days earlier than unfertilized corn. This gives the farmer the jump on weeds. Moreover, the fertilized plants are usually stronger and thus able to resist late spring frost more easily. Experiments have shown that fertilized corn has withstood, without injury, a temperature several degrees lower than unfertilized corn could withstand."

LIFE AND DEATH OBLIGATIONS

Every man has two vital economic duties. One is to provide financial security for his family in the event of his death. The other is to provide financial security for himself if he lives past the years of his earning power.

There are a number of ways in which these goals may be reached. If you are one of the type persons with large earnings, you can set an adequate amount aside. Or you may put your trust in investments, which may or may not prove valuable.

However, for the average man, there is but one way the goals may be reached. That is the life insurance way. By putting aside a small amount periodically during the years of maximum earning power, you assure for yourself a sizable amount when those years are over. It is a tribute to American thrift, foresight and self-reliance that some 60,000,000 citizens have chosen the life insurance method of providing security.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

The 4-H club has been a great agency making for greater success in after life, healthier mental attitudes, more poise and more skills—one of the reasons why farm life surpasses city life in the year 1940."—Dr. Margaret Ratliff, University of Kentucky psychology professor, speaking at luncheon.

Livingston county boys and girls who are club members have had several hikes and tours during the first part of summer. Picnics also are scheduled for the summer. Among matters considered at recent meetings have been woodcraft, first aid, swimming instruction.

In Owsley county, building household furniture and equipment has occupied club members. Dressing tables, work tables, chairs and even book-cases easily can be built at home, at small expense, it was found.

Last month in Perry county, 63 community meetings attracted a total of 955 youngsters. Sixteen regular club meetings were held, and County Agent C. H. Flannery reports "unusual success with project work, according to tentative surveys."

A gallon of large, luscious strawberries was given to each member of the Kiwanis club at a strawberry festival held in Jackson county, by 4-Hers grateful for being sponsored in the project. "I never saw such berries," said one Kiwanis member.

Marshall county club members have seeded 42 pounds of black locust seed, to have seedlings ready for planting next year. This is the largest amount planted so far in any 12-months' period, and should produce an estimated 50,000 seedlings.

"Why is it that a woman who works with her head tied up in a towel, always looks busier than a woman who doesn't?" Weavers from Japan are establishing silk factories in Brazil.

Eliminate Weeds To Improve Pasture Land

By eliminating weeds on pasture land farmers can develop a better soil to control erosion and provide more and better grazing for their livestock, according to Ward T. Darnell, CCC Camp Superintendent.

Weeds complete with pasture grasses for plant food, moisture and space, and shade out many of the more desirable plants. Mowing weeds before they have a chance to go to seed is one of the best ways of eliminating this unprofitable crop.

One mowing won't do the job. Mr. Darnell points out. Weeds come in cycles and pastures must be mowed several times during the growing season to prevent reseeding. Each successive crop of weed seed must be destroyed before the seed matures.

Mr. Darnell emphasizes that when mowing bitweed, it is essential to set the cutter bar so as to clip only the flower. Bitweed develops flowers at the point at which the plant is clipped and mowing close to the ground, the first time makes it difficult to reach the flowers thereafter. Being an annual it is necessary to mow bitweed often enough to keep them from producing seed.

Controlling weed growth in pastures has far reaching effects, Mr. Darnell said. Grass is given a chance to grow, erosion is slowed down or eliminated, and the land is made valuable for producing feed for livestock.

SAVES ALFALFA HAY BY MAKING ENSILAGE

While rain was damaging the first cutting of alfalfa on many farms, Will Sloas, a Warren county farmer, saved his crop by making it into silage. As fast as the alfalfa was cut it was run through an ensilage cutter. Molasses added, and a silo filled. One hundred tons were saved this way, County Agent Ray Hopper of Warren county reports.

Mr. Sloas says he uses a silo as a safety measure in alfalfa hay production. If the weather happens to be right for proper curing, he bales the hay. Otherwise, it goes into the silo. This procedure is not new on the Sloas farm. He finished out the feeding season this year with about 100 tons of alfalfa silage put up last year.

4-H MEMBERS GIVE QUALITY EGG SHOW

"What is a good egg?" Everyone likes them, dieticians approve them and the great American public will pay premium prices to get them. The volume of Kentucky's egg industry is tremendous—the only improvement needed is in quality. In Grayson county at a farm rally day program, County Agent E. T. Faulkner and two 4-H club members put on a demonstration of what constitutes good eggs. At a long table, they placed white containers in rows. They broke eggs of varying size, age, color, freshness, etc. into the containers, and let the farmers file by to see the results. The 4-Hers stood by to point out good points and defects. "Every farmer to top the market in egg sales" was adopted as a slogan for 1940-41.

KENTUCKY FARMERS RECEIVE $9,847,597

Estimated total payments already made or to be made to Kentucky farmers cooperating in the 1939 Agricultural Conservation program are $9,847,597.50. The State office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today.

Through April 30, more than 98 percent of the total or $9,839,884.50 had already been certified for payment, leaving an estimated $207,713 to be approved by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Most of the checks for payments that have been certified were delivered to farmers of the State during the first four months of 1940, and county offices continue to deliver the checks as they are received.

Included in the total amount of these payments are the cost of lime and superphosphate supplied to cooperating farmers as grants of aid under the 1939 program and field and office expenses connected with local administration of the program.

Approximately 75 percent of the payments to Kentucky farmers was made to repay them in part for carrying out soil conserving and soil building practices such as seedling legumes and grasses, spreading legumes and grasses, and terracing, and planting forest trees.

FOR FISHERMEN If a spring flows it to cool your favorite stream that is well. Fish usually stop feeding when water temperature is over 72 degrees.

Today there is a new gadget on the market used as a fish thermometer. When held in the water it registers the temperature according to depth. This gives the fisherman an idea of where to fish for the kind of prey he wants.

Gayety Theater News

THURSDAY and FRIDAY

Bing Crosby and Victor Schertzinger, a couple of fellows who should know, agree that haunting South Sea Island melodies will remain in public favor long after five has gone its way. Star and director of "Road to Singapore," respectively, the picture, will be shown at the Gayety, they contend that the purity and simplicity of native songs is the key to their magnetic hold on the public. Several songs deriving from South Seas Island tunes are heard in the picture, among them being "Kai-goon." Co-starred with Bing in the picture are Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.

SUNDAY and MONDAY

Most of Hollywood's celebrities have their foot and handprints as well as their signatures imbedded in the cent in front of Grauman's Chinese Theatre.

But one of the greatest showmen of all time, Sid Grauman himself, had not performed the ceremony.

This error of omission on the part of Hollywood was rectified during the filming of the new 20th Century - Fox production, "Star Dust," starring Linda Darnell.

Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox production chief, persuaded Sid to play himself in "Star Dust" and as the action called for Linda Darnell to record her hand and footprints in the famous forecourt, Zanuck decided that it was high time that the showman be accorded a place of honor all his own.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY

Acting means one extreme after another to Tom Coley, juvenile lead of Paramount's "Dr. Cyclops" technicolor thrill drama. After a year and a half in "Our Town" in which he appeared on a stage devoid of all scenery, he now makes his film debut among some of the most spectacular settings and properties in film history!

For the Technicolor drama tells the story of a diabolical doctor who turns humans into tiny creatures fourteen inches tall and watches their behaviour in a world grown preposterously large for them! Albert Dekker has the title role of the malign scientist.

GIVING FIRE THE GATE

The birth of a new industry is aided by many problems. And one of these problems is to provide it, at the lowest possible cost, with essential protection against the menace of fire and related hazards.

From the fire insurance expert's point of view, no two industries are exactly alike. Each has its own special risks. Each must be studied and analyzed with immense care. Each is a separate job. And unless that job is done with maximum success, any new industry's development will be retarded.

The fire insurance industry has done a fine work in meeting that obligation to American industry. As Colonel Layton of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, recently pointed out, fire insurance has never failed, when called upon, to swiftly meet the needs of new industries for vital protection against the ever-present danger of fire. And fire insurance doesn't work on the theory of getting the largest possible premium for each dollar of insurance written. It works on the opposite principle—to provide the lowest possible rate consistent with the safe and sound operation of its business.

BURNS FATAL TO HEBRON WOMAN

GASOLINE STOVE EXPLODES
IGNITING CLOTHING OF MRS.
DELLA D. SIEKMAN—ENTIRE BODY IS BURNED.

Mrs. Della D. Siekman, 57, wife of Fred Siekman, died at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, Tuesday night of last week of burns received when a gasoline stove exploded in the kitchen of her home two miles northwest of Hebron.

Orville Craddock, employed on the Siekman farm, ran to the house when he heard Mrs. Siekman scream. He jerked the burning clothing from Mrs. Siekman, then ran to the side of a nearby road where she collapsed. Finding the kitchen, an adjoining room and the telephone on fire, Craddock had to go to a nearby farm house to summon aid.

Mrs. Siekman was rushed to the hospital in a private automobile, where she lived only a few hours. She was burned on the face and the entire body.

It was thought that Mrs. Siekman had been cleaning a gasoline stove and that fumes were ignited when she stated a fire in the same room.

Damage estimated at approximately $800 was caused by the blaze, which the Hebron Volunteer Fire Department extinguished.

Mrs. Siekman was a life-long resident of Boone County, and was well known and loved through the entire county. Her passing is deeply mourned by her many friends.

Mrs. Siekman was one of a family of twenty-one, thirteen of whom survive.

She is survived by her husband, Fred Siekman; two sons, Wilford and Lloyd Siekman, both of Hebron, and two daughters, Mrs. Howard Acra and Miss Frances Siekman; two half-brothers, Emanuel and William Goodridge; five sisters, Lillie Goodridge, Conner, Anna Mae Goodridge Meyers, Ida Goodridge Sprague, Flora Mae Goodridge Stull, and Bessie Goodridge Zimmer; six brothers, Smith (Mike Goodridge), Charles Goodridge, Allen (Eben) Goodridge, Edgar (Caddy) Goodridge, Thomas Goodridge and Lehman (Doc) Goodridge.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Bullittville Christian Church, with Rev. Noble Lucas conducting the services. Interment was in the Sand Run cemetery.

Bullock and Catherman, Ludlow funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

TRAINING MEET HELD THIS WEEK

FOR A. C. P. SUPERVISORS—CHECKING OF FIELD PER-FORMANCE TO START NEXT WEEK.

Twenty-four applicants for 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program field supervisors are attending a three-day training school at Burlington on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 24th, 25th and 26th, and Friday, 11, 12 and 13th of this week, according to John E. Crigler, Secretary of the County A. C. P. Association. An examination will be given each supervisor at the close of the training period.

Supervisors will start checking field performance the first of the coming week. Each supervisor will be expected to check an average of four farms per day. All farms in the County are expected to be checked for 1940 A. C. P. benefit payments and 1940 A. A. tobacco acreages under Marketing Quotas by September 1st.

Farmers are urged to give field supervisors all cooperation possible when they visit the farm. Supervisors in most instances will be young men who have been given specific training in collecting necessary data for preparing the farmer's 1940 application for payment. His job is simply one of co-operation and assistance to the farmer and his local association. The job in many respects is a difficult one but if full cooperation is rendered there will be a minimum of expense both to the farmer and to his association.

CHAS. RILEY IS NAMED DELEGATE

TO NATIONAL CONVENTION—
JOHN S. JUETT OF GRANT COUNTY WILL ALSO SERVE AS DELEGATE.

Chas. W. Riley, County Attorney of Boone County was selected as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which will be held in Chicago at the State Convention held in Louisville Tuesday of last week. John S. Juett, representative from Grant and Boone Counties will also serve as a delegate from the Fifth District.

At the State Convention the Fifth District did its preliminary work within a few minutes, all details having been planned before hand. With Henry A. Berndt as Chairman of the District Convention, Judge Joseph Goodenough of Covington rapidly read from a paper every motion put before the body, motions were all seconded by another of the state machine's men, motion that nominations be closed by another and the "It's" prevailing closed nominations as "so ordered" almost before anyone had a chance to slip in a dissenting vote.

Judge Frank Tracey made a speech followed by Brent Spence, who made a defense speech after which the convention picked Jas. A. Diskin, Newport; Henry A. Berndt, Covington; Mrs. Eugene Mosely, Bedford; and Mrs. C. F. Creelless, Falmouth; as members of the State Committee. The district elector is Ballard Clark, of LaGrange.

The State Convention at the Army was at 2 o'clock. Kentucky's 22 delegates to the Chicago Convention were instructed to vote for President Roosevelt for a third term, and shouted approval of Senator Alben W. Barkley as their favorite son if the President does not want the nomination.

Senator Barkley and Governor Johnson addressed the convention before it recessed at 4 o'clock for a night session devoted to the routine business of naming delegates to the National Convention and ratifying a new State Central Executive Committee of forty-four members.

SPENCE MAKES FORMAL BOW

TO VOTERS OF BOONE COUNTY —WILL BE UNABLE TO MAKE ACTIVE CAMPAIGN DUE TO WORK IN WASHINGTON.

Brent Spence, popular Congressman from the Fifth District of Kentucky makes his formal bow to the voters of Boone County in this issue of The Recorder.

Mr. Spence has served this district for the past several years, and has filled the office very efficiently. He is well known throughout this county and has always received a good vote here.

In a letter received from Mr. Spence Monday, he states that he will be unable to conduct an active campaign, due to official business in Washington, but may have a few days to visit some of the voters. He solicits your support, which will be highly appreciated.

Mr. Spence's letter follows: "I am a candidate for renomination as a member of Congress from the 5th District of Kentucky in the Primary Election to be held on Saturday, August 3rd, 1940.

"At this time of National emergency, when it is impossible to know what the immediate future may bring forth, it is necessary for the members of Congress to remain in Washington.

"Because of world conditions which may affect our country, I will not return home to conduct a campaign for renomination and reelection. I may be able to return for a few days, but I must rely upon my many loyal friends to assist me in this time of stress.

"If reelected, I shall devote my entire time and energies to the discharge of my duties, as I have done in the past.

"I earnestly request my friends to look after my candidacy during my enforced absence. My experience and the position I have attained in the House of Representatives enables me to represent my constituents with increasing effectiveness as time goes on."

FIREMEN TO FROLIC SAT.

VOLUNTEERS SPONSOR PICNIC AND DANCE AT ZIMMER
GARDENS, FRIDAY AND SATUR-DAY, JULY 12-13.

Preparations have been made to accommodate the largest crowd ever to participate in the annual picnic and dance of the Volunteer Fire Department of Florence which will be held Friday and Saturday, July 12 and 13th at Zimmer Gardens, according to officials of the department.

Visitors are assured of a day well spent at the picnic Friday, with concessions of every description, and many devices of entertainment.

During the day Saturday visitors will enjoy picnic routine, and Saturday night those who care to dance will be highly entertained by a Cincinnati orchestra which has been employed by the firemen, and is said to be one of the best in Greater Cincinnati.

This event has been held each year for the past five years for the benefit of the firemen. Money received from these annual picnics has been used toward purchasing new equipment, and at the present time Florence has one of the best equipped fire fighting organizations in this section of the state.

Officials of the state have used good judgment in the purchasing of equipment, and have looked toward future requirements, buying modern machinery at all times at the lowest possible cost.

Everyone interested in the control of fire should attend this picnic and show they are interested in helping a worthy organization that protects the homes and lives of each individual in Florence and surrounding territory. Show your appreciation by your presence Friday and Saturday of this week.

YOUNGSTERS ARE WINNERS THURS.

IN BASEBALL GAME WITH OLD TIMERS—"PAP" BRADY ON HILL FOR OLD TIMERS STILL HAS PLENTY ON THE BALL.

Attention Mr. Robert Ripley: Believe it or not? A sixty-nine-year young man pitched nine innings of baseball against a bunch of supposed to be fair amateur and semi-pro youngsters at the Burlington, Ky., baseball park July 4, 1940. And in so doing did not allow but three "really solid base knocks" (this young man was Hubert "Pap" Brady, a star of the diamond before Jimmy Foss was born). Don't be misled that the youngsters were not trying to fatten their batting averages. There was just too much "something on the ball."

The old timers finished a bad second as far as runs were concerned but first in the league of bravery and backaches.

The supporting cast to "Pap" Brady's one-man show was as follows:

Les McBee, who probably looks better at switching trains than wearing a mask. (Note: Information from McBee Jr., states that "Daddy" dropped 82 pitches and made 9 wild throws.) Mac's work however did show that at one time he was a snappy alert catcher.

At the initial hasek was "Lum" Tolin. Though not displaying record-breaking speed or agility he brought back memories to many of the fans of the days past when "Lum" could really do his stuff.

"Bucky" Clore held down the keystone sack and was mixed up in what "could have been" about a dozen double plays. But "Bucky" still displays a heady and alert brand of ball.

At short stop was Walter Brown who started as a "kid" short stop in 1915 with this same array of veterans. Though a bit more active and peppery than his cohorts on Thursday—Mr. Brown rode to and from work Friday.

Completing the inner defense was Joe Brady, another young veteran. Joe may not be the pitcher he was a few seasons back, but he still makes a clothes-line throw across the infield (and who ever has more fun playing ball than Joe Brady?)

Now imagine an outfield composed of Earl Smith, Hop Clore and Hubert "Babe Ruth" White. (Only two ten-second men in the trio). But there wasn't much work for them to do except to go to and from their positions.

Others participating in the slug-fest was "Pop" Craddock—seller for Casey Jones McBee; Courtney Kelly, who by the way, can still show his heels to most of the youngsters in these parts; Clifton Roberts, a former Burlington performer, W. Keene Southern, who began his career when gloves were worn only by the catcher and sissies and Rube Akins (81 years young) who handles a bat and his feet like a drum major does his baton.

Really you missed something when you missed this ball game. The combined age of this old model team is 716 years. (44 players) or an average age of 51 years.

Quotations on Sloan's Insurgent and Easy Shoulder crutches jumped more points than did batting averages this week.

STROKE FATAL TO ALFRED PORTER

HAD BEEN RESIDENT OF BOONE
COUNTY FOR PAST 75 YEARS—

Mr. Porter had been a resident of this county for the past 75 years, and operated a farm near Burlington at the time of his death. He was known for his honesty and square dealing with everyone.

He is survived by two sons, Omer and George Porter of Burlington; two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Alford, of Louisville and Mrs. Lawrence White of Hyde Park, Cincinnati; and twelve grandchildren.

Her body was removed to Chambers and Grubbs' Funeral Home for preparation, after which it was returned to her home and laid in state until Thursday afternoon.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon at the Bullittville Christian Church, of which she was a member, at 2 p. m. by her pastor, Rev. Noble Lucas. Burial was in Hebron cemetery.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Grace McMurtry, three sons, Otto, Henry and Earl Souther, all of Boone County and six grandchildren. Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of arrangements.

AN ESSENTIAL

Wanted: the spirit of sacrifice. This was one of the four reasons attributed to the failure of France to win against Germany. We cannot honestly discuss this situation here in America without having a foundation for such a belief. There are many of us who have criticized the country for its lack of preparedness and shifting its eyes to an approaching disaster. Others of us have repeatedly complained against the sum of war equipment and bringing upon ourselves trouble by asking for it. Do many of us stop to consider that a war might be lost because of its people to sacrifice? It causes a bit of retrospection as to whether we would sacrifice any more than did the French people, or as much. We are reminded by someone that we did it during the last war and we can do it again. The sacrifices would be greater, the demands more sweeping. We have been especially favored with luxuries in this country for many ordinary possessions are only enjoyed by the wealthy classes in other lands. Our living standard has been the highest, our pleasures more numerous. So can such a people being so blessed by years of having, pinch and save and do without until it hurts? If called upon to do this, if the necessity arises and we pray the need may not come, we can pledge Boone County to a unanimous "Aye."

OTHER USES

Man has misused many of those inventions that science originally intended for purposes not so harmful or destructive. The cases of man turning various implements of inventive genius into forces that kill and maim, are numerous. The Chinese, when they invented gunpowder, were interested principally in turning this discovery into the manufacture of firecrackers. Gunpowder has gone too far since those days! The parachute schools of Germany, after schooling in the landing on enemies during this war, date back to 1783 for the first recorded parachute leap. At that time a French doctor guided this contrivance to the ground after leaping from a tower. He hoped his invention would prove beneficial in assisting people trapped on the roofs of burning buildings. The deluge of chutes in 1940 on the land of the French doctor, was a far cry from the intended purpose. We must not put all the blame on science.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Despite the fact that most towns have public playgrounds for the pleasure of the children during summer months when idle hours are occupied in health buildings, there are still too many youngsters who insist upon playing in the street. Though they have been cautioned by parents and press of the danger in darting back and forth in traffic as they dodge and sidestep in front of cars. The number of accidents caused is enough to make the plea worthy. If the child persists it is up to the motorists to look out for them and slow down when a group of children are playing in the street.

WE EAT WELL

Europe's refugees are depending upon this hemisphere to draw upon their surplus wheat to give bread. We are better able to supply food stuffs than we were during the war of twenty-five years ago. Our food basket has been overflowing, and the emergency has found our relief work including a goodly share of produce badly needed by hungry people. We are informed by economists that this coming winter will see one of the worst famines in history. As we look out over our hardy gardens and growing expanse of fields as we sit ourselves down to Boone County tables laden with fresh vegetables and fruits, let us be thankful deeply and sincerely.

FIRE YOU MIGHT HAVE STARTED

Did you ever think of all the fires you might have started? You've probably thrown burning cigarette butts out of your window on hundreds of occasions. If luck was with you, nothing happened. Had luck not prevailed, one of those butts might have been the source of a fire that would have destroyed a fine farm, grain stacked in fields, or thousands of acres of irreplaceable woodland.

Remember the time you put a penny back of a fuse to get the electricity flowing? You were lucky that time too, as the house didn't burn down. There was a very good chance, however, that it would.

And how about all the odds and ends of junk you've stored away in attics, closets, basements, etc., figuring to get rid of them one vague future day? Accumulations like that may go on for years and do no harm—or, if the breaks are against you, they may start or feed a destructive blaze any minute.

And don't forget those occasions on which you took it for granted that you'd get away with postponing necessary heating, wiring, chimney and similar repairs until another time.

All of us have come within an ace of starting fires on more occasions than it is pleasant to count. And every so often luck turns—and life and property is needlessly destroyed as a consequence. Keep that in mind—and you won't be taking so great a chance with fire in the future.

A COMMON GOAL
The head of an agricultural organization recently pointed to the virtues of farm marketing cooperation. This, he said, is necessary to successful, profitable farming. And he then said that marketing must be two-fold. It is not enough for farmers to cooperate among themselves—they must also cooperate to the full with our other great economic groups, industry and labor.

The principal farm marketing co-ops have long worked on this theory. And that has been largely responsible for their undoubted success. No one group can stand alone and apart in this country—only when all groups work together toward the attainment of a common goal can progress for all be assured.

IMPROVED
SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for July 14

JOB'S STRUGGLE TO FAITH IN LIFE AFTER DEATH
LESSON TEXT—Job 14:13-17; 17:13-16; 19:23-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—Job 1:1. "I know that my redeemer liveth—Job 1:23."

If life ends at the grave, it has comparatively little meaning and its sorrows and sorrows are hardly worth bearing. Job, living in all probability about 1,500 years before Christ, did not have our knowledge of the resurrection of Christ and the assurance that life is but the "first fruits of them that sleep" and that we too shall rise (see I Cor. 15:22, 23). But in the midst of suffering, disquieting questions and spiritual conflict he looked with the eye of faith all the way beyond the grave.

The background of our lesson is found in Job's experience with his three professed comforters, who speak thus:

"Eliphaz: But who ever perish being innocent (4:7)? Be glad that you are being corrected (4:7). Job answered my question and I will keep still. Show me where I am wrong. What does your 'proof' prove (6:24, 25)?"

"Bildad: Do you think God perverts justice (3:27)? Ask the men of the ages. Consider what our fathers taught (8:8). Job: It is all the same; God destroys the righteous with the wicked (8:22)."

"Zophar: Do you expect to understand God? Put evil away (11:7, 14). Job: I know as much as you do (13:2). Your burning remembrance of ashes (13:12) would like to reason it out with God (13:3). I have stated my case; I am righteous (13:8)."

"The three friends have not helped him, but Job struggles on alone with the problem."—Dr. Carl S. Knopf.

I. Uncertainty—"If a man die, shall he live again?" (14:13-17).
Job, while maintaining that he was righteous, felt that his sufferings indicated that God was displeased with him. He thought he might seek relief in Sheol (R. V. in place of "grave" in V. 13), the abode of the dead. But suddenly he turned again to the hope which was dear to his heart; namely, that somehow there must be a blessed future life with God.

He asked the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" The fact that he asked it, however, indicates that he was not certain that the answer to his question was "Yes." How blessed it is that we know, for we have not heard the voice of the One who, standing before a grave in Bethany, said, "I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live" (John 11:25).

II. Hope—"Where, then, is my hope?" (Job 17:13-16).
Eliphaz had again sought to set Job right by accusing him of vain, impatience and pride (chap. 15). Job answered (chaps. 16 and 17) that his friends were worse than useless as comforters, being so sanctimonious in their assurance of his wickedness, when in fact he was only a man who was on the verge of despair, but still holding to his faith in God.

He asked out, "Where, then, is my hope?"—undoubtedly thus expressing his bewilderment, bordering on complete despair. Yet do we not even in the question see that he still had hope? The man who has given up hope, "There is no hope"; but Job continued to hope against hope, crying out, "Where is my hope?" knowing full well that his only hope was in God.

There is a lesson here that we do well to learn. Whatever our situation may be we shall find that God is there and that we may trust Him.

"Does all the world seem against you and you in the battle alone? Remember, at 'Wit's End Corner,' is where God's power is shown."

III. Faith—"I know that my redeemer liveth" (Job 19:23-29).
What blessed vision and what glorious faith! Job lived in the time of Moses or before. He had no Testament—no old Testament—but he did have God, and by faith he believed that God was to make Himself known to man here on earth as a living Redeemer.

We say that we know because we have the record of His coming; of the Son of God incarnate; of His bearing our sins on Calvary; of His death and resurrection again; of His ascension to the right hand of the Father, and His coming again in glory and power. Job, however, had to reach through doubt and darkness to faith in life after death. How much richer should be our faith, infinitely more precious, stirring us to loving obedience and service for Christ our Redeemer.

A Blessed Inheritance
Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to His abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you.—I Peter: 1, 3, 4.

NO PASSPORT NEEDED FOR TRAVEL TO CUBA

A recent statement that the Cuban Government intended to demand passports and visas from American tourists entering Cuba is untrue, according to Senator Jose Tourist Commission of Cuba. Many American newspapers carried the inaccurate announcement.

The Cuban travel official has written to leading American travel organizations since the story appeared, informing them that the report erroneous. Mr. Cline bases his denial on official information from the Cuban State Department.

United States citizens can continue to visit Cuba under the same conditions that have prevailed in the past—neither passports nor visas are required.

SIXTY PER CENT SIGN-UP ASKED

IN ORDER TO BE IN EFFECT BY NOVEMBER 1, 1940, MANY INTERESTED PRODUCERS RECEIVED BY PROMOTIONAL DIRECTOR.

There are those who insist, and upon good evidence, that the growers of burley tobacco constitute a group of dirt farmers that find it most difficult to join together in any cooperative movement in the interest of every grower. Individual interest and confidence in his ability to get the high dollar for his tobacco give him a complex that it is hard for him to get beyond.

However, the pressure is becoming so great and the next winter prospect so disquieting that more and more inquirers are developing concerning the situation. To provide the answer the Cooperative Association of Burley Producers has prepared and is offering to the growers what authorities in Washington and students in the production marketing fields everywhere agree is the best marketing agreement ever developed for the tobacco industry anywhere.

This marketing agreement, which will go into effect this coming tobacco marketing season if 60 percent of the burley allotment acres can be signed up by November 1, 1940, has in it the following outstanding elements:

1. It is a marketing agreement among landowners and lessee growers, who through the contract agree to deliver to and sell thru the Cooperative all the tobacco raised on their lands or on lands under their control.

2. This landowner or lessee grower pays an initial membership fee of $5.00 for his land and crops and agrees to allow the Association to retain up to 2 percent of the gross sale price for the reserve fund.

3. The tobacco delivered is to be graded by Government or Association graders, commingled on baskets carrying the same approximate weight, offered for sale in green order in seasonal competition and the "distress" tobacco only withdrawn, prized and held for improvement in quality and demand.

4. Any member may withdraw from the Association after 1941 by serving notice of such intention during the month of March of any year.

5. Each member will receive his participation receipts on delivery of his tobacco, an advance up to 75 percent of the value of his delivery; and at the final settlement for each year every member will receive the same price for the same grade of tobacco.

6. The Association is to use as far as practical the established warehouses and other plants and facilities now established.

7. Cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in the tobacco program is definitely agreed.

Other elements enter into the agreement, but these items are the important ones.

Write to W. J. Clarke, Promotional Director, Owenton, Ky., for further information and watch your local paper for additional news.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORD

ESTABLISHED 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1940

VOLUME 65

NUMBER 7

WARNING ISSUED ON TAX INCREASE

ON PRODUCTS BEARING DEFENSE PROGRAM—PRICES IN EXCESS OF DEFENSE TAXES IMPOSED BY ACT OF 1940.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has had its attention called to the fact that in certain instances dealers in articles subject to the internal revenue taxes have raised the prices of these products to consumers in amounts considerably in excess of the defense taxes imposed by the Revenue Act of 1940. The Bureau has received reports that a number of such dealers have represented to their customers that such increases in prices are due solely to the imposition of the defense taxes.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue issued a warning today that under section 3225 of the Internal Revenue Code, whoever in connection with the sale or lease, or offer for sale or lease, of any article, or for the purpose of making such sale or lease, makes any statement, written or oral, intended or calculated to lead any person to believe that any part of the price at which such article is sold, or leased, or offered for sale or lease, consists of a tax imposed under the authority of the United States, or ascribing a particular part of such price to a tax imposed under the authority of the United States, knowing that such statement is false or that the tax is not so great as the portion of such price ascribed to such, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

HOME GARDEN TOURS HELD

BY BOONE COUNTY HOMEMAKERS CLUBS COOPERATING IN 1940 BETTER GARDEN AND LIVE AT HOME PROGRAM.

Boone County Homemakers Clubs and farmers are cooperating in a 1940 Better Garden and Live at Home Program, according to Mary Hood Gillespie, Home Demonstration Agent, and H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

The Homemakers' Clubs have sponsored a special project on better gardens this year. Six clubs, Verona, Constance, Rabbit Hash, Hebron, Petersburg and Grant held garden tours the past week. Walton, Burlington, Francesville, Taylorsport, Beaver, Union and Hillsville clubs will hold tours in the near future.

Splendid gardens supplying an abundance of vegetables for present and future use were seen on all these tours. Practically every homemaker's garden visited had one or more new vegetables grown for the first time. There was also a good variety of vegetables planted at regular intervals for uniform supply throughout the season and a good weed and insect control program has been followed. Fanning demonstrations on new methods of keeping surplus vegetables for winter supply were given as part of the afternoon program of the tours.

Farm survey of representative farmers of this section indicates that a good farm garden represents approximately twenty-five percent as much cash value as is the average net farm income. A good garden means that the family can be well fed on most home-grown food.

Both farm and suburban families have paid less attention to home gardens in recent years. This is considered a distinctly unfavorable trend. Both agricultural and home economics clubs are stressing the economic and social importance of good home gardens in a better "Live at Home" program.

VISITORS BARRED FROM U. S. DAMS

ORDER ISSUED BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT JULY 11TH—BUSINESS VISITORS REQUIRED TO CALL DURING DAY.

E. E. Newman, Lockmaster at Dam 38, stated Saturday that all visitors will be barred from the grounds of U. S. Government Dams 29 to 39 on the Ohio River and from 1 to 14 on the Kentucky River.

This order was issued by the federal government to all lockmasters July 11th and stated that all persons would be prohibited from trespassing on the above mentioned dams and was to go into effect immediately. The order was issued by Fred P. Bass, district engineer.

Mr. Newman further stated that anyone having business to transact at the dam would be required to call during the day time, as no one would be allowed on the premises after sundown.

Mr. Newman gave no explanation concerning the order, but it is generally thought that the order was issued to prevent foreign agents from obtaining information and pictures of the dam and its working parts.

Fishing will be permitted below or above the dam as heretofore, it was announced.

WEED GROWERS MUST COOPERATE

IN ORDER TO RECEIVE FAIR PRICE FOR BURLEY—ORGANIZATION NECESSARY SAYS W. J. CLARKE.

After ten years of experience in raising burley tobacco for an average of $16.70 per hundred pounds at the farm (Government figures) the grower has come to the place where he is inclined to say: "Oh, what's the use? I've made it this year, but I guess I can't keep it up a whole longer. The Manufacturers have it their way anyway and what can we do about it? And anyhow we are not going to sell before December and I am thinking only about raising it now."

Yes, these ten years have gotten the grower rather groggy, but he is still on his feet, or thinks he is, and is disinclined to take on any more worry until he's on his back, which prone condition is definitely in prospect this fall.

As speaking of Cooperative marketing, the growers ask—"wasn't the old pool a failure? It got Jim Stone a big salary, and the fellow outside the pool got plenty for his tobacco, but what did it get the members?" These are typical attitudes and common expressions, but they do not satisfy the thinking burley grower or hint at any solution to the most disquieting position the producers of burley tobacco have been in for a quarter of a century.

We have a three-year supply of burley tobacco already on hand, 50 percent more than the manufacturers need to maintain blends. The last time we had as much the price we got was $10.50 per hundred pounds. The prices have been on the decline for four years, having dropped from $35.70 in 1936 to $17.47 in 1939. The prospect is for another 10,000,000 pounds surplus in the 1940 crop. All chance of exporting any burley tobacco is gone. There will be a lot of flue-cured tobacco in competition with burley this year. The price will soon be set for this flue-cured tobacco, and we remember that the price of flue-cured and burley run rather close together.

From every angle from which the burley grower can be approached the answer always is—"Burley growers must have a co-operative organization to represent and protect their interests." Membership in the Cooperative Association of Burley Producers is low, but good is needed. If you are interested write W. J. Clarke, Promotional Director, of Owensboro, Ky., for literature and a copy of the marketing agreement.

BIG BONE MOVES TO THIRD PLACE

IN BOONE COUNTY BASEBALL LEAGUE BY VIRTUE OF 10 TO 1 VICTORY OVER BURLINGTON.

Standings in the Boone County baseball league tightened considerably as results of last week's games.

Big Bone, by virtue of a 10-6 victory over Burlington, replaced the county seat boys in third place. The contest was marred by loose play on both sides. Aylor was on the mound for Big Bone with Atkins and Guiley twirling for the losers.

Hebron Has Big Day
Hebron had a big day offensively at the expense of Bellevue. They pushed across 19 runs, while Bellevue was able to make only three. Bellevue, however, was not a full strength for the game.

Sand Run won a forfeit contest from the league-leading Petersburg nine and thus get their first mark in the win column for the year.

Burlington Nips Constance

In one of the most interesting games of the season Burlington defeated a good Constance team at the local ball park Sunday by a 6 to 4 count. Constance took an early lead of one to nothing and held it to the sixth inning when they pushed across 3 more runs.

Burlington added one in their half of the seventh and pushed across five in the eighth. The game was marked by some brilliant defensive work. Aylor pitched excellent ball for the first seven innings for the losers. Guiley served them up for Burlington.

Burlington will play at the Hebron Park Sunday afternoon. These two teams are about evenly matched and a good game is in the offering.

Games Saturday
Petersburg at Burlington.
Big Bone at Bellevue.
Hebron at Sand Run.

How They Stand

Team	Won	Lost
Petersburg	8	3
Bellevue	7	4
Big Bone	6	5

ACP SUPERVISORS CHECK ACREAGE

FIFTEEN MEN APPOINTED BY STATE OFFICE TO CHECK FIELD WORK—SEVEN EXPERIENCED MEN NOW IN FIELD.

Fifteen field supervisors have been appointed by the State Office to check 1940 field work under the Agricultural Conservation Program, according to John E. Crigger, Secretary of the County Association. These men are expected to complete tobacco acreage measurements, reports of soil building practices carried out and other field work during the next 45 days.

Seven experienced field supervisors went to the field Monday. Those starting Monday were Wilbur Florence in Verona community; Carvin Goodridge in Hebron community; Wm. H. Huey, in Burlington; and Florence communities; Wm. H. Moore, Hebron community; Vernon Stephens in East Bend; Virgil S. Vice in Burlington and Grant communities and Thurman L. Wolfe in Walton community. Eight new men were expected to start the last part of this week.

The securing of field reports is one of the most important jobs for farmers cooperating in the program. Farmers are urged to make sure tobacco acreages are properly measured and reported. Soil building practices including seedings, limestone, phosphate, green manure crops (wheat, rye, barley, soybeans, etc.) turned under and all other practices are reported. Each year many farmers lose credit on their tobacco acreages through failure to report all the practices they have carried out.

Farmers are also urged to render field supervisors all cooperation possible. They are hired and paid by your local Association to secure the farmers' reports that are necessary for him to secure his benefit payments. All farmers who are growing tobacco this year must have their tobacco acreages measured by an approved supervisor before a tobacco marketing card can be issued. A farmer who may delay this work may cause considerable delay in the selling of his crop at marketing time.

NOMINATION OF ROOSEVELT SEEN

FOLLOWING SPEECH OF ALBEN W. BARKLEY TUESDAY NIGHT—HUGE DEMONSTRATION IS STAGED FOR PRESIDENT.

As the Democratic National Convention neared the half-way mark, it was apparent that delegates would draft Franklin D. Roosevelt for the nomination. Harry L. Hopkins campaigning for a third term for President Roosevelt said Tuesday night: "Just as I believe the great masses of the American people want Mr. Roosevelt nominated by this convention, by the same token I believe the American people will elect him overwhelmingly next November."

Hopkins also ventured the prediction that the Democrats would not wait until Thursday to make the nomination, as the convention program provides, but would adopt the platform Wednesday afternoon and renominate the President Wednesday night.

Pat Nash, former Illinois National Committeeman said: "The delegates will nominate Roosevelt whether he wants it or not." Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who passed most of the evening with Hopkins, also called for the nomination of President Roosevelt.

"There is only one thing for the delegates to do," Wallace said. "National security and national defense come first."

"The President, and only the President, has the experience to pilot this nation safely through the troubled times ahead."

"Undoubtedly Roosevelt will be drafted," said Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania. During the course of Alben W. Barkley's speech, the name of the president was mentioned, and a huge demonstration, lasting for approximately thirty minutes was held.

Following Barkley's speech a message from the President was read to the delegates by the Senior Senator from Kentucky, releasing all delegates pledged to support him. However, it is expected that Roosevelt will be drafted before the close of the evening session Thursday.

ADDITIONAL PENNIES

There are reports coming from the nation regarding the addition of pennies to liquors, gasoline, movies and many other things. The general consensus of opinion is that there is not wide-spread disapproval of the increase of cost since this tax is a way of paying for a national suit of armor, of stopping the hole in the dike with pennies to keep the flood from our homes. When we know of the heavy armament taxes that other countries are paying on small salaries, food, necessities and luxuries of all types, we know that we are not suffering so much. The English people are portioning, rationing and stinting until it hurts. The cost of an auto plus the heavy new tax over there has made it a luxury to own one. You have to pay pretty well fixed to buy petrol to fill the tank. Our new taxes are needed to pay for the national defense program and however we might side politically, we are all of one mind—to protect our own!

We are only human when, as taxpayers, we insist that our money be well spent. There are too many taxes that are foolishly voted and there probably isn't a voter who hasn't a grievance of some kind over some one tax. But this new levy, for our country's protection in time of great trouble, is money that we do not really begrudge. So when the reports come in that there are very few complaints over the additional pennies, it makes Boone County folks feel that in such unified sentiments we are a stronger nation. This is a bulwark against the storm.

WE ARE PROUD

Every community has its disgruntled citizen, its knocker and our town are no exception as much as we would like to think that everyone who lives in this county back their town. There is nothing much more detrimental to us than to have a "knock" thrown our way. This holds true about the nation as well, and when another country places us in a false light we do not drop the case until we prove them in the wrong. We dig up the facts and work it out all over again. It has been said of us that we are trying to make money from the war as we did during the World War, that we will not fight but will profiteer from those who fight for us.

We get out old data and dust off a few statistics in order to reply. Concerning national war expenditures and profits we re-discover a few items that are heartening to the nation's self-respect. Our country gave two billion dollars to help rebuild Europe after the World War. We went a bit further and marked off as paid three billion dollars of debts then by other countries. We give more for charity each year than all of the other nations put together and we give more towards religion in one year than Great Britain does in five. So if we are a nation of money-grubbers we spend our ill-gotten gains in some Christian ways.

A NEW PROGRAM

The first of July the Department of Labor began a new radio series for Saturday morning listeners entitled, "This Might Be You". The program has been offered for the protection of the American worker by using actual experiences from the lives of working people where arise problems over compensation, wage collection, minimum wage and various other laws covering every day cases. The Department of Labor informs us that fifteen mailbags of letters come to it each day from workers who do not know how to go about claims. Due to this and in order that all may more fully understand the laws this series is formed. Remember, "This Might Be You".

GOING TO FAR

A mid-western university has recently notified a number of former students that they will not be admitted this next fall. It becomes a case of radicalism playing too prominent a part in the college classroom. Some colleges knowingly accept communism within the ranks where groups of impressionistic youngsters "act radical" to be different or cause a disturbance. Many of them do not honestly believe in it. Many schools have fought this situation and not with a trace of hysteria or "down with them". It is displaying sound sense to convince the student that democracy is the ideal government and if he desires to follow ants and isms he should not do it at the expense of the state that is educating him! All of our readers believe in free speech and the personal pursuit of happiness, if that is what the young radical wants, but as taxpayers they don't want to help pay the expenses while the propaganda is spread.

ENJOY THROUGH SAFETY

We have asked for the use of sound judgement regarding travel in traffic during the highway busy months. Continue to safeguard your health by watching the water spots when you stop to drink while enroute. You want to be sure the water is as safe as you are certain that the milk is safe. People in strange places are not being over-cautious in watching for clean sources of supply.

Also, the cry of healthful sunshine is true when the beneficial rays are not taken in overdoses. It can be overdone. And again, "hang your clothes on a hickory limb and don't go near the water". If you don't happen to swim well and aren't acquainted with the spot. Too many drownings occur because someone stepped into a hole in the river.

Have a nice time on your vacation but return home in good shape for Boone County needs you.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

FOR JULY 1, 1940

Kentucky's crop prospects July 1st indicated greater than average production of corn, wheat, barley, tame hay, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, pears, and grapes, and less than average production of tobacco, oats, rye, and peaches, but in comparison with 1939 crops this year's prospects are for greater production of wheat, oats, barley, rye, tall tame hay, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, and pears, about the same production of corn as in 1939, and less than last year's production of total tobacco according to the U. S. Agricultural Marketing Service July 1 crop report.

Kentucky's 1940 acreage of tobacco, of all types combined, is estimated at 346,800 acres, or about 10 percent less than the 384,900 acres cut in 1939. Wheat in this State apparently will produce about 5,625,000 bus. compared to 4,071,000 bus. in 1939 and a 10 year average production 1929-38 of 5,366,000 bus. Corn acreage in Kentucky is about 2,816,000 acres the same as the 1939 acreage, with a July 1 prospect for about 70,400 bus. production if average growing conditions prevail hereafter, compared with 70,400,000 bus. produced last year and an average annual production 1929-38 of 64,084,000 bushels.

Based on records of previous yields of tobacco in Kentucky, this year's acreage, with average conditions, would produce about 294,448,000 lbs. of all types combined, compared to 343,100,000 lbs. of all types produced last year, and a 10-year average annual production of 320,407,000 lbs. 1929-38 inclusive. Type of tobacco produced in 1939: 333,966,000 lbs. from 380,800 acres; the year before, 394,708,000 lbs. from 432,200 acres last year; Hopkinsville-Clarksville-Springfield dark fired 54,362,000 lbs. from 64,500 acres compared to 52,460,000 lbs. from 62,000 acres in 1939; Paducah-Mayfield dark fired 22,524,000 lbs. from 27,200 acres compared to 21,550,000 lbs. from 25,900 acres last year; Henderson fired stemming 672,000 lbs. from 800 acres compared to 664,000 lbs. from 800 acres last year; one-sucker 2,312,000 lbs. from 24,500 acres compared to 22,034,000 lbs. from 24,100 acres last year; Green River 17,632,000 lbs. from 20,500 acres compared to 17,938,000 lbs. from 20,500 acres last year. These preliminary tobacco and corn forecasts are the first of 1940, and the later monthly reports will be subject to revision either upward or downward as the season progresses, depending on favorable or unfavorable weather and other conditions after July 1.

Oats in Kentucky are estimated at 1,197,000 bus. compared to 952,000 bus. in 1939, both years included in the 10 year average. The oat crop is equivalent, as a relatively small proportion of Kentucky's oat crop is actually threshed. Rye for grain is estimated at 204,000 bus. compared to 126,000 bus. harvested last year; barley 1,600,000 bus. compared to 1,122,000 bus. last year; Irish potatoes 4,230,000 bus. compared to 3,864,000 bus. in 1939; and sweet potatoes 2,160,000 bus. compared to 1,968,000 bus. in 1939. Tame hay, including all varieties, is estimated at 1,714,000 tons compared to 1,582,000 tons cut last year. Tree fruit prospects are indicating a probable crop of only 243,000 bus. compared to last year's crop of 562,000 bus. and pears 280,000 bus. compared to 206,000 bus. Grapes are expected to produce about 2,660 tons compared to 2,750 tons a year ago. All these 1940 data are subject to revision, either upward or downward, as the season progresses, depending on weather and other conditions after July 1.

It has almost come to the place in gentlemen farming where a fellow can wear a tie.

JOB'S REPENTANCE AND RESTORATION

LESSON TEXT—Job 42:1-13.
"And the Lord turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends.—Job 42:10.

The problem of suffering, like every other question arising in man's inquiring heart, finds its true solution in a right view of God. Job found it to be so. As long as he and his friends concentrated their attention on his person and his troubles, they only became more deeply involved in confusion and doubt. Much of their discussion was on a high moral and philosophical plane, and they were all doubtless earnest and capable men, but in the end Job learned, and they learned through him, that the real difficulty was that they did not know God.

Then God Himself appeared and before Job a panorama of the glorious works of God and His blessings upon mankind (chaps. 38-41). Where was Job when the world was created (38:4)? Who holds the rights of light (38:19)? What about the glory of the snowflake (38:22)? Job is told to consider the hand of God in the animal kingdom (chaps. 39) and upon those that dwell in the sea (chaps. 41). It dawned upon Job that he had been arguing against the providences of the all-knowing and all-powerful One—the eternal God. In that conviction and the repentance which it brought forth, he experienced—

I. Renewed Fellowship (vv. 1-4).
Job came to the realization that he had not really known God Himself until now. His religious experiences and convictions hitherto, precious and important as they were, had been by "the hearing of the ear," but now he had met God and all was changed. Fellowship with the Lord was renewed, but on an infinitely higher plane. Job had a real revival, in his life which caused him to "abhor" everything that he had said and done; yes, even to set himself aside and to take God to be all and in all.

Our churches are full of people who only know God by hearsay. They have heard about Jesus Christ since their childhood, but they have never met Him. They have read of the Holy Spirit, but they have never known His power. We need a God-given revival, one like the one of which Job said, "I have broken out like fire . . . consuming dead and outworn systems, burning sin like a roaring flame, and casting a new righteousness men's pathways" (E. L. Douglass).

II. Restored Usefulness (vv. 7-10a).
God's rebuke of Job's friends is significant, for it centers not in their failure to deal rightly with Job, but their failure properly to represent God. It is a tremendously serious matter to attempt to tell us what God is like in our day, so others about God, for in doing so we must not in any way misrepresent Him. To stand before men as religious teachers and leaders and not to know Him so well that we represent Him rightly is to invite His judgment and condemnation.

Job, on the other hand, was restored to a place of honor and usefulness. His friends, who thought they knew so much more than he about God, are told to ask Job to pray for them. He thus was afforded the opportunity of returning good for evil and was again enabled to serve God in serving his fellow men. Salvation is by faith (Eph. 2:8, 9); but being saved, we are restored to the place of usefulness to God.

III. Returned Prosperity (vv. 10b-13).
The abundant blessing of God upon Job is described in oriental terms of money, herds of cattle, and of a large family. These are the tangible evidences of God's blessing, and even to us today they speak of a liberal and loving God. God can and does prosper His own obedient children even in material things.

Such outward mercies, however, only feebly represent the blessings of the soul, the ultimate and eternal joys of the spirit. They point us, it is true, to the assurance that as we yield ourselves in unconditional obedience to God's will, we may confidently trust Him with the dark days of sorrow and affliction, as well as the days of sunshine and prosperity. No matter how tangled may seem the threads on this side of the loom, we know that the heavenly Father behind the scenes is weaving the pattern of beauty which shall one day be revealed as we stand complete in Christ.

Death of Saul
So Saul died for his transgression which he transmitted against the Lord, even against the word of the Lord, which he kept not, and also for asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit, to enquire of it.—I Chronicles 10:13.

Temptation
To resist temptation once is not a sufficient proof of honesty.

The reason they call them the rising generation is because they don't do any too much retiring. America is defined as that country which looks far too prosperous to be broke.

SAFETY URGED BY HIGHWAY PATROL

(3) Driving speeds under various circumstances. For the purpose of mechanical efficiency and emergency, the potential speed of your car is far greater than is needed in ordinary daily use. Accidents on the road caused by the improper use of the brakes, or the judgment of the drivers. It is not speed itself, but speed too fast for conditions that really cause this type of accidents. The speed of the car is controlled by a wise or foolish foot on the accelerator or the brake. The driver and the car determine the speed. Keeping speed down sufficiently at all times to make the danger zone ahead of the car reasonably short is a matter of good judgment. Speed zone signs are placed upon main traffic arteries and city streets to aid you in making your judgment short by stating the "maximum speed" limit at which you may travel, but you still must judge from existing conditions whether or not it is "safe" to travel at the maximum.

When coming from the open highway into built-up sections, judgment of safe speeds cannot be made by the "feel." This is the time to let the speedometer be the "judge" even though, by contrast, one seems to be merely "crawling along." Pedestrians, more cross-streets, greater congestion, and other factors in built-up sections require a shorter stopping distance. Driving speed should approximate the speed of other sensible drivers. A driver may be within his legal rights when driving as slowly as he pleases but if he desires to exercise this right there is a certain place on the street or highway that he must be in. The traffic regulation that states "slow moving vehicles must keep to the right" is to aid the driver in his judgment and is also for the protection of other traffic. If he drives his car slowly in the wrong traffic lane he is apt to be the cause of an accident due to the existing fact that he becomes a "traffic obstruction." This delay is irritating to others whose impatience may, sooner or later, cause them to "take a chance" and pass around him, using part of the incoming traffic space of the road and thereby possibly causing an accident. And, certainly, the slow driver retards the flow of traffic causing possibly "jams" at intersecting streets behind him.

(4) Turning at intersections. A driver may have the good habit of moving into the correct lane when he expects to make a right or left turn. Just how he goes about it in any particular traffic situation depends upon his judgment.

Good judgment will cause him to be sure he will not interfere with other drivers and to give the proper hand signal in ample time before starting to change his course.

(5) Following other cars. One's own personal stopping distances have to be considered constantly when following other cars. This is because of personal reaction time and because of different breaking distance of other cars. If, through poor judgment, you follow too closely, any mistake or sudden act of the driver ahead will involve you in an emergency.

The above five examples of traffic situations wherein judgment is always necessary are suggestive of many others. To the list may be added:

(6) Driving in heavy traffic.

(7) Parking or leaving a parking space.

(8) Weaving in traffic.

(9) Driving at night.

(10) Driving in accordance with weather conditions.

Many driving "mistakes" are made because the driver is not well informed. Some drivers, after making a costly mistake, will seek knowledge; other just blame the other driver and continue making mistakes and blaming "other drivers."

"Knowledge and the ability to use good judgment are 95 percent of driving."

SOWS THREE CROPS FOR HOG GRAZING

O. C. Pelley, an Adair county farmer, found rape ready for hogs in six weeks after seeding. Fifteen pigs got most of their living from three-quarters of an acre, says County Agent R. B. Rankin. As the rape grew tall, it was clipped, so new, fresh leaves would develop. Also korean lespedeza was sowed with the rape, to provide grazing when the rape gave out in mid-summer. Then a small grain will be sowed in the field in early fall, so continuous grazing will be available for hogs from middle June to severe freezing weather.

About the only thing America is hiding behind, is a billboard.

PUT TO GOOD USE
Use the old tin can for savings for covering the seats and backs of this year's yard and porch furniture. It is easily done by following the pattern of the worn covers already on the furniture. You can paint the canvas in stripes of all over in plain color. This makes the covering waterproof and covers up the worn look.

CITY WOMAN STUDIES

TO RUN "DREAM" FARM

Among those studying agriculture at the University of Kentucky is Miss Elaine Millon of Michigan. Miss Millon has "the city person's dream"—a small farm, located in this case in Southern Indiana. For 15 years she has been a librarian in Detroit, and still is. With spare time and money, she is equipping and stocking her farm, which she hopes to have in A-1 condition soon. During her vacations, she either gets practical farming experience, or else goes to school to learn the latest methods of agriculture.

Eighty young women have registered for work in home economics during the summer, and 82 men are taking agriculture.

HOT WEATHER HINTS:
Canning: When canning in glass jars, put an old jar ring over each jar at about the middle. When cooking the jars will not touch each other and there is not the danger of breaking.

Fruit Stains: Fruit stains in white linens may be removed by boiling the linens 15 minutes in a gallon of water to which you add a lot of soap and two tablespoons of peroxide. Rinse cloth in warm water and let dry in hot sun.

Flower Box: When you have a lot of flowers and are kind enough to pass along slips of them to friends, use a large box for your "right slip." Whenever a plant is cut, cutting back or a slip is broken plant the flowers in the extra box and have for someone's garden when they ask you for a start.

SENSIBLE SLIP COVERS:
It is difficult to keep light colored cretonne covers of furniture clean in the summer without doing a lot of laundering. A subscriber writes in that she has solved the problem by using two large striped Turkish towels for a cover for the couch, sewing together at one side to hold in place. Small hand towels are for chair backs and wash cloths to match are used for the arms in the place of dollies. These towels can be easily washed in the washing machine.

Now is the time when local moths are preparing surprises in winter's overcoats.

WOMEN No. 1—

Here's a Women:— (Not old)—that cannot do all the things she would like to do. Why? Her feet hurt. Long before the day is over her legs ache and draw. Early in the afternoon her back begins to ache—then her head aches. When the day is over, she is a physical and nervous wreck, glad to be in bed. Now maybe after a night's sleep (if she gets a night's sleep) she hopes the day will bring her some body and foot comfort.

THE SECOND WOMAN:—About the same age—used to suffer day after day like the first women. Someone told her that feet out of balance and not properly supported sometimes caused leg pains—backaches and callouses—headaches and general nervousness.

BUT SHE INVESTIGATED and found that these things can be corrected. After wearing surgical shoes, the foot pains disappeared—Corns and callouses vanished—no more leg pains—no more backaches—no more headaches—and the world seemed bright again—Just like being born all over again.

If YOU are suffering—don't put up with it another day—Investigate today—Your feet may be causing all your trouble.—Adv.

Gayety Theater NewsTONIGHT AND FRIDAY*Two Big Features

Fiery Lupe Velez, famed for her vivacious comedy characterizations comes to the screen at the Gayety tonight and Friday in her latest romantic fun-film, "Mexican Spitfire," in which she plays the title role. This RKO Radio picture is a sequel to Miss Velez' recent "The Girl From Mexico," hilarious romantic comedy.

Continuing her madcap adventures as a Latin in Manhattan, the volatile star is again seen as a Mexican entertainer.

"Millionaire Playboy" will be the other big picture on the twin bill. What happens when an extremely bashful young man is thrown into contact with dozens of beautiful beauties at a romantic mountain resort? "Millionaire Playboy," starring Joe Penner, has the answer—and it's a funny one! The popular comedian is cast as a shy chap who has a fit of hiccups every time he is kissed. To cure him a friend turns him loose among the girls, and for a time it is more kill than cure—but there is dirty work afoot providing thrills with the fun.

SATURDAY

Cattle-rustling along the Mexican border during the 'Eighties comprises the basis of "Bullet Code," RKO Radio's latest starring vehicle for George O'Brien.

Laid in the days when rustlers, blocked in disposing of their stolen herds in this country, were driving them over the line into Mexico, where they could get a good price with no questions asked, the film is said to be one of the most exciting of all the noted outdoor stars' offerings.

O'Brien plays the role of a young rancher who believes that he killed one of his own cowboys during a rustler attack on his herd. In attempting to make amends for the crime he encounters the cowboy's settler-father, finding him deeply involved in a mysterious struggle for possession of his property. Don't miss this big picture.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Something new in the way of Hollywood musicals will be presented at the Gayety when "Two Girls on Broadway" will be shown. Tops in entertainment and fast-moving action, the film introduces a new dance team to audiences in the persons of Lana Turner and George Murphy. This is a happy teaming. Their romantic scenes are delightful and their dance numbers sensational. All in all, "Two Girls on Broadway" is ideal entertainment for the entire family. Don't miss this picture.

TUESDAY

By popular request, "Jessie James" starring Tyrone Power will be at the Gayety for a return engagement Tuesday night. This is one of the best pictures shown in this section in many years, according to many theater fans. You'll want to see this big picture—it's your last chance!

Now is the time when the June groom who was crazy to get married, is finding out that he was right in the first place.

Attorney General OK's "Beer Shut-Off" Plan

QUESTION: "Is it legally permissible, under the laws of Kentucky, for beer distributors to unite by agreement of understanding with each other to withhold the sale of beer from persons selling at retail who are violating the liquor laws, or any other laws of the state?"

ANSWER: "There is no restriction in either the constitution or the Kentucky Statutes prohibiting the making of the kind of agreement referred to in the above question."—(signed) Jesse K. Lewis, Asst. Attorney General.

APPROVAL: "I have read and approve the above opinion, and will add that, in my opinion, the proposed form of agreement is valid and enforceable."—(signed) Hubert Meredith, Attorney General.

This is official approval of the policy of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee to shut off the supply of beer to those few retail outlets in the state that

The Committee invites every clear-thinking, civic-minded Kentuckian to add additional authority to its efforts by patronizing only those retail outlets in which the conditions surrounding the sale of beer are as wholesome as the beverage itself.

TELLS HOW MASTITIS AFFECTS DAIRY COWS

After receiving reports of mastitis among dairy cows, the Department of Animal Pathology of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station issued the following statement:

Mastitis—garget or inflammation of the udder of milk cows may develop from various causes. In practically all cases there is a change in the milk and a material increase in bacteria not normally present in milk.

Mastitis in dairy cattle is important because of any one or all of the following reasons:

1. The direct relationship of hemolytic streptococci, mastitis to streptococcal sore throat in the human.

2. The known relationship of staphylococcal mastitis and the possible role of other bacteria sometimes found in cases of mastitis to digestive disturbances and food poisoning.

3. The physical changes present in milk cows affected with mastitis make it undesirable for human consumption. These changes consist of the pus cells and the products of inflammation that alter the quality, color and taste.

4. The economic loss to the owner through lowered milk production and often the total loss of the cow as a producer. These facts merit consideration by the milk producer regardless of the relationship of mastitis to human health.

Mastitis, resulting from streptococcal infection, is apparently rather easily spread from cow to cow in the herd unless strict precautionary measures are observed. The control, prevention and eradication of mastitis present a problem that demands the most exacting attention of owners and veterinarians. In dealing with mastitis in dairy herds, it has been found that the best results are obtained by frequent clinical examination of the udder, application of the various tests in use to determine the condition of the milk, supplemented by bacteriological examinations to establish the kind of bacteria present.

NAVY EXPANSION MEANS MORE WAGES, SALES HERE

Kentucky will benefit in increased employment, wages and sales resulting from the new Navy expansion program involving construction of 92 combat vessels at a cost of $1,140,000,000.

Judge Lorenzo K. Wood, State Director for the Office of Government Reports, stated today that Kentucky manufacturers of products hardwoods, paints, galvanized and pantry outfit, firebrick, leather, hemp and to a lesser extent many other products used in modern naval construction.

"On the basis of Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates, the construction of 92 vessels will result in $445,000,000 in wages to labor employed in the shipyards," Judge Wood said, "but even more will be spent in wages in the mines and factories where the raw materials are produced, and in transportation."

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimate that 41 per cent of total costs in private shipyards is spent for materials, more than $467,000,000 will be expended for materials and manufactured products for naval expansion. "There are over 200 major industries producing materials used in ship construction," Judge Wood said. "More than $400,000,000 man-hours of work in shipyards and more than $47,000,000 man-hours of work at mines, factories, and in transporting materials will be created by the new program, providing sufficient work to keep equivalent of 242,000 workers employed two full years.

"Although there are more than 40 types of skilled mechanics needed to build a ship," Judge Wood said, "the actual building of the ship requires less labor than does the production of materials used."

LUCIEN BLACK SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE SUNDAY NIGHT ON EAST BEND ROAD

Edward (Jack) Johnson Held in Jail Pending Examining Trial—One Bullet From Pistol Pierces Heart of Victim

A gun battle late Sunday night on the East Bend road near the home of Chester Hill, resulted in the death of Lucien Black, 28-year-old farmer, who resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Black near Big Bone Springs.

The fatal shots were fired by Edward "Jack" Johnson, native of Big Bone, who formerly made his home with Black and had been neighbors for several years.

According to the two witnesses, Clifford Stephens and Hansel Williamson, both Black and Johnson had attended the baseball game at Big Bone Sunday afternoon. There was no sign of any trouble between the two until they were ready to go home. It was stated that they had agreed to meet at the intersection of the East Bend road and the lane that leads to Chester Hill's farm. This spot is more generally known as where the large sycamore tree stands on the East Bend Road.

Johnson and his companions arrived at the lane first. He was accompanied by Hansel Williamson, Clifford Stephens and Bill Black, uncle of the victim. Black had asked Chester Hill for his automobile in order to go to Walton on the following day, and was driving Mr. Hill home before taking the car.

Black was a step-son-in-law of Chester Hill, and he and his wife, Betty, and two small children lived at the Hill home. It was stated that the Blacks had not lived together for several months, however, they were not divorced.

The second car driven by Black arrived at the lane shortly after the first, and the two automobiles went without stopping. The Hill family reported that Black entered the house and had supper before he left. He then returned to the sycamore tree where the other

BURLINGTON NINE TROUNCED

SATURDAY BY PETERSBURG BY SCORE OF 8 TO 2—BELLEVUE TAKES BIG BONE BY 7 TO 5 COUNT.

Petersburg continued their winning streak in the Boone County baseball league Saturday afternoon by defeating Burlington by an 8 to 2 score. The contest was a pitcher's battle between Guiley and Shinkle for the first six innings. Neither team was able to score but two hits until the seventh when Petersburg pushed around two runs. They added four more in the eighth and two in the ninth. Burlington scored one in the eighth and another in the final frame.

Bellevue defeated Big Bone in a hectic game at the Bellevue park by a 7-5 score. Bob Wilcox started for Bellevue and was relieved by Kettle in the fifth.

Sand Run won their initial game of the season Saturday when they defeated Hebron behind the excellent pitching of "Bud" Goodridge, former Hebron moundsman. Turner was on the hill for the losers.

(Note: It was erroneously reported to this writer last week that Petersburg lost a forfeit contest to Sand Run, thus giving Sand Run one victory as against nine defeats and Petersburg eight wins against three losses. The revised and correct stands are as follows:)

How They Stand

Revival Closes At Local M. E. Church

A two weeks' revival closed last Sunday night at the Burlington Methodist Church, with Rev. T. O. Harrison conducting the meeting.

Rev. Harrison delivered very interesting sermons throughout the two weeks and was praised for the splendid messages not only by the congregation of his own church but by members of other denominations.

AC FIELD WORK PROGRESSES

EIGHT ADDITIONAL SUPERVISORS START WORK OF CHECKING COMPLIANCE IN AGRICULTURAL PROGRAM.

Eight additional Field Supervisors were started in the work of checking compliance in the Agricultural Conservation Program last week, according to John E. Crigler, Sec'y. of the County Association. This now makes a total of fifteen men employed for this work by the Association, seven supervisors having been previously employed.

The eight new supervisors are: William C. Conner in Hebron community; William Sebastian, in Petersburg Community; Ernest J. Crutcher, in Burlington community; William A. Barnett, in Petersburg and Grant communities; Harry T. Cook, in Burlington and Florence communities; Homer Lee Osborn, in Walton community; Paul Robinson, in Walton community; and Tommy Williams, in Union and Beaver communities.

The field reports of Supervisors will be promptly summarized and acreages of special crops including tobacco, commercial wheat, and commercial vegetables, will be tabulated and producers will be immediately notified of the acreage of crops and of the total units of soil building practices that have been carried out. If the soil building allowance has not been earned to date farmers are urged to carry out additional soil building practices such as the seeding of various grasses and clovers that can be properly seeded from now until August 31, and the use of limestone and phosphate.

Producers who have exceeded their tobacco allotments will be given a special letter, stating the amount of excess tobacco and the amount of acreage that will be necessary to either destroy or not harvest in order to meet the acreage allotment so that all of the tobacco may be sold without any tax or penalty being deducted. There is a tax of ten cents (10c) per pound on any acreage harvested in excess of the allotment and in addition there is a loss of payment of eight (8c) per pound times the farm yield from the Agricultural Conservation payment.

The County Committee will request producers to destroy excess acreage of tobacco within ten days after notice has been given of the excess acreage.

It is hoped that all excess acreage of tobacco will be destroyed within the allotted time if the producer has in mind only harvesting up to his allotment of tobacco, as this will make the work of checking compliance easier and faster.

The work of checking compliance is several weeks later than last year, but it is hoped that all of this work will be completed before September 1.

FEDERAL AID OF $2,300,000 SEEN

ACT—KENTUCKY TO RECEIVE $31,942.31 AS THEIR ALLOTMENT.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, received notice from Washington today that Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes has announced the allotment of $2,300,000 to the various states for projects to improve game conditions in accordance with the Federal Aid to Wildlife Restoration Act. Notices of the amounts to be apportioned to each state have been sent to the Secretary of the Treasury and the State Fish and Game Commissions.

Kentucky gets as its allotment $31,942.31.

Michigan has the largest apportionment, receiving $127,322.00. Texas is second with $120,297.00, and New York is third with $120,153.00.

BODY FOUND IN OHIO RIVER WED.

HAD MET WITH FOUL PLAY, IS BELIEF OF FAMILY—HAD BEEN MISSING SINCE SUNDAY.

The body of Joseph Luzetti, 25-year-old Cincinnati, which was removed from the Ohio River near Petersburg, Wednesday, was returned to his home in Cincinnati Thursday for an autopsy and investigation in connection with his family's belief he met with foul play. He had been missing since he left the place of his employment Sunday.

His family expressed the belief he had been murdered and his body tossed into the river, because they could see no other reason for his death.

There were no unusual marks of violence on the body, Howard Huey, Boone county magistrate said. He related that there was a few blood spots on the victim's shirt. The body was buried immediately Wednesday because of its condition. Identification was made through a belt buckle, and a key for the home of his brother, James Luzetti, 324 E. Sixth St., Cincinnati, with whom he lived.

Relatives of Miss Lee Wilder, 24 whose body was found in the Ohio River at Fernbank Dam, June 12, planned to ask police to investigate her death in connection with that of Joseph Luzetti, 25, same address, whose body was found in the river at Petersburg.

The mother of Miss Wilder said however, that while her daughter and Luzetti went out together once, there was no reason to connect the two deaths. Miss Wilder's purse and hat were found on a box car coupling near Front Street and Broadway, June 6th.
